Urban Mass Transportation Abstracts ,1982 New Zealand Books in Print ,1999 Urbanization, Biodiversity and Ecosystem Services: Challenges and Opportunities Thomas Elmqvist,Michail Fragkias,Julie Goodness,Burak Güneralp,Peter J. Marcotullio,Robert I. McDonald,Susan Parnell,Maria Schewenius,Marte Sendstad,Karen C. Seto,Cathy Wilkinson,2013-09-21 Urbanization is a global phenomenon and the book emphasizes that this is not just a social technological process It is also a social ecological process where cities are places for nature and where cities also are dependent on and have impacts on the biosphere at different scales from local to global The book is a global assessment and delivers four main conclusions Urban areas are expanding faster than urban populations Half the increase in urban land across the world over the next 20 years will occur in Asia with the most extensive change expected to take place in India and China Urban areas modify their local and regional climate through the urban heat island effect and by altering precipitation patterns which together will have significant impacts on net primary production ecosystem health and biodiversity Urban expansion will heavily draw on natural resources including water on a global scale and will often consume prime agricultural land with knock on effects on biodiversity and ecosystem services elsewhere Future urban expansion will often occur in areas where the capacity for formal governance is restricted which will constrain the protection of biodiversity and management of ecosystem services People's Raj ,1975 Thinking inside the box Jeroen Deenik,2019-05-22 Dynamics of Learning in Neanderthals and Modern Humans Volume 1 Takeru Akazawa,Yoshihiro Nishiaki,Kenichi Aoki,2013-12-16 This volume presents the first of two proceedings from the International Conference on the Replacement of Neanderthals by Modern Humans which took place in Tokyo in November 2012 Focussing on a highly innovative working hypothesis called the learning hypothesis which attempts to explain the replacement as a result of differences in the learning abilities of these two hominid populations the conference served as the latest multidisciplinary discussion forum on this intriguing Palaeoanthropological issue The present volume reports on outcomes of the conference in three major sections Part 1 provides an archaeological overview of the processes of replacement assimilation of Neanderthals by modern humans Part 2 consists of archaeological and ethnographic case studies exploring evidence of learning behaviours in prehistoric and modern hunter gatherer societies Part 3 presents a collection of papers that directly contributes to the definition validation and testing of the learning hypothesis in terms of population biology and evolutionary theory A total of 18 papers in this volume make available to readers unique cultural perspectives on mechanisms of the replacement assimilation of Neanderthals by modern humans and suggested relationships between these mechanisms and different learning strategies Work in the 21st Century, with EEPUB Access Jeffrey M. Hendershot, Marjorie C. Horn, William D. Mosher, 1988 The 1982 statistics on the use of family planning and infertility services presented in this report are preliminary results from Cycle III of the National Survey of Family Growth NSFG conducted by the National Center for Health Statistics Data were collected through personal interviews with a multistage area probability sample of 7969 women aged 15-44. A detailed series of questions was asked to obtain relatively complete estimates of the extent and type of family planning services received. Statistics on family planning services are limited to women who were able to conceive 3 years before the interview date. Overall, 79% of currently married nonsterile women reported using some type of family planning service during the previous 3 years. There were no statistically significant differences between white (79%), black (75%), or Hispanic (77%) women or between the 2 income groups. The 1982 survey questions were more comprehensive than those of earlier cycles of the survey. The annual rate of visits for family planning services in 1982 was 1077 visits/1000 women. Teenagers had the highest annual visit rate (1581/1000) of any age group for all sources of family planning services combined. Visit rates declined sharply with age from 1447 at ages 15-24 to 479 at ages 35-44. Similar declines with age also were found in the visit rates for white and black women separately. Nevertheless, the annual visit rate for black women (1334/1000) was significantly higher than that for white women (1033). The highest overall visit rate was for black women 15-19 years of age (1867/1000). Nearly 2/3 of all family planning visits were to private medical sources. Teenagers of all races had higher family planning service visit rates to clinics than to private medical sources, as did black women age 15-24. White women age 20 and older had higher visit rates to private medical services than to clinics. Never married women had higher visit rates to clinics than currently or formerly married women. Data were also collected in 1982 on use of medical services for infertility by women who had difficulty in conceiving or carrying a pregnancy to term. About 1 million ever married women had 1 or more infertility visits in the 12 months before the interview. During the 3 years before interview, about 1.9 million women had infertility visits. For all ever married women, as well as for white and black women separately, infertility services were more likely to be secured from private medical sources than from clinics. The survey design, reliability of the estimates, and the terms used are explained in the technical notes.

An Introduction to Sustainable Transportation Preston L. Schiller, Jeffrey Kenworthy, 2017-11-09. Cities around the globe struggle to create better and more equitable access to important destinations and services all the while reducing the energy consumption and environmental impacts of mobility. An Introduction to Sustainable Transportation illustrates a new planning paradigm for sustainable transportation through case studies from around the world with hundreds of valuable resources and references, color photos, graphics, and tables. The second edition builds and expands upon the highly acclaimed first edition with new chapters on urban design and urban regional and intercity public transportation, as well as expanded chapters on automobile dependence and equity issues, automobile cities and the car culture, the history of sustainable and unsustainable transportation, the interrelatedness of technologies, infrastructure, energy, and functionalities, and public policy and public participation, and exemplary places, people, and programs around the globe. Among the many valuable additions are discussions of autonomous vehicles (AVs), electric vehicles
