This volume takes stock of these trends by canvassing the globe to generate new conceptual empirical and theoretical contributions. The analyses ultimately reveal the critical role of the state as both an actor and arena in the migration conflict nexus.

Competing for Legitimacy Salamah Magnuson, 2025-07-18 This book answers the question of why and how people form bonds with each other and with insurgent groups in fragile state contexts. It develops an overarching framework depicting a political social contract, presents the Grievance Driven Pathway as one way through which a reformist insurgency society contract can form and conducts a systematic comparison using two novel case studies not yet evaluated in insurgency literature: the UFDR in the Central African Republic and the SLM A in Darfur, Sudan. The core claim is that perceptions of legitimacy across the four social contract elements lead to consent to form the intangible bond and foster societal and political trust. Studying social contracts specifically the interaction between state society contracts and reformist insurgency society contracts facilitates a greater understanding of what constitutes legitimacy in the twenty-first century and how perceptions of illegitimacy can lead to a breakdown of trust and the outbreak of violent conflict.

Governance, Natural Resources and Post-Conflict Peacebuilding Carl Bruch, Carroll Muffett, Sandra Nichols, 2016-04-07 When the guns are silenced, those who have survived armed conflict need food, water, shelter, the means to earn a living, and the promise of safety and a return to civil order. Meeting these needs while sustaining peace requires more than simply having governmental structures in place; it requires good governance. Natural resources are essential to sustaining people and peace in post-conflict countries, but governance failures often jeopardize such efforts. This book examines the theory, practice, and often surprising realities of post-conflict governance, natural resource management, and peacebuilding in fifty conflict-affected countries and territories. It includes thirty-nine chapters written by more than seventy researchers, diplomats, military personnel, and practitioners from governmental, intergovernmental, and nongovernmental organizations. The book highlights the mutually reinforcing relationship between natural resource management and good governance. Natural resource management is crucial to rebuilding governance and the rule of law, combating corruption, improving transparency, and accountability, engaging disenfranchised populations and building confidence after conflict At the same time good governance is essential for ensuring that natural resource management can meet immediate needs for post conflict stability and development while simultaneously laying the foundation for a sustainable peace Drawing on analyses of the close relationship between governance and natural resource management the book explores lessons from past conflicts and ongoing reconstruction efforts illustrates how those lessons may be applied to the formulation and implementation of more effective governance initiatives and presents an emerging theoretical and practical framework for policy makers researchers practitioners and students Governance Natural Resources and Post Conflict Peacebuilding is part of a global initiative to identify and analyze lessons in post conflict peacebuilding and natural resource management The project has generated six books of case studies and analyses with contributions from practitioners policy makers and researchers Other books in this series address high value resources land water livelihoods and assessing and restoring natural resources

Overheated Andrew T. Guzman, 2013-01-03 Deniers of climate change sometimes quip that claims about global warming are more about political science than climate science They are wrong on the science but may be right with respect to its political implications A hotter world writes Andrew Guzman will bring unprecedented migrations famine war and disease It will be a social and political disaster of the first order In Overheated Guzman takes climate change out of the realm of scientific abstraction to explore its real world consequences He writes not as a scientist but as an authority on international law and economics He takes as his starting point a fairly optimistic outcome in the range predicted by scientists a 2 degree Celsius increase in average global temperatures Even this modest rise would lead to catastrophic environmental and social problems Already we can see how it will work The ten warmest years since 1880 have all occurred since 1998 and one estimate of the annual global death toll caused by climate change is now 300 000 That number might rise to 500 000 by 2030 He shows in vivid detail how climate change is already playing out in the real world Rising seas will swamp island nations like Maldives coastal food producing regions in Bangladesh will be flooded and millions will be forced to migrate into cities or possibly climate refugee camps Even as seas rise melting glaciers in the Andes and the Himalayas will deprive millions upon millions of people of fresh water threatening major cities and further straining food production Prolonged droughts in the Sahel region of Africa have already helped produce mass violence in Darfur Clear cogent and compelling Overheated shifts the discussion on climate change toward its devastating impact on human societies Two degrees Celsius seems such a minor change Yet it will change everything

Livelihoods in Sudan amid armed conflict: Evidence from a national rural household survey Kirui, Oliver K.,Ahmed, Mosab,Siddig, Khalid,Taffesse, Alemayehu Seyoum,Abushama, Hala,Dorosh, Paul A.,Fakih, Ali,Terefe, Fekadu,Nohra, Nada,AlAzzawi, Shireen,Intini, Vito,Merouani, Walid,2024-04-19 Analysis of a comprehensive survey of Sudanese rural households conducted from November 2023 to January 2024 by IFPRI and UNDP reveals significant socioeconomic impacts of the ongoing armed conflict on the Sudanese population underscoring the need for immediate and targeted policy and programmatic interventions The conflict has severely disrupted rural household incomes and exacerbated existing vulnerabilities related to their housing and access to infrastructure and services Most households live in inadequate housing conditions with disparities in access to water electricity and sanitation services posing additional challenges Rural households low access to assets including agricultural land further complicates their livelihoods The conflict primarily concentrated in urban areas particularly Khartoum has triggered mass migration with significant numbers relocating to states like Aj Jazirah and Gedaref These migrants often from relatively better off backgrounds face substantial income losses necessitating basic needs support and enhanced provision of public services particularly for the large families that are more likely to migrate Agriculture a critical sector for rural livelihoods has been significantly affected across all states Most households reported not cultivating land during the summer season of 2023 due to the conflict The sharp reduction in the area of crops planted underscores the need for support for farming activities particularly for smallholder households The survey highlights extensive exposure to shocks among rural households with personal shocks such as illnesses among household members being the most common Natural and climatic shocks although less prevalent alongside conflict related shocks like theft and violence emphasize the complex challenges faced by these communities Market access and disruptions have further impacted rural households with a considerable proportion of rural households unable to sell or buy goods primarily due to high prices and sharp reductions in income for most households These market challenges coupled with the overall economic instability necessitate interventions aimed at maintaining and improving market accessibility and functionality to promote recovery and resilience The findings from the analysis of the survey data lend support to designing and implementing comprehensive strategies that address the immediate needs of displaced populations and other rural households affected by income losses and market disruptions Enhancing public services supporting livelihoods building resilience through shock responsive social protection systems agricultural and economic interventions and ensuring equitable access to resources and markets for all households particularly those headed by women and vulnerable groups are the principal policy recommendations that emerged from this analysis. This study of rural household livelihoods amid the armed conflict in Sudan provides a foundation for targeted interventions and policy reforms aimed at mitigating the conflict's impacts and fostering long-term resilience and economic stability.
