Publicization Jonathan Gyrko, 2024. How public are America's public schools? They may be tax-funded and free, but the combination of market-based policies, exclusionary governance, insufficient funding, and structural inequities impair schools' ability to prepare future citizens, workers, neighbors, and stewards of the planet. Gyrko offers a fresh look at the publicness of American education through historical accounts, scholarly research, first-hand reporting, and political analyses. Chapters on funding, governance, standards, accountability, and equity show what must be done to better identify and strengthen the shared aims of public schools. Novel insights explain how even controversial topics like charter schools, testing, teacher tenure, and the unions can be part of a broad Publicization Project. Champions of public education will find a compelling vision and achievable roadmap that moves the country beyond decades of privatization. Publicization is an essential introduction to major debates of past decades with a hopeful vision of what it means to be an educated American.

Book Features Speaks directly to political controversies affecting education, including school choice, book banning, the reading wars, board elections, critical race theory, and teacher unions. Offers first-hand, never-before-reported accounts of high-profile efforts involving prominent political players, including AFT president Randi Weingarten, former U.S. education secretary Arne Duncan, former NYC mayors Michael R. Bloomberg and Bill de Blasio, and schools chancellor Joel I. Klein. Success Academy CEO Eva Moskowitz, former PBS correspondent John Merrow, KIPP cofounder David Levin, late philanthropist Eli Broad, small schools founder Deborah Meier, and historian and activist Diane Ravitch. Provides pragmatic recommendations that cross political divides, including a fresh look at charter schools, the role of unions and collective bargaining, parent involvement in school decision-making, standardized testing, and equity-advancing reforms. Gathers the history of education ideas, thinkers, and past reforms to provide new generations of educators with a cogent summary of what has come before to inform what comes next.

Fabricating Quality in Education Jenny Ozga, Peter Dahler-Larsen, Christina Segerholm, Hannu Simola, 2011-12-22. How is European education governed? Data is now the lifeblood of education governance. At the international level, organisations like the OECD steer education systems through their programmes of assessment, and the European Commission's project of creating the most successful knowledge economy in the world is driven by data collection, analysis, and comparison. At the national level, policy makers increasingly depend on data to show them where they are positioned in relation to their competitors and draw on data to justify policy directions. Within systems, schools and teachers have become proficient in data use and interpret their priorities with reference to data. This book draws on a three-year comparative study of the influence of data on education systems in Europe looking at the contrasting policy contexts of Denmark England Finland Scotland and Sweden and examining the use of data in these systems in relation to steering by Europe as well as policy mediation and translation of data within systems The authors draw on interviews with key policy actors in the European Commission and with national policy makers in all five systems as well as on local case studies and a major comparative survey of the effects of data production and use on the work of teachers and headteachers The research brought together international researchers from a variety of disciplinary backgrounds including educationalists political scientists and specialists in research and evaluation The book offers new arguments relating to the use of Quality Assurance and Evaluation as a means of standardising and harmonising education policy and practice while also drawing attention to significant variation in policy and practice across these systems It should be of interest to researchers post graduate students and advanced undergraduate students in policy studies in education and more generally
