Hidden Challenges To Education Systems In Transition Economies:

Hidden Challenges to Education Systems in Transition Economies Sue E. Berryman, 2000-01-01 This book provides diagnostic and strategic analysis of the challenges to educational systems in the transition economies of the Eastern and Central Europe and Central Asia At the outset of the transition many of these countries educational systems had solved problems such as limited access gender inequalities and poor quality outputs that still plague other regions of the world Many policy makers believed that education was not a problem sector in transition countries This report presents originally unforeseen results which suggest that deep and broad problems are emerging in the sector and were threatening many countries achievements in education The region s education systems which once were a good fit with the planned economies and authoritarian political systems are proving to be a poor fit with market economies and more open political systems Inequities in learning opportunities are increasing at a time when human capital is becoming ever more important in the region s recovery and development The danger is that in some countries of the region these education problems left unchecked could threaten to create a vicious circle that will make poverty and social exclusion a powerful generational inheritance

The Challenges of Education in Central Asia Stephen P. Heyneman, Alan J. De Young, 2006-02-01 A look at the challenges facing education in Central Asia In this study the author contests that understanding the challenges throughout the 15 former republics of the former Soviet Union is helpful in understanding the progress and setback in the Central Asian Republics

Comparing Post-Socialist Transformations Maia Chankseliani, Iveta Silova, 2018-11-05 This volume revisits the book edited by David Phillips and Michael Kaser in 1992 entitled Education and Economic Change in Eastern Europe and the Former Soviet Union <https://doi.org/10.15730/books.42> Two and a half decades later this volume reflects on how post socialist countries have engaged with what Phillips Kaser called the flush of educational freedom Spanning diverse geopolitical settings that range from Southeast and Central Europe to the Caucasus and Central Asia the chapters in this volume offer analyses of education policies and practices that the countries in this region have pursued since the fall of the Berlin Wall and the dissolution of the Soviet Union This book explores three interrelated questions First it seeks to capture complex reconfigurations of education purposes during post socialist transformations noting the emergence of neoliberal education imaginaries in post socialist spaces and their effects on policy discussions about education quality and equity across the region Second it examines the ongoing tensions inherent in post socialist transformations suggesting that beneath the surface of dominant neoliberal narratives there are always powerful countercurrents ranging from the persisting socialist legacies to other alternative conceptualizations of education futures highlighting the diverse trajectories of post socialist education transformations And finally the book engages with the question of comparison prompting both the contributing authors and readers to reflect on how research on post socialist education transformations can contribute to rethinking comparative methods in education across space and time

Expenditure Policies Toward EU Accession Bernard Funck,2002-01-01 Expenditure Policies Toward EU Accession presents the set of public expenditures that could be conducive to rapid growth and convergence among the Central and Eastern European countries This report assesses public expenditure policy objectives and provides best practice and lessons learned in designing expenditure reforms within these countries It also highlights ways in which key expenditure programs such as education environment and transport can be redirected so as to be more fully supportive of growth objectives the systems by which they delivered broad basic social welfare to their citizens. Inherited systems were inefficient and financially unsustainable. Linda J Cook here explores the politics and policy of social welfare from 1990 to 2004 in the Russian Federation, Poland, Hungary, Belarus and Kazakhstan. Most of these countries she shows tried to institute reforms based on a liberal paradigm of reduced entitlements and subsidies, means testing and privatization. But these proposals provoked opposition from pro welfare interests and the politics of negotiating change varied substantially from one political arena to another. In Russia for example liberalizing reform was blocked for a decade. Only as Vladimir Putin rose to power did the country change its inherited welfare system. Cook finds that the impact of economic pressures on welfare was strongly mediated by domestic political factors including the level of democratization and balance of pro and anti reform political forces. Postcommunist welfare politics throughout Russia and Eastern Europe she shows are marked by the large role played by bureaucratic welfare stakeholders who were left over from the communist period and in weak states by the development of informal processes in social sectors.

Education in Sierra Leone, 2007. After a decade long civil war Sierra Leone witnessed an unprecedented surge in school enrollments at the primary and then the secondary levels. Committed to the Education for All objectives the government further encouraged greater access to school. The country must now negotiate the transition from postwar recovery to regular delivery of education services. The main tasks ahead include reaching the remaining out of school children and improving the quality of the learning environment and ultimately of learning outcomes. Success will depend on the unrelenting strong commitment of the government, the capacity of providers to effectively deliver education services and a sustainable financial framework.

Historical Dictionary of Turkmenistan, Rafis Abazov, 2005. Turkmenistan is known for its huge oil and gas resources as well as for the rich complex and captivating history of the Turkmen people. For centuries they were known as skillful and courageous warriors who left deep marks in the histories of other countries such as India, Russia, Afghanistan, Turkey, Iran, Iraq and Egypt. As craftsmen they constructed extraordinary architectural monuments whose ruins can be found all over the country and famous Turkoman carpets are still highly valued in many parts of the world. Yet for centuries foreign invaders and local tribal conflict plagued the land with wars that devastated the Turkmen society and destroyed its magnificent but fragile oases. In the late 19th century the Turkmen witnessed the establishment of the Russian Empire in their lands. In the years following these lands were united by the Soviet government into a single political entity in an attempt to force the Soviet style nation state building and socio economic transformations. In 1991 the Turkmen parliament voted for the country's independence and promised to build a sovereign state capable of bringing prosperity and social and political stability to the society. The reality however proved to be more complex. After more than 15 years of independence Turkmenistan still faces a number of difficulties including economic and structural issues, security challenges, growing competition between various clans and widespread poverty. Historical Dictionary of Turkmenistan provides a concise overview of the historical development of Turkmenistan. The introduction and chronology provide an overview of the Turkmen history focusing on the history of the country in the 20th century political and economic development ethnic policies and nation building This is the first comprehensive reference book on Turkmenistan published in English that provides comprehensive up to date details about the contemporary history economy and culture The dictionary consists of approximately 300 entries a

Structure and Agency in the Neoliberal University Joyce E. Canaan, Wesley Shumar, 2008-05-01 This volume considers how current transitions in postsecondary education are impacting Higher Education HE institutions and subjects in a number of Northern nations as well as how these transitions are indicative of the wider shift from the welfare to the market state The university is now considered a key site for training and wealth generation in the so called knowledge economy that operates in a globalising high tech world Further these transitions are underpinned by neo liberal economic ideas that assume that the public sector is a drag on the economy unless it is subject to the rules regulations and assumptions that govern the private sector This excellent volume an important contribution to Education as well as Economics and Politics furthers our understandings of universities as marketable entities as part of the globalized economy

From Red to Gray Mukesh Chawla, Gordon Betcherman, Arup Banerji, 2007 Conventional wisdom holds that aging populations are unfavorable for economic growth because of their potential impacts on labor supply productivity and savings When this is coupled with the increased spending pressures because of pension requirements and health care aging societies are likely to face serious fiscal problems This report addresses these concerns in the unique context of Eastern Europe and the former Soviet Union where many countries are aging rapidly without the economic resources and institutional capacity of other aging societies in Western Europe and Japan

Central Asia's Second Chance Martha Brill Olcott, 2010-03-01 A leading authority on Central Asia offers a sweeping review of the region's path from independence to the post 9 11 world The first decade of Central Asian independence was disappointing for those who envisioned a straightforward transition from Soviet republics to independent states with market economies and democratic political systems Leaders excused political failures by pointing to security risks including the presence of terrorist training camps in Afghanistan The situation changed dramatically after 9 11 when the camps were largely destroyed and the United States introduced a military presence More importantly the international community engaged with these states to give them a second chance to address social and economic problems But neither the aid givers nor the recipients were willing to approach problems in new ways Now terrorists groups are once again making their presence felt and some states may be becoming global security risks This book explores how the region squandered its second chance and what might happen next

Economies in Transition Alice Galenson, 2004-01-01 The Latin American Development Forum promotes debate and disseminates knowledge and analysis on economic and social development issues in Latin America and the Caribbean The Institutional Sponsors of this series are the World Bank United Nations Economic Commission for Latin America and the Caribbean ECLAC and Inter American Development Bank IADB The transition economies of the Europe and Central Asia Region faced unprecedented political economic and social change after the break up of the Soviet Union With assistance from the World Bank and other donors many countries quickly accomplished a number of reforms but progress in others has been slower Much has been achieved the private share of GDP in the transition countries is nearly 70 percent and 8 countries have joined the EU but much remains to be completed

Cultural Studies of Transnationalism Handel Kashope Wright, Meaghan Morris, 2013-09-13 This book asks what transnationalism might mean for Cultural Studies as an intellectual project shaped in vastly differing circumstances across the world With contributions from scholars with experience of cultural life and the work of education in various regions countries and locales from francophone Africa Eastern Europe and the Middle East to Hawaii Jamaica South Korea and Japan Cultural Studies of Transnationalism ranges across literary film dance theatrical and translation studies to explore the socially material and institutional factors that not only shape transnational developments in culture broadly understood but also frame the academic and professional spaces in which we reflect on these This book was originally published as a special issue of the journal Cultural Studies
