Hollywood 1920 197:

The Zoological Record, 1922 Indexes the world's zoological and animal science literature covering all research from biochemistry to veterinary medicine. The database provides a collection of references from over 4 500 international serial publications plus books, meetings, reviews, and other non serial literature from over 100 countries. It is the oldest continuing database of animal biology indexing literature published from 1864 to the present. Zoological Record has long been recognized as the unofficial register for taxonomy and systematics but other topics in animal biology are also covered.

Hollywood's Overseas Campaign Ian Charles Jarvie, 1992-08-28 Hollywood's Overseas Campaign The North Atlantic Movie Trade 1920-1950 examines how Hollywood movies became one of the most successful U.S. exports, a phenomenon that began during World War I. Focusing on Canada, the market closest to the United States, on Great Britain, the biggest market, and on the U.S. movie industry itself, Ian Jarvie documents how fear of this mass medium's impact and covetousness toward its profits motivated many nations to resist the cultural invasion and economic drain that Hollywood movies represented.

More of Hollywood's Unsolved Mysteries John Austin, 1991 Here is the much requested sequel to Hollywood's Unsolved Mysteries which gained national attention for its controversial revelations about the mysterious deaths of Natalie Wood, Bob Crane, George Reeves, and others. In More of Hollywood's Unsolved Mysteries, John Austin picks up where he left off, answering the tough questions and uncovering the truth, the truth that Hollywood doesn't want you to know. The Stalin Cult Jan Plamper, 2012-01-17 Between the late 1920s and the early 1950s, one of the most persuasive personality cults of all times saturated Soviet public space with images of Stalin. A torrent of portraits, posters, statues, films, plays, songs, and poems galvanized the Soviet population and inspired leftist activists around the world. In the first book to examine the cultural products and production methods of the Stalin cult, Jan Plamper reconstructs a hidden history linking artists, party patrons, state functionaries, and ultimately Stalin himself in the alchemical project that transformed a pockmarked Georgian into the embodiment of global communism. Departing from interpretations of the Stalin cult as an outgrowth of Russian mysticism or Stalin's psychopathology, Plamper establishes the cult's context within a broader international history of modern personality cults constructed around Napoleon III, Mussolini, Hitler, and Mao. Drawing upon evidence from previously inaccessible Russian archives, Plamper's lavishly illustrated and accessibly written study will appeal to anyone interested in twentieth-century history, visual studies, the politics of representation, dictator biography, socialist realism, and real socialism. Hollywood's Melodramatic Imagination Geoff Mayer, 2021-12-23 Melodrama is the foundation of American cinema. It is, however, a poorly understood term. While it is a pervasive and persuasive dramatic mode, it is not tied to any specific moral or ideological system. It is not a singular genre; rather, it operates as a genre-generating machine capable of determining the aesthetics and structure of the drama within many genres. Melodrama centers the conflict around the clash between good and evil and provides a sense of poetic justice, but the specific values embedded in notions of good and evil are determined by the culture.

and they shift from nation to nation region to region and period to period This book explores the populist westerns of the 1930s the propaganda films that followed the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor and the popularity of Sax Rohmer's master villain Fu Manchu Melodramas of passion and film noir also offer a challenge to melodrama with its seemingly alienated protagonists and downbeat endings Yet with few exceptions Hollywood was able to assimilate these genres within its melodramatic imagination

Hollywood's Image of the South David Ebner, Larry Langman, 2001-09-30 From the 1920s and 1930s when American cinema depicted the South as a demi paradise populated by wealthy landowners glamorous belles and happy slaves through later more realistic depictions of the region in films based on works by Erskine Caldwell Tennessee Williams William Faulkner and Robert Penn Warren Hollywood's view of the South has been as ever changing as the place itself This comprehensive reference guide to Southern films offers credits plot descriptions and analyses of how the stereotypes and characterizations in each film contribute to our understanding of a most contentious American time and place Organized by subjects including Economic Conditions Plantation Life The Ku Klux Klan and The New Politics Hollywood's Image of the South seeks to coin a new genre by describing its conventions and attitudes Even so the Southern film crosses all known generic boundaries including the comedy the women's film the noir and many others This invaluable guide to an under recognized category of American cinema illustrates how much there is to learn about a time and place from watching the movies that aim to capture it

Zoological Record, 1968 Hollywood's African American Films Ryan Jay Friedman, 2011 In 1929 and 1930 during the Hollywood studios conversion to synchronized sound film production white controlled trade magazines and African American newspapers celebrated a vogue for Negro films Hollywood's African American Films argues that the movie business turned to black musical performance to both resolve technological and aesthetic problems introduced by the medium of talking pictures and at the same time to appeal to the white Broadway audience that patronized their most lucrative first run theaters Capitalizing on highbrow associations with white slumming in African American cabarets and on the cultural linkage between popular black musical styles and natural acoustics studios produced a series of African American cast and white cast films featuring African American sequences Ryan Jay Friedman asserts that these transitional films reflect contradictions within prevailing racial ideologies arising most clearly in the movies treatment of African American characters decisions to migrate Regardless of how the films represent these choices they all prompt elaborate visual and narrative structures of containment that tend to highlight rather than suppress historical tensions surrounding African American social mobility Jim Crow codes and white exploitation of black labor

Cult Cinema Ernest Mathijs, Jamie Sexton, 2012-03-30 Cult Cinema an Introduction presents the first in depth academic examination of all aspects of the field of cult cinema including audiences genres and theoretical perspectives Represents the first exhaustive introduction to cult cinema Offers a scholarly treatment of a hotly contested topic at the center of current academic debate Covers audience reactions aesthetics genres theories of cult cinema as well as historical insights into the topic

Writing

the Heavenly Frontier Denice Turner, 2011-03-10 Writing the Heavenly Frontier celebrates the early voices of the air as it examines the sky as a metaphorical and political landscape While flight histories usually focus on the physical dangers of early aviation this book introduces the figurative liabilities of ascension Early pilot writers not only grappled with an unwieldy machine they also grappled with poetics that were extremely selective Tropes that cast Charles Lindbergh as the transcendent hero of the new millennium were the same ones that kept women black Americans and indigenous peoples imaginatively tethered to the ground The most popular flight autobiographies in the United States posited a hero who rose from the mundane to the miraculous and yet the most startling autobiographies point out the social factors that limited or forbade vertical movement both literally and figuratively A survey of pilot writing the book will appeal to flight enthusiasts and people interested in American autobiography and culture But it will also appeal strongly to readers interested in the poetics and politics of place
