Antigone, in Her Unbearable Splendor Charles Freeland, 2013-05-28 With its privileging of the unconscious Jacques Lacan's psychoanalytic thought would seem to be at odds with the goals and methods of philosophy. Lacan himself embraced the term anti philosophy in characterizing his work and yet his seminars undeniably evince rich engagement with the Western philosophical tradition. These essays explore how Lacan's work challenges and builds on this tradition of ethical and political thought connecting his ethics of psychoanalysis to both the classical Greek tradition of Socrates, Plato, and Aristotle and to the Enlightenment tradition of Kant, Hegel, and de Saade. Charles Freeland shows how Lacan critically addressed some of the key ethical concerns of those traditions: the pursuit of truth and the ethical good, the ideals of self knowledge and the care of the soul, and the relation of moral law to the tragic dimensions of death and desire. Rather than sustaining the characterization of Lacan's work as anti philosophical, these essays identify a resonance capable of enriching philosophy by opening it to wider and evermore challenging perspectives.

Meetings of the Mind David Damrosch, 2010-11-22 Comic in tone and serious in intent, this book gives a vivid portrait of academic life in the nineties. With campus populations and critical perspectives changing rapidly, academic debate needs to look beyond the old ideal of common purposes and communal agreement. How can we learn from people we won't end up agreeing with? This question is explored by four very different scholars who meet and argue at a series of comparative literature conferences. David Damrosch, liberal humanist and organizer of the group Vic Addams, an independent scholar of aesthetic leanings and author of The Utility of Futility, Marsha Dodd, a feminist film theorist and the Israeli semiotician Dov Midrash. Throughout the 1990s, in four cities, they meet and debate the problems of disciplinary definition and survival, the relation of literary theory to society, the politics of cultural studies, and the virtues and vices of autobiographical criticism. As their partly antagonistic increasingly serious surprisingly fond and always funny relationship develops Damrosch seeks common ground with his friends despite the fundamental differences among them Can a self parodying deconstructionist and a Proust aficionado appreciate and improve each other's work Can a wealthy windsurfing medievalist and a champion of Chicana lesbian memoir find friendship Hilarious exchanges and comic moments as well as cameo appearances by well known theorists will entertain all literary minded readers Academic insiders will also be reminded of the foibles and quirks of their own disciplines and departments At the same time this exploration of the uses and abuses of literary and cultural criticism offers a running commentary on identity politics and poses serious questions about the state and future of the academy

Death from the Skies! Philip Plait, Ph.D., 2008-10-16 A lively astronomy primer that uses cataclysmic scenarios to explain the universe s most fascinating events According to astronomer Philip Plait the universe is an apocalypse waiting to happen But how much do we really need to fear from things like black holes gamma ray bursts and supernovae And if we should be scared is there anything we can do to save ourselves With humor and wit Plait details the myriad doomsday events that the cosmos could send our way to destroy our planet and life as we know it This authoritative yet accessible study is the ultimate astronomy lesson Combining fascinating and often alarming scenarios that seem plucked from science fiction with the latest research and opinions Plait illustrates why outer space is not as remote as most people think Each chapter explores a different phenomenon explaining it in easy to understand terms and considering how life on earth and the planet itself would be affected should the event come to pass Rather than sensationalizing the information Plait analyzes the probability of these catastrophes occurring in our lifetimes and what we can do to stop them With its entertaining tone and enlightening explanation of unfathomable concepts Death from the Skies will appeal to science buffs and beginners alike In Crime's Archive Katherine Biber, 2018-07-04 This book investigates what happens to criminal evidence after the conclusion of legal proceedings During the criminal trial evidentiary material is tightly regulated it is formally regarded as part of the court record and subject to the rules of evidence and criminal procedure However these rules and procedures cannot govern or control this material after proceedings have ended In its afterlife criminal evidence continues to proliferate in cultural contexts It might be photographic or video evidence private diaries and correspondence weapons physical objects or forensic data and it arouses the interest of journalists scholars curators writers or artists Building on a growing cultural interest in criminal archival materials this book shows how in its afterlife criminal evidence gives rise to new uses and interpretations new concepts and questions many of which are creative and transformative of crime and evidence and some of which are transgressive dangerous or insensitive It takes the judicial principle of open justice the assumption that justice must be seen to be done and investigates instances in which we might see too much too little or from a distorted angle It centres upon a series of case studies including those of Lindy Chamberlain and more recently Oscar Pistorius in which criminal evidence has re appeared outside of the criminal process Traversing museums libraries galleries and other repositories and drawing on extensive interviews with cultural practitioners and legal professionals this book probes the legal ethical affective and aesthetic implications of the cultural afterlife of evidence Truths Drawn in Jest Wilhelm Verwoerd, Mahlubi Mabizela, 2000 The contributors examine the image of the South African Truth Reconciliation Commission through the work of South Africa's leading cartoonists They show how cartoons from a range of publications differ in their depictions of the TRC Oxford Examined Richard O.
