New Ground John R. Nolon, 2003 New Ground The Advent of Local Environmental Law presents a collection of papers examining local environmental law and its strategic role in shaping an appropriate response to a new generation of environmental and land use challenges Contributors are distinguished scholars and practitioners who have written casebooks and articles on land use and environmental law served in federal state and local administrations or national bar and planning association committees or prepared national treatises on the subject

Legal Impediments to Effective Rural Land Relations in Eastern Europe and Central Asia Roy L. Prosterman, Timothy M. Hanstad, 1999-01-01 Excessive concentration of land ownership as is feared by many transition governments has not been a feature of land markets where they have been allowed to function relatively freely and where land has been allocated in kind to households and individuals The World Bank has long been active in the Europe and Central Asia region in monitoring and evaluating land reform developments and supporting the development of land markets Bank efforts to date have made a significant impact in our client countries and studies produced by the Bank have been used as impartial references on this subject by both international organizations and the countries themselves This report was developed as a result of these efforts It focuses on The principal issues faced by the transition economies of Eastern Europe and the Former Soviet Union The potential approaches for resolving specific problem issues

Innovative Zoning Rahenkamp, Sachs, Wells, and Associates, 1978

Private Property and the Constitution Bruce Ackerman, 1977-01-01 The proper construction of the compensation clause of the Constitution has emerged as the central legal issue of the environmental revolution as property owners have challenged a steady stream of environmental statutes that have cut deeply into traditional notions of property rights When may they justly demand that the state compensate them for the sacrifices they are called upon to make for the common good Ackerman argues that there is more at stake in the present wave of litigation than even the future shape of environmental law in the United States To frame an adequate response lawyers must come to terms with an analytic conflict that implicates the nature of modern legal thought itself Ackerman expresses this conflict in terms of two opposed ideal types Scientific Policymaking and Ordinary Observing and sketches the very different way in which these competing approaches understand the compensation question He also tries to demonstrate that the confusion of current compensation doctrine is a product of the legal profession's failure to choose between these two modes of legal analysis He concludes by exploring the large implications of such a choice relating the conflict between Scientific Policymaking and Ordinary Observing to fundamental issues in economic analysis political theory metaethics and the philosophy of language

Regulatory Takings William A. Fischel, 1995 State and federal government regulations are disciplined by property owner coalitions whose voice is clearly audible in the statehouses and in Congress

Samuels, 1992-06-18 This collection of articles examines the fundamental non ideological conceptions and relationships constituting the economic role of government especially in market economies The fundamental concepts include the nature of economic policy and the problem of order in economic affairs Un-Making Law Jay Feinman, 2005-10-12 There is an undercover war going on in America that impacts everyone's life far more than the legal issues that typically grab the headlines The conservative movement has been systematically turning back a century's worth of the evolving gains and protections found in the common law the areas of law that affect the everyday activities of ordinary people Throughout the twentieth century contract property and personal injury law evolved to take more account of social conditions and the needs of consumers workers and less powerful members of American society Contracts were interpreted in light of common sense property ownership was subjected to reasonable use provisions to protect the environment and consumers were protected against dangerous products But all that is changing Conservatives have a clear agenda to turn back the clock on the common law to maximize the profits of big business Some significant inroads have already been made to protect gun manufacturers from lawsuits enforce form contracts that prevent employees from suing for discrimination and hamper the government's protection of the environment against aggressive development for example More rollbacks are on the horizon Although this aspect of the conservative agenda is not as visible as assaults on abortion rights and civil liberties it may ultimately have even greater impact on our society Jay M. Feinman's book is an accessible eye-opening primer full of vivid examples and case histories from victims of medical malpractice who cannot recover damages to people who relinquish their right to sue by applying for a job If you subscribe to any of these common myths of twenty-first century America you will find surprising facts and illuminating analysis in Un-Making Law: The All-American Blame Game has corrupted our moral fiber everyone is looking for a scapegoat to sue whenever anything goes wrong Malpractice lawsuits have gone sky-high in recent years forcing insurance companies reluctantly to raise rates and forcing doctors out of practice Consumers and employees agree to arbitration because it is a much simpler less expensive and fairer way to resolve contract disputes The government invades the rights of private property owners when it protects endangered species and regulates land development     The Publishers' Trade List Annual ,1982     Rethinking Commodification Martha Ertman,Joan C.
