Heroes Falconer:

Grant Morrison Marc Singer, 2012-01-01 One of the most eclectic and distinctive writers currently working in comics Grant Morrison b 1960 brings the auteurist sensibility of alternative comics and graphic novels to the popular genres superhero science fiction and fantasy that dominate the American and British comics industries His comics range from bestsellers featuring the most universally recognized superhero franchises All Star Superman New X Men Batman to more independent creator owned work The Invisibles The Filth We3 that defies any generic classification In Grant Morrison Combining the Worlds of Contemporary Comics author Marc Singer examines how Morrison uses this fusion of styles to intervene in the major political aesthetic and intellectual challenges of our time His comics blur the boundaries between fantasy and realism mixing autobiographical representation and cultural critique with heroic adventure They offer self reflexive appraisals of their own genres while they experiment with the formal elements of comics Perhaps most ambitiously they challenge contemporary theories of language and meaning seeking to develop new modes of expression grounded in comics capacity for visual narrative and the fantasy genres ability to make figurative meanings literal An Anthology of Russian Folk Epics James Bailey, Tatyana Ivanova, 2015-05-20 An extensive introduction provides basic information about Russian epics their historical background their poetics the history of their collection their performance context and their main interpretations In addition there is a short introduction to each song explaining its plot allusions and interpretations A glossary of common terms and a selected bibliography of studies about the Russian epic in English and Russian are also included in the volume William Eastlake W. C. Bamberger, 1993-01-01 The Milford Series Popular Writers of Today Volume 65 Memories of the Classical Underworld in Irish and Caribbean Literature Madeleine Scherer, 2021-09-20 Classical Memories is an intervention into the field of adaptation studies taking the example of classical reception to show that adaptation is a process that can be driven by and produce intertextual memories I see classical memories as a memory driven type of adaptation that draws on and reproduces schematic and otherwise de contextualised conceptions of antiquity and its cultural exports in broadly speaking the twentieth and twenty first centuries These memory driven adaptations differ often in significant ways from more traditional adaptations that seek to either continue or deconstruct a long running tradition that can be traced back to antiquity as well as its canonical points of reception in later ages When investigating such a popular and widespread set of narratives characters and images like those that remain of Graeco Roman antiquity terms like adaptation and reception could and should be nuanced further to allow us to understand the complex interactions between modern works and classical antiquity in more detail particularly when it pertains to postcolonial or post digital classical reception In Classical Memories I propose that understanding certain types of adaptations as intertextual memories allows us to do just that The English Novel, Vol I Richard W. F. Kroll, 2014-07-21 The English Novel Volume I 1700 to Fielding collects a series of previously published essays on the early eighteenth century novel in a single volume reflecting the proliferation of theoretical approaches since the 1970s The novel has been the object of some of the most exciting and important critical speculations and the eighteenth century novel has been at the centre of new approaches both to the novel and to the period between 1700 and 1750 Richard Kroll's introduction seeks to frame the contributions by reference to the most significant critical discussions These include the question of whether and how we can talk about the rise of the novel the vexed question of what might constitute a novel the relationship between the novel and possibly competing genres such as history or the romance the relationship between early male writers like Defoe and popular novels by women in the early eighteenth century the general ideological role played by novels relative to eighteenth century culture are they means of ideological conscription or liberation poststructuralist analyses of identity and gender and the emergence of sentimental and domestic codes after Richardson Since the modern European novel is often thought to have been formed in this period these debates have clear implications for students of the novel in general as well as for those interested in the early enlightenment Headnotes place each essay within the map of these wider concerns and the volume offers a useful further reading list Taken as a whole this collection encapsulates the state of criticism at the present moment

Books and Travel Jennifer Laing, Warwick Frost, 2012-07-20 The books that we read whether travel focused or not may influence the way in which we understand the process or experience of travel This multidisciplinary work provides a critical analysis of the inspirational and transformational role that books play in travel imaginings Does reading a book encourage us to think of travel as exotic adventurous transformative dangerous or educative Do different genres of books influence a reader's view of travel in multifarious ways These questions are explored through a literary analysis of an eclectic selection of books spanning the period from the eighteenth century to the present day Genres covered include historical fiction children's books westerns science fiction and crime fiction

The Cambridge Review, 1887 The Gold Thread William Raeper, 2015-11-03 Both children's literature and fantasy literature have become established as genre for critical study in recent years especially in the United States As one of the outstanding children's authors of the nineteenth century and a pioneer of fantasy writing MacDonald has become the focus of increased attention As an acknowledged influence on many authors who came after him authors such as E Nesbit G K Chesterton C S Lewis W H Auden and T S Eliot MacDonald is one of the rare writers whose work is a starting point for evaluating the achievements of others New forms of critical theory Jungian psychoanalytic and feminist turning towards the exploration of sexuality and the fantastic have also found fitting subjects in MacDonald's texts This volume studies these developments and also the growing acknowledgment that MacDonald was a Scottish writer and a Victorian His enduring works have been his children's books At the Back of the North Wind The Princess and the Goblin The Princess and Curdie and the fairy tales of The Golden Key His two adult fantasy novels Phantasties and Lilith are now recognized as classics of their kind

A. B. Ronald, 2015-02-26 Youth Heroism and War Propaganda explores how the young maritime hero became a major new figure of war propaganda in the second half of the long 18th century At that time Britain was searching for a new national identity and the young maritime hero and his exploits conjured images of vigour energy enthusiasm and courage Adopted as centrepiece in a campaign of concerted war propaganda leading up to the Battle of Trafalgar the young hero came to represent much that was quintessentially British at this major turning point in the nation s history By drawing on a wide range of sources this study shows how the young hero gave maritime youth a symbolic power which it had never before had in Britain It offers a valuable contribution to the field of British military and naval history as well as the study of British identity youth heroism and propaganda      Authors Digest Rossiter Johnson, 1908      The Athenaeum ,1855      Midshipmen and Quarterdeck Boys in the British Navy, 1771-1831 S. A. Cavell, 2012 A fascinating study of midshipmen and other young gentlemen outlining their social background career paths and what life was like for them Officer recruits young gentlemen entered the Royal Navy with dreams of fame fortune and glory but many found promotion difficult with a large number unable to progress beyond lieutenant Recent scholarship has argued that during the wars of 1793 1815 there was greater social diversity among naval officers with promotion increasingly related to professional competence This book based on extensive original research examines the social background of around 4 000 young gentlemen a term which includes midshipmen and various other categories including captains servants volunteers and masters mates It concludes that in fact high birth became an increasingly important factor in the selection of officer candidates and that as the Admiralty grip on the appointment and management of officer aspirants increased especially after 1815 aristocratic presence in the ranks of young officers increased significantly as a result of deliberate Admiralty policy The book also discusses the assertion that the increase in elite sons led to a dramatic increase in cases of indiscipline and insubordination concluding that although there was a marked increase in courts martial for insubordination during and after the French Wars there is no evidence that such cases related more to the elites than to young aspirants in general The book includes many case study examples of midshipmen and other young gentlemen illustrating what life was like for them and how they themselves viewed their situation S A CAVELL is a graduate of the Queensland University of Technology and Louisiana State University and completed her doctorate at the University of Exeter
