Governing In An Information Society:

Governing in an Information Society Steven A. Rosell, Institute for Research on Public Policy, 1992      Law, Regulation and Governance in the Information Society Maurizio Borghi, Roger Brownsword, 2022-12-30 This edited collection seeks to map the landscape of contemporary informational interests to evaluate a range of recognised and putative rights and wrongs associated with modern information societies and to consider how law regulation and governance should be deployed in response New technologies and new applications constantly disrupt our values our framing of our world and our sense of where we are and who we are In our information societies we entertain mixed hopes and expectations as well as significant fears and concerns At the root of these there are a number of informational interests on the basis of which certain rights are claimed and particular wrongs denounced This book addresses these interests considering them as relating primarily to the integrity of the informational ecosystem to the accessibility accuracy and authenticity of public information and to our individual ability to control the outward and inward flows of information that relates directly to ourselves Covering a wide range of subjects the book s interrogation of our contemporary information society is oriented around two questions first whether the information society in which we live is the kind of society that we think it should be and second if not what we can reasonably expect law regulation and governance to do in providing the basis for improving it This book will be of considerable interest to those working at the intersection of law and technology as well as others concerned with the legal political and social aspects of our information society      Transforming Government and Building the Information Society Nagy K. Hanna, 2010-03-20 Information and communication technology ICT is central to reforming governance innovating public services and building inclusive information societies Countries are learning to weave ICT into their strategies for transforming government as enterprises have learned to use ICT to innovate and transform their processes and competitive strategies ICT enabled transformation offers a new path to digital era government that is responsive to the challenges of our time It facilitates innovation partnering knowledge sharing community organizing local monitoring accelerated learning and participatory development In Transforming Government and Building the Information Society Nagy Hanna draws on multi disciplinary research on ICT in the public sector and on his rich experience of over 35 years at the World Bank and other aid agencies to identify the key ingredients for the strategic integration of ICT into governance and poverty reduction strategies The author showcases promising practices from around the world to outline the strategic options involved in using ICT to maximize developmental impact transforming government institutions and public services and empowering communities for inclusion and grassroots innovation Despite the ICT promise Hanna acknowledges that reforming governance and empowering poor communities are difficult long term undertakings Hanna moves beyond the imperatives and visions of e transformation to strategic design and implementation options and draws practical lessons for policymakers reformers innovators community leaders ICT specialists and development experts      What Kind of Information

Society? Governance, Virtuality, Surveillance, Sustainability, Resilience Jacques J. Berleur, Magda David Hercheui, Lorenz Hilty, 2010-08-23 The present book contains the proceedings of two conferences held at the World Computer Congress 2010 in Brisbane Australia September 20-23 organised by the International Federation for Information Processing IFIP. In the first part the reader can find the proceedings of the 9th Human Choice and Computers International Conference HCC9 organised by the IFIP Technical Committee TC9 on the Relationship Between ICT and Society. The HCC9 part is subdivided into four tracks: Ethics and ICT Governance, Virtual Technologies and Social Shaping, Surveillance and Privacy, and ICT and Sustainable Development. The second part consists of papers given at the Critical Information Infrastructure Protection Conference CIP organized by the IFIP Technical Committee TC11 on Security and Privacy Protection in Information Processing Systems. The two parts of the book are introduced by the respective Conference Chairs. Chapter 1 introduces HCC9 providing a short summary of the HCC conference series which started in 1974 and explaining the overview of HCC9 detailing the rationale behind each of the tracks in this conference. The details related to the papers of each track are discussed by the Track Chairs in the respective introductions to the specific tracks of HCC9. Chaps 2, 10, 16 and 22. Finally Chap 22 introduces the CIP part.

Governing Telecommunications and the New Information Society in Europe Jacint Jordana, 2002-10-29 offers a fresh look at efforts to manage telecommunications and the emerging information society in Europe. _ Communication Booknotes Quarterly. European countries have recently been involved in an extremely broad set of regulator. Informational Society Alfred L. Norman, 2025-06-17 This book explores the transition into a future economy where human work is largely replaced by automation. As this transition takes place, job destruction will outpace job creation, resulting in increasing unemployment. The author theorizes that the key challenges in managing this transition will be providing income for the unemployed, reforming a government dominated by the wealthy and corporate interests, and creating new social structures to replace work as a central focus of life. The book begins with a discussion of the concept of bounded rationality and how it influences the pace of technological adoption. The author also discusses how advances in technology, particularly in automation, affect both physical and informational tasks, transforming industries and reducing employment across sectors. Next, the author turns to government, addressing successes and failures in addressing current issues like climate change, immigration, economic inequality, and government capture by the wealthy and corporations. Government reform is essential for managing the social and economic impacts of automation. Positing that the transition period will begin between 2030 and 2050, the author recommends that planning should begin now to implement solutions including a negative income tax, affordable housing, and a shift towards leisure-based social organization. Theories of the Information Society Frank Webster, 2002. Popular opinion suggests that information has become a distinguishing feature of the modern world. Where once economies were built on industry and conquest, we are now instead said to be part of a global information economy. In this new and thoroughly revised edition of his popular book, author Webster brings his work up to date both with new theoretical work and with social and technological changes such as the rapid growth of the internet and accelerated globalization and reassesses the work of key theorists in light of these changes This book is essential reading for students of contemporary social theory and anybody interested in social and technological change in the post war era      OECD Public Governance Reviews Finland:

Working Together to Sustain Success OECD,2010-09-09 This review of public governance in Finland finds the traditional Nordic model under pressure from rapid ageing the economic crisis and societal disillusionment It makes recommendations for improving public governance in Finland      Civil Society Media and Global Governance Arne Hintz,2009 How do community alternative and citizens media activists and advocates interact with global media policy processes Are their concerns recognised and do new forms of multi stakeholder governance offer a place for them Focusing on the United Nations World Summit on the Information Society Civil Society Media and Global Governance examines agendas and strategies of media actors traces successes and failures and proposes a new conceptual framework for the relation of these media with global policy processes      Systems Thinking and E-Participation: ICT in the Governance of Society

Cordoba-Pachon, Jose Rodrigo,Ochoa-Arias, Alejandro Elias,2009-12-31 The development of information based societies worldwide is now impacting public organizations and their delivery of services to citizens Systems Thinking and E Participation ICT in the Governance of Society provides a systemic based inquiry platform to explore boundaries limits and advantages of information and communication technology use in the public decision making processes With theoretical and practical contributions this publication examines the impact of governmental technologies useful to those involved with politics sociology and information systems      E-government and Organisation Development Orla O'Donnell,2004

OECD e-Government Studies: Hungary 2007 OECD,2007-06-01 This comprehensive review of e government in Hungary draws important lessons from the Hungarian experience and identifies the challenges Hungary faces in using e government to improve government      The Early Information Society Alistair Black,Dave Muddiman,2016-03-23 Whether termed the network society the knowledge society or the information society it is widely accepted that a new age has dawned unveiled by powerful computer and communication technologies Yet for millennia humans have been recording knowledge and culture engaging in the dissemination and preservation of information In The Early Information Society the authors argue for an earlier incarnation of the information age focusing upon the period 1900 1960 In support of this they examine the history and traditions in Britain of two separate but related information rich occupations information management and information science repositioning their origins before the age of the computer and identifying the forces driving their early development The Early Information Society offers an historical account which questions the novelty of the current information society It will be essential reading for students researchers and practitioners in the library and information science field and for sociologists and historians interested in the information society      Global E-Governance J. Tuhtimhin,R. Pipe,2009-06-19 Governments are being transformed at every level due to advances in technology and innovative programs that open vast opportunities for delivery of public services interact with citizens and business and promote democracy It is essential that those responsible for operating these services are well trained to provide the leadership needed for successful application of e Services This is the second volume in the Global e Governance Series and focuses on Advancing e Governance Through Innovation and Leadership by presenting original articles by international experts National Case Studies and CIO Training Course materials This book will serve as a research tool for those examining current economic developments such as the financial crisis and how the consequences may impact the advancement of e Government programs including requirements for professional staff and experts to operate e Services Several chapters also address issues involved in promoting Green ICT A number of potential benefits have been examined by several international organizations and national governments which could become a significant component Consequently there are several practical dimensions to Advancing e Government Through Innovation and Leadership

Civil Society Participation in European and Global Governance J. Steffek, C. Kissling, P. Nanz, 2007-12-04 It is often argued that the enhanced consultation of civil society contributes to the democratization of European and global governance This collection investigates whether this theoretical argument is supported by empirical evidence Ten original essays analyze current patterns of civil society consultation in 32 intergovernmental organizations

Towards Sustainable Society on Ubiquitous Networks Makoto Oya, Ryuya Uda, Chizuko Yasunobu, 2008-09-02 The massive growth of the Internet has made an enormous amount of information available to us However it is becoming very difficult for users to acquire an applicable one Therefore some techniques such as information filtering have been introduced to address this issue Recommender systems filter information that is useful to a user from a large amount of information Many e commerce sites use recommender systems to filter specific information that users want out of an overload of information 2 For example Amazon.com is a good example of the success of recommender systems 1 Over the past several years a considerable amount of research has been conducted on recommendation systems In general the usefulness of the recommendation is measured based on its accuracy 3 Although a high recommendation accuracy can indicate a user's favorite items there is a fault in that only similar items will be recommended Several studies have reported that users might not be satisfied with a recommendation even though it exhibits high recommendation accuracy 4 For this reason we consider that a recommendation having only accuracy is satisfactory The serendipity of a recommendation is an important element when considering a user's long term profits A recommendation that brings serendipity to users would solve the problem of user weariness and would lead to exploitation of users tastes The viewpoint of the diversity of the recommendation as well as its accuracy should be required for future recommender systems
