Governing The Bbc:

Governing the BBC (British Broadcasting Corporation). Great Britain. British Broadcasting Corporation (BBC), Asa Briggs, 1979 The governance and regulation of the BBC Great Britain: Parliament: House of Lords: Select Committee on Communications, 2011-06-29 In this report into the governance and regulation of the BBC the Communications Committee finds too many different processes for varying types of complaint making it very difficult for viewers listeners and users of BBC content to know where to go to complain The BBC needs to provide a clear overview of how the complaints process works and publish this in one place on its website and there needs to be a clearing house to direct people through the complaints process The confusion is in part because the BBC Trust and Ofcom have overlapping jurisdiction in several areas of content regulation with the exception of issues of impartiality and accuracy and commercial references which the BBC Trust regulates In particular the Committee wants the BBC and Ofcom to consider granting Ofcom the right to regulate the BBC on matters of impartiality and accuracy In addition creativity must not be allowed to be stifled by an overly bureaucratic compliance culture Best practice for programme making needs to be established to ease concerns that it isn't always clear to viewers what is reality reconstructed and constructed footage Greater clarity is needed on the governance role of the Non Executives on the on the BBC Executive Board who should be recruited from a wider range of backgrounds than they are presently Terms of access for the NAO to the BBC must be agreed ensuring that the NAO does not comment on any matters of broadcast content or journalistic integrity Governing the BBC Asa Briggs, 1979 The Review of the BBC's Royal Charter Great Britain: Parliament: House of Lords: Select Committee on the BBC Charter Review, 2005-11 The Committee's report examines the Government's proposals for the future of the BBC as set out in the Government's Green Paper A strong BBC independent of government published by the DCMS in March 2005 for consultation The Committee's conclusions include i that the BBC's mandate and structure should be defined in statute rather than by Royal Charter ii the licence fee is the best way to fund the BBC over the next decade although the system for agreeing the cost of the fee should be more transparent with the BBC bid subject to independent investigation by the NAO iii the Government rather than the licence fee payer should fund the costs of the analogue switch off and iv the Government's proposals for reforming the governance and regulation of the BBC are confusing misguided and unworkable A further report is due to be published by the Committee in Spring 2005 which will focus on the role of the BBC in the nations and the regions the BBC World Service and the broadcasting of sport and religion BBC licence fee settlement and annual report Great Britain: Parliament: House of Commons: Culture, Media and Sport Committee, 2011-05-19 The Culture Media and Sport Committee says that the main outcomes of the BBC Trust's strategic review do not move the BBC on to the extent required by current circumstances and that the incoming Chairman will have much to get grips with The new licence fee agreement was reached unexpectedly in October 2010 between the Department for Culture Media and Sport and the BBC but without any time for wider consultation with viewers or Parliament The Committee believes the agreement reached is a reasonable one but the process undermined confidence in both the Government's and the BBC's commitment to transparency and accountability On the partnership between BBC and S4C it is unclear how S4C can retain its independence under the new arrangements It is extraordinary that the Government and the BBC should agree such wide ranging changes without consultation or giving S4C any notice or say at all The Committee is particularly concerned that National Audit Office still does not have the promised access to conduct independent assessments of the BBC's value for money The Committee is also disappointed that banded information on talent salaries is still not in the public domain The BBC opened itself to predictable ridicule with the decision to hire a migration manager who had to commute from the United States to manage the transition to the new Salford site The report concludes that big questions remain over how radically the BBC needs to reconfigure both content and delivery in the years ahead

The BBC and the Public Barrie Gunter, 2024-10-23 This book examines the relationship between the public and the BBC in terms of public use of the BBC and their attitudes towards it These audience research measures are being used as metrics to assess the value of the BBC to the UK public Some of the attitudinal measures address perceptions of the BBC's outputs and some examine public views about the way the BBC is funded and managed The book has been written at a time when the BBC reached its centenary and also the mid point of its latest Royal Charter period At the time of writing the government had begun a mid term review of its performance as judged by its attainment of objectives set out in that Charter The Secretary of State for Digital Culture Media and Sport at the time of the mid term review had spoken and written openly about abolishing the TV licence fee and the introduction of a new funding model for the BBC that would be implemented in its new Royal Charter due to be enacted in 2027 Against this backdrop this book examines public opinion about the funding of the BBC and then looks at changing media consumption habits and how these have affected patronage of the BBC's outputs Ultimately a decision must be taken about the kind of national broadcaster the UK both its government and its citizens would like to keep in the future Changing the funding model without first defining what the BBC should do and how it should be structured and resourced to do it could result in a messy solution that satisfies and benefits no one A Public BBC Great Britain.

Scientific governance in Britain, 1914-79 Don Leggett, Charlotte Sleight, 2016-08-31 Scientific governance in Britain 1914 79 examines the connected histories of how science was governed and used in governance in twentieth century Britain During the middle portion of that century British science grew dramatically in scale reach and value These changes were due in no small part to the two world wars and their associated effects notably post war reconstruction and the on going Cold War As the century went on there were more scientists requiring more money to fund their research occupying ever more niches in industry academia military and civil institutions Combining the latest research on twentieth century British science with insightful discussion of what it meant to govern and govern with science this volume provides both an invaluable introduction to science in twentieth century Britain for students and a fresh thematic focus on science and government for researchers interested in the histories of science and governance This volume features a foreword from Sir John Beddington UK Government Chief Scientific Adviser 2008 13 Journalism: Critical Issues Allan, Stuart, 2005-01-01 Over the years it has been frequently remarked that journalism is at a crossroads indeed so often that it risks sounding somewhat clichéd yet there is every indication that its very forms practices and institutions are being decisively transformed with startling implications Accordingly the principal aim of this book is to help provide the basis for new dialogues to emerge regarding journalism today as well as about where it may be heading tomorrow Journalism Critical Issues poses a series of important questions afresh questions deserving of much greater attention than they have typically received to date Each of the contributors seeks to challenge conventional ways of thinking about the critical issue at stake in their respective chapter In so doing it is their intention to further our understanding but also to encourage future explorations with the potential to revitalise journalism studies In adopting this approach it is hoped that the book will make for a lively argumentative in the best sense of the word and engaging intervention

HL 96 - BBC Charter Review: Reith Not Revolution The Stationery Office, 2016 The BBC has a special status It is established by Royal Charter it is independent and its principal source of funding is a universal licence fee We think that the current review of the BBC s Royal Charter to which our report contributes provides an opportunity to ensure that the BBC remains the keystone of British broadcasting plays a central role in the wider creative industries in the United Kingdom and continues to be respected across the world The Reithian Principles to inform educate and entertain should be reaffirmed as the mission statement of the BBC and within the BBC itself given greater prominence As the starting point for a new accountability framework the BBC should adopt Ofcom s four general Public Service Broadcasting purposes informing our understanding of the world stimulating knowledge and learning reflecting UK cultural identity and representing diversity and alternative viewpoints In recognition of its privileged status we believe the BBC should set the gold standard amongst the broadcasters in fulfilling the public service broadcasting PSB purposes It should be an exemplar of value driven broadcasting We also expect the BBC to make a particular commitment to reflecting the nations regions and all the diverse communities of the UK The BBC executive should establish a new set of values in the next Charter period that permeate through the BBC and are apparent in all the content it produces This new framework should replace the current multiple layers of accountability which have emerged over the last decade Purpose Remits and Purpose Priorities should be scrapped Service licences should be retained simplified strengthened and leave no room for doubt about the contribution of each service to the BBC s overall mission and values The service licences must also encourage creativity

The War Against the BBC Patrick Barwise, Peter York, 2020-11-19 There s a war on against the BBC

It is under threat as never before And if we lose it we won't get it back The BBC is our most important cultural institution our best value entertainment provider and the global face of Britain It's our most trusted news source in a world of divisive disinformation But it is facing relentless attacks by powerful commercial and political enemies including deep funding cuts much deeper than most people realise with imminent further cuts threatened This book busts the myths about the BBC and shows us how we can save it before it's too late

BBC Commercial Operations Great Britain: Parliament: House of Commons: Culture, Media and Sport Committee, 2009 This report investigates the governance of the BBC's commercial arm BBC Worldwide the activities of BBC Worldwide including programme sales production magazines and websites BBC Worldwide's acquisition of Lonely Planet and the possible partnership between BBC Worldwide and Channel 4 There are major benefits from the BBC undertaking commercial activities the profits generated by the exploitation of the BBC's intellectual property can be reinvested in the BBC's public services to the benefit of licence fee payers But the manner in which some of the BBC's commercial revenue is generated and the governance arrangements within which the BBC Worldwide operates causes increasing concern Worldwide has proved successful in recent years in exploiting new commercial opportunities made possible by a loosening of the rules that govern the limits to its operations However there is a balance to be drawn between Worldwide generating a return for the BBC and limiting Worldwide's operations in order to ensure it upholds the BBC's reputation and does not damage its commercial competitors Worldwide's minority stakes in overseas production companies its controversial acquisition of Lonely Planet and its growing portfolio of magazines suggest that the balance has been tipped too far in favour of Worldwide's unrestricted expansion jeopardising the reputation of the BBC and having an adverse impact on its commercial competitors It is in the interests of the UK's creative economy as a whole that BBC Worldwide's activities are reined back The BBC Trust should reinstate the rule that all BBC commercial activity must have a clear link with core BBC programming

Social Media at BBC News Valerie Belair-Gagnon, 2015-02-11 Since the emergence of social media in the journalistic landscape the BBC has sought to produce reporting more connected to its audience while retaining its authority as a public broadcaster in crisis reporting Using empirical analysis of crisis news production at the BBC this book shows that the emergence of social media at the BBC and the need to manage this kind of material led to a new media logic in which tech savvy journalists take on a new centrality in the newsroom In this changed context the politico economic and socio cultural logic have led to a more connected newsroom involving this new breed of journalists and BBC audience This examination of news production events shows that in the midst of transformations in journalistic practices and norms including newsgathering sourcing distribution and impartiality the BBC has reasserted its authority as a public broadcaster Click here for a short video about the book
