Spectacular Television Helen Wheatley, 2016-06-20 In terms of visual impact television has often been regarded as inferior to cinema It has been characterised as sound led and consumed by a distracted audience Today it is tempting to see the rise of HD television as ushering in a new era of spectacular television Yet since its earliest days the medium has been epitomised by spectacle and offered its viewers diverse forms of visual pleasure Looking at the early promotion of television and the launch of colour broadcasting Spectacular Television traces a history of television as spectacular attraction from its launch to the contemporary age of surround sound digital effects and HD screens In focusing on the spectacle of nature landscape and even our own bodies on television via explorations of popular television dramas documentary series and factual entertainment and ambitious natural history television Helen Wheatley answers the questions what is televisual pleasure and how has television defined its own brand of spectacular aesthetics

Fairground Attractions Deborah Philips, 2012-01-19 This book is available as open access through the Bloomsbury Open Access programme and is available on www.bloomsburycollections.com The study investigates the cultural production of the visual iconography of popular pleasure grounds from the eighteenth century pleasure garden to the contemporary theme park Deborah Philips identifies the literary genres including fairy tale gothic horror Egyptiana and the Western which are common to carnival sites tracing their historical transition across a range of media to become familiar icons of popular culture Though the bricolage of narratives and imagery found in the contemporary leisure zone has been read by many as emblematic of postmodern culture the author argues that the clash of genres and stories is less a consequence of postmodern pastiche than it is the result of a history and popular tradition of conventionalised iconography Howard Hawks Ian Brookes,2019-07-25 Leading international scholars consider the films and legacy of Howard Hawks Diverse contributions consider Hawks work in relation to issues of gender genre and relationships between the sexes discuss key films including Rio Bravo The Big Sleep and Red River and address Hawks visual style and the importance of musicality in his film making WheatShaft Victor Malarek,2021-10-29 For almost a decade Matt Kozar had been coasting as a general reporter with the New York Tribune longing but never managing to break the big story until now While on a routine assignment in Central Park the launch of Feed the Starving a glitzy high powered campaign to raise awareness of a devastating famine plaguing the Horn of Africa Kozar soon becomes entangled in a web of incredible greed and corruption and a devious plot to defraud the U S government of hundreds of millions of dollars in food aid destined for millions of starving children women and men In this fast paced hard hitting political thriller Kozar flies to Eritrea where he witnesses blatant corruption in the distribution of international food aid But there is something far more sinister going on and as he continues to dig he quickly finds himself pitted against a rogue s gallery of extremely dangerous characters a powerful evangelical minister a repugnant US Republican senator the unscrupulous head of the UN International Food Fund and a pair of ruthless Russian oligarchs who will stop at nothing including murder to keep their illegal enterprise from being exposed American Indian Reservations and Trust Areas Veronica E. Red Skelton Wes Gehring,2013-09-10 For more than twenty years Hoosier comic Red Skelton entertained millions of viewers who gathered around their television sets to delight in the antics of such notable characters as Freddie the Freeloader Clem Kaddiddlehopper Cauliflower McPugg and Sheriff Deadeye Noted film historian Wes D Gehring examines the man behind the characters someone who never let the facts get in the way of a good story Gehring delves into Skelton s hardscrabble life with a shockingly dysfunctional family in the southern Indiana community of Vincennes his days on the road on the vaudeville circuit the comedian s early success on radio his up and down movie career with Metro Goldwyn Mayer and his sometimes tragic personal life Zoo Renewal Lisa Uddin,2015-04-01 Why do we feel bad at the zoo In a fascinating counterhistory of American zoos in the 1960s and 1970s Lisa Uddin revisits the familiar narrative of zoo reform from naked cages to more naturalistic enclosures She argues that reform belongs to the story of cities and feelings toward many of their human inhabitants In Zoo Renewal Uddin demonstrates how efforts to make the zoo more natural and a haven for particular species reflected white fears about the American city and pointedly how the shame many visitors felt in observing confined animals drew on broader anxieties about race and urban life Examining the campaign against cages renovations at the National Zoo in Washington D C and the San Diego Zoo and the cases of a rare female white Bengal tiger and a collection of southern white rhinoceroses Uddin unpacks episodes that challenge assumptions that zoos are about other worlds and other creatures and expand the history of U S urbanism Uddin shows how the drive to protect endangered species and to ensure larger safer zoos was shaped by struggles over urban decay suburban growth and the dilemmas of postwar American whiteness In so doing Zoo Renewal ultimately reveals how feeling bad or good at the zoo is connected to our feelings about American cities and their residents Cultural Exchanges between Brazil and France Regina R. Wendy Webster, 2007-10-11 Did loss of imperial power and the end of empire have any significant impact on British culture and identity after 1945 Within a burgeoning literature on national identity and what it means to be British this is a question that has received surprisingly little attention Englishness and Empire makes an important and original contribution to recent debates about the domestic consequences of the end of empire Wendy Webster explores popular narratives of nation in the mainstream media archive newspapers newsreels radio film and television The contours of the study generally follow stories told through prolific filmic and television imagery the Second World War the Coronation and Everest colonial wars of the 1950s and Winston Churchill's funeral The book analyses three main narratives that conflicted and collided in the period a Commonwealth that promised to maintain Britishness as a global identity siege narratives of colonial wars and immigration that showed a little England threatened by empire and its legacies and a story of national greatness celebrating the martial masculinity of British officers and leaders through which imperial identity leaked into narratives of the Second World War developed after 1945 The book also explores the significance of America to post imperial Britain Englishness and Empire considers how far and in what contexts and unexpected places imperial identity and loss of imperial power resonated in popular narratives of nation.
