The Irresistible Urge to Preach William H. Myers,2015-12-17 This is a groundbreaking study in the African American religious experience Never before has there been a published collection of oral African American call stories that treats them as a genre worthy of scholarly analysis This volume of eighty six stories was collected in tape recorded interviews over a six year period from 1985 to 1991 Significantly this unique in depth study represents at least eight different Christian denominations Many of the men and women who share their call story in this volume are nationally and internationally known

Women and the Victorian Occult Tatiana Kontou,2013-10-31 Increasingly contemporary scholarship reveals the strong connection between Victorian women and the world of the nineteenth century supernatural Women were intrinsically bound to the occult and the esoteric from mediums who materialised spirits to the epiphanic experiences of the New Woman from theosophy to telepathy This volume addresses the various ways in which Victorian women expressed themselves and were constructed by the occult through a broad range of texts By examining the roles of women as automatic writing mediums spiritualists authors editors theosophists socialists and how they interpreted the occult in their life and work the contributors in this edition return to sensation novels ghost stories autobiographies and fashionable magazines to access the visible and invisible worlds of Victorian life The variety of texts analysed by the authors in this collection demonstrates the many interpretations of the occult in nineteenth century culture and the ways that women used supernatural imagery and language to draw attention to issues that bore immediate implications on their own lives Either by catering for the fad of ghost stories or by giving public trance speeches women harnessed the metaphorical and financial forces of the supernatural As the articles in this book demonstrate the occult was after all a female affair This book was published as a special issue of Women's Writing A History of Lay Preaching in the Christian Church John

Telford, 1897 The Young Lady's Own Book Author of The young man's own book, 1841 Claiming the Call to Preach Donna Giver-Johnston, 2021-05-25 Few debates divide the contemporary church more than the issue of call The question of who can be called to preach segregates denominations divides people within churches and undermines its public witness Yet curiously little homiletic attention has been paid to the issue of call Because the practice of call has not been subjected to critical inquiry it has taken on power Power lies hidden in the crevices of the question of who can be called to preach power lies in the institutional narrative and approved stories of call power lies in the discordant debates equally in the stifling silence Claiming the Call to Preach critically examines the dominant historical narrative that overtly or covertly has exercised its power to keep women from preaching Donna Giver Johnston here recovers the histories of four notable female preaching pioneers who affected change in the religious landscape of nineteenth century America Jarena Lee Frances Willard Louisa Woosley and Florence Spearing Randolph These women diverse in religion race class and culture each told their story of call in distinctive ways that articulated strong and effective rhetorical arguments for ecclesiastical sanction to give them a place in the pulpit Recovering their rhetorical witness helps to fill in the gaps in the history of preaching in America contribute to research and pedagogies in the field of homiletics and provide today's women and all candidates for ministry with different theological models and narrative strategies by which to effectively interpret and claim their calls to preach These women who spoke truth to power help us reimagine a church today that no longer questions the legitimacy of one's call to preach but endorses previously silenced voices and is therefore strengthened by women's voices from the pulpit Public Speech and the Culture of Public Life in the Age of Gladstone Joseph S. Meisel, 2001-12-06 By the last decades of the nineteenth century more people were making more speeches to greater numbers in a wider variety of venues than at any previous time This book argues that a recognizably modern public life was created in Victorian Britain largely through the instrumentality of public speech Shedding new light on the careers of many of the most important figures of the Victorian era and beyond including Gladstone Disraeli Sir Robert Peel John Bright Joseph Chamberlain Winston Churchill Lloyd George Charles Haddon Spurgeon and Canon Liddon the book traces the ways in which oratory came to occupy a central position in the conception and practice of Victorian public life Not a study of rhetoric or a celebration of great oratory the book stresses the social developments that led to the production and consumption of these speeches
