Our Christian Heritage James Gibbons, 1889 Travel, 1948 Heterotopia and Heritage Preservation Smaranda Spanu, 2019-05-02 This book approaches the field of built heritage and its practices by employing the concept of heterotopia established by the French philosopher Michel Foucault The fundamental understandings of heritage its evolution and practices all reveal intrinsic heterotopic features the mirror function its utopic drive and its enclave like nature The book draws on previous interpretations of heterotopia and argues for a reading of heritage as heterotopia considering various heritage mechanisms heritage selection conservation and protection practices and heritage as mnemonic device in this regard Reworking the six heterotopic principles an analysis grid is designed and applied to various built heritage spaces vernacular religious architecture urban 19th century ensembles Guided through this theoretical itinerary the reader will rediscover the heterotopic lens as a minor yet promising Foucauldian device that allows for a better understanding of heritage and its everyday practices

Heritage and Debt David Joselit, 2020-03-10 How global contemporary art reanimates the past as a resource for the present combating modern art's legacy of Eurocentrism If European modernism was premised on the new on surpassing the past often by assigning it to the traditional societies of the Global South global contemporary art reanimates the past as a resource for the present In this account of what globalization means for contemporary art David Joselit argues that the creative use of tradition by artists from around the world serves as a means of combatting modern art's legacy of Eurocentrism Modernism claimed to live in the future and relegated the rest of the world to the past Global contemporary art shatters this myth by reactivating various forms of heritage from literati ink painting in China to Aboriginal painting in Australia in order to propose new and different futures Joselit analyzes not only how heritage becomes contemporary through the practice of individual artists but also how a cultural infrastructure of museums biennials and art fairs worldwide has emerged as a means of generating economic value attracting capital and tourist dollars Joselit traces three distinct forms of modernism that developed outside the West in opposition to Euro

American modernism postcolonial socialist realism and the underground He argues that these modern genealogies are synchronized with one another and with Western modernism to produce global contemporary art Joselit discusses curation and what he terms the curatorial episteme which through its acts of framing or curating can become a means of recalibrating hierarchies of knowledge and can contribute to the dual projects of decolonization and deimperialization

The Future of Digital Data, Heritage and Curation Fiona R. Cameron, 2021-03-30 The Future of Digital Data Heritage and Curation critiques digital cultural heritage concepts and their application to data developing new theories curatorial practices and a more than human museology for a contemporary and future world Presenting a diverse range of case examples from around the globe Cameron offers a critical and philosophical reflection on the ways in which digital cultural heritage is currently framed as societal data worth passing on to future generations in two distinct forms digitally born and digitizations Demonstrating that most perceptions of digital cultural heritage are distinctly western in nature the book also examines the complicity of such heritage in climate change and environmental destruction and injustice Going further still the book theorizes the future of digital data heritage curation and the notion of the human in the context of the profusion of new types of societal data and production processes driven by the intensification of data economies and through the emergence of new technologies In so doing the book makes a case for the development of new types of heritage that comprise AI automated systems biological entities infrastructures minerals and chemicals all of which have their own forms of agency intelligence and cognition The Future of Digital Data Heritage and Curation is essential reading for academics and students engaged in the study of museums archives libraries galleries archaeology cultural heritage management information management curatorial studies and digital humanities
