Land of Mirrors Maria Medem, 2025-02-18 A Land of Mirrors Alfred Coppel, 1988 The Word, 1916 The Word Harold W. Percival, 1916 Free the Land Audrea Lim, 2024-06-25 An eye opening examination of how treating land as a source of profit has a massive impact on racial inequality and the housing gentrification and environmental crises Climate change gentrification racial inequity and corporate greed are some of the most urgent problems facing our society They are traditionally treated as unrelated issues but they all share a common root the commodification of land Environmental journalist Audrea Lim began to notice these connections a decade ago when she reported on the Native communities leading the fight against oil mining on their lands in the Canadian tar sands near her hometown of Calgary but before long she saw the essential role of land commodification and private ownership everywhere she looked in foreclosure racked suburbs and gentrifying cities like New York City among poor small farmers struggling to keep their businesses afloat and in low income communities attempting to resist mines and industrial development on their lands only to find that their voices counted less than those of shareholders living thousands of miles away Free The Land is a captivating and beautifully rendered look at the ways that our relationship to the land is the core cause of the most pressing justice issues in North America Lim expertly weaves together seemingly disparate themes into a unified theory of social justice describes how the land ownership system developed over the centuries and presents original reporting from a wide range of activists and policy makers to illustrate the profound impact it continues to have on our society today Ultimately this book offers a message of hope by approaching these socioeconomic issues holistically we can begin to imagine just alternatives to fossil fueled capitalism new ways to build community and a more sustainable equitable world In the Land of Mirrors Vesna Teržan, 2017 Looking Inward Jennifer Bryan, 2013-02-12 You must see yourself The exhortation was increasingly familiar to English men and women in the two centuries before the Reformation They encountered it repeatedly in their devotional books the popular guides to spiritual self improvement that were reaching an ever growing readership at the end of the Middle Ages But what did it mean to see oneself What was the nature of the self to be envisioned and what eyes and mirrors were needed to see and know it properly Looking Inward traces a complex network of answers to such questions exploring how English readers between 1350 and 1550 learned to envision examine and change themselves in the mirrors of devotional literature By all accounts it was the most popular literature of the period With literacy on the rise an outpouring of translations and adaptations flowed across traditional boundaries between religious and lay and between female and male audiences As forms of piety changed as social categories became increasingly porous and as the heart became an increasingly privileged and contested location the growth of devotional reading created a crucial arena for the making of literate subjectivities The models of private reading and self reflection constructed therein would have important implications not only for English spirituality but for social political and poetic identities up to the Reformation and beyond In Looking

Inward Bryan examines a wide range of devotional and secular texts from works by Walter Hilton Julian of Norwich and Thomas Hoccleve to neglected translations like The Chastising of God's Children and The Pricking of Love She explores the models of identification and imitation through which they sought to reach the inmost selves of their readers and the scripts for spiritual desire that they offered for the cultivation of the heart Illuminating the psychological paradigms at the heart of the genre Bryan provides fresh insights into how late medieval men and women sought to know labor in and profit themselves by means of books the floating princess , Expanding Perspectives on Human Rights in Africa M. Raymond Izarali, Oliver Masakure, Bonny Ibhawoh, 2019-03-14 This book draws attention to emerging issues around the rights of minorities marginalized groups and persons in Africa It explores the gaps between human rights provisions and conditions showing that although international human rights principles have been embraced in the continent various minority groups and marginalized persons are denied such rights through criminalization and persecution African countries have a good record of signing and ratifying international and regional rights instruments but the political will and capacity for enforcing these with respect to minorities remain weak International contributors to the book provide new perspectives on the rights of marginalized and minority groups in different parts of Africa and the extent to which they are deprived or denied entitlement to the universality and equality articulated in law The authors show that human rights while having come of age as a moral ideal has not been fully entrenched in practice towards groups such as children indigenous populations the mentally ill persons with disabilities and persons with albinism This volume is geared toward scholars students human rights groups policy makers social workers international organizations and policy makers in the fields of criminology security studies development studies political science sociology children studies social psychology international relations postcolonial studies and African Studies

Human-Environment Relations and Politics in Indonesia Kristina Großmann, 2021-08-25 This book analyses how people in Kalimantan the Indonesian part of the island of Borneo relate to their environment in different political and historical contexts Drawing on multi sited ethnographic studies of Dayak people the indigenous inhabitants of Borneo the book examines how human environment relationships differ and collide These conflicting ecologies are based on people's relation to the environment which encompasses the non human realm in the widest sense including forests rivers land natural resources animals and spirits The author argues that relationality and power are decisive factors for the understanding and analysis of people's ecologies The book integrates different theoretical approaches sheds light upon the environmental transformation taking place in Indonesia as well as the social exclusion it entails and highlights the conceptual shortcomings of universalistic concepts of human environment relations An exploration of evolving human nature relations this book will be of interest to academics studying political ecology environmental anthropology sustainability sciences political sciences development studies human geography human ecology Southeast Asian studies and Asian studies their own forest garden adventure From the Ptolemies to the Romans Andrew Monson, 2012-02-02 Compares how two different political regimes shaped the structure and performance of the agrarian economy in Egypt Religion, Federalism, and the Struggle for Public Life William Johnson Everett, 1997-11-27 In the past decade the struggle for new forms of federal order and public life has exploded in central Europe the former Soviet Union and South Africa Religious traditions and organizations have played a crucial role in these revolutions and have also been critical to the establishment of constitutional orders in post colonial countries like India Moreover they continue to undergird and to challenge the understanding of public life in the United States whether in church state conflicts or Native American religious claims William Everett examines the role of religious traditions in the development of modern federal republicanism seeking answers to such questions as How have patterns of religious organization shaped federal republican orders How do different cultures weave together these political and religious threads into a living fabric that fits their own cultural heritage How are Western religious traditions of covenant and conciliarism relevant for understanding religion and constitutional developments in non Western cultures The author argues that a better comparative grasp of these dynamics is essential to our understanding of the establishment sustenance and development of federal republican governance He presents as a first step toward this goal a detailed and comparative study of these patterns in India Germany and the United States Competing Norms Mamadou Diawara, Ute Röschenthaler, 2016-10-13 Review Explores what state regulations mean to people in sub Saharan Africa in the light of already existing local norms with which new regulations compete The contributions to this volume discuss the competing local state and international norms in a diachronic perspective and unfold the intricate ambivalences and contradictions that often characterize these regulations Page 4 of cover Littell's Living Age Eliakim Littell, Robert S. Littell, 1883 Deep Splendor Robert P. Vande Kappelle, 2021-12-02 People concerned with spirituality are seekers instead of possessing truth they seek to be possessed by it Thus a fully spiritual person is forever learning and growing William Blake the seminal mystic poet who worked to bring about change both in the social order and in common ways of thinking taught that all we need to do is cleanse the doors of perception and we shall see things as they are infinite And nothing cleanses and enlarges the doors of perception like great literature Whether it be poetry a short story a novel historical fiction fantasy literature or biographical writing the literary experience is slightly beyond a reader's horizon of understanding When literature enhances spirituality as is true of the dozen or more selections examined in Deep Splendor each literary moment confounds in order to keep us forever enthralled forever longing The authors and works examined in this study explore timeless spiritual themes such as coming of age relationships self integration the struggle of good versus evil the nature of change and the corruptive aspects of power When we think about great literature it is easy to focus objectively on the literature itself on what makes literature bad or good However another essential distinction involves the reader replacing the category good book with that of good reader As master teacher C S Lewis wrote a quality of good readers is that they seek an enlargement of their being

Deep Splendor will teach you how to read great literature and how to be a good reader
