Flagle, 2012-12-06 In the early stages of planning the Third International Conference in System Science in Health Care the steering committee members most of whom had participated in the first conference in Paris 1976 and the second in Montreal 1980 made some basic decisions about organization of subject matter The earlier meetings had been very successful in bringing together specialists from the health professions and the traditional sciences In addition to physicians and nurses these were representatives of the disciplines of the behavioral sciences system theory economics engineering and the emergency fields of management science and informatics all concerned with the development of health resources in a broad system context The reported research and experience of the many disciplines represented had dealt with one or more of three concerns 1 a major health problem such as cardiovascular disease or an important population at risk such as the elderly or children or workers 2 some generic aspect of organization and decision making including trial and evaluation of innovative health strategies and 3 the methodology of research and analysis in system of health service The challenge to the conference organizers lay in the eliciting and arranging of experiences in such a way that the health services could be seen as purposeful living evolving systems Technometrics , 1974 Datamation , 1974 First Generation Mainframes Stephen H. Kaisler, 2018-11-30 This volume describes several different models of IBM computer systems characterized by different data representations and instruction sets that strongly influenced computer system architecture in the 1950s and early 1960s They focused on a common system architecture that allowed peripherals to be used on different systems albeit with specific adapters These systems were modular which made them easy to manufacture configure and service Computing with UNIVAC they used reliable Williams Tubes for memory and later introduced magnetic core memory IBM developed its own magnetic tape drives and magnetic drums that were both faster and more reliable than UNIVAC's peripherals The first software systems that could reasonably be called operating systems enabled more efficient use of programmer time and system resources The development of programming languages notably FORTRAN and assembly language processors notably Autocoder improved the productivity of programmers In addition IBM developed one of the finest product marketing sales and servicing organizations in the world The legacy of the IBM 700 series is found in their popular successors the IBM 7000 Series which will be described in a forthcoming volume

TRON Project 1987 Open-Architecture Computer Systems Ken Sakamura, 2012-12-06 Almost 4 years have elapsed since Dr Ken Sakamura of The University of Tokyo first proposed the TRON the realtime operating system nucleus concept and 18 months since the foundation of the TRON Association on 16 June 1986 Members of the Association from Japan and overseas currently exceed 80 corporations The TRON concept as advocated by Dr Ken Sakamura is concerned with the problem of interaction between man and the computer the man machine interface which had not previously been given a great deal of attention Dr Sakamura has gone back to basics to create a new and complete cultural environment relative to computers and envisage a role for computers which will truly benefit mankind This concept has indeed caused a stir in the computer field The scope of the research work involved was initially regarded as being so extensive and diverse that the completion of activities was scheduled for the 1990s However I am happy to note that the enthusiasm expressed by individuals and organizations both within and outside Japan has permitted acceleration of the research and development activities It is to be hoped that the presentations of the Third TRON Project Symposium will further the progress toward the creation of a computer environment that will be compatible with the aspirations of mankind
