Cinema and Secularism Mark Cauchi, 2023-12-14 Cinema and Secularism is the first collection to make the relationship between cinema and secularism thematic utilizing a number of different methodological approaches to examine their identification and

differentiation across film theory film aesthetics film history and throughout global cinema The emergence of moving images and the history of cinema historically coincide with the emergence of secularism as a concept and discourse More than historically coinciding however cinema and secularism would seem to have and many contemporary theorists and critics seem to assume a more intrinsic almost ontological connection to each other While early film theorists and critics explicitly addressed questions about secularism religion and cinema once the study of film was professionalized and secularized in the Western academy in both film studies and religious studies explicit and critical attention to the relationship between cinema and secularism rapidly declined Indeed if one canvases film scholarship today one will find barely any works dedicated to thinking critically about the relationship between cinema and secularism Extending the recent secular turn in the humanities and social sciences Cinema and Secularism provokes critical reflection on its titular concepts Making contributions to theory philosophy criticism and history the chapters in this pioneering volume collectively interrogate the assumption that cinema is secular how secularism is conceived and related to cinema differently in different film cultures and whether the world is disenchanted or enchanted in cinema Coming from intellectually diverse backgrounds in film studies religious studies and philosophy the interdisciplinary contributors to this book cover films and traditions of thought from America Europe Africa the Middle East South Asia and East Asia In these ways Cinema and Secularism opens new areas of inquiry in the study of film and contributes to the ongoing interrogation of secularism more broadly

True to the Spirit Colin MacCabe, Rick Warner, Kathleen Murray, 2011 Fifty percent of Hollywood productions each year are adaptations films that use an already published book dramatic work or comic as their source material If the original is well known then for most spectators the question of whether these adaptations are true to the spirit of the original is central The recent wave of adaptation studies dismisses the question of fidelity as irrelevant mistaken or an affront to the unstable nature of meaning itself The essays gathered here mixing the field's top authorities Andrew Gunning Jameson Mulvey and Naremore with fresh new voices take the question of correspondence between source and adaptation as seriously as do producers and audiences Spanning examples from Shakespeare to Ghost World and addressing such notable directors as Welles Kubrick Hawks Tarkovsky and Ophuls the contributors write against the grain of recent adaption studies by investigating the question of what fidelity might mean in its broadest and truest sense what it might reveal of the adaptive process and why it is still one of the richest veins of investigation in the study of cinema
