Writing Centres in Higher Education Laura Dison, Sherran Clarence, 2017-01-01. Writing Centres in South Africa and globally are now well-established academic support centres within many universities. Historically tasked with supporting students as they grapple with the demands of academic writing, many centres are now moving beyond their own walls to work with academic tutors, lecturers, and departments to rethink the ways in which knowledge is transformed into different kinds of disciplinary writing. This move raises pertinent questions for writing centre directors, tutors, consultants, and for the universities that house them: how does a centre tasked with supporting more general academic literacy development through writing pedagogies initiate students into a range of particularised discourse communities? How do writing centre staff and disciplinary lecturers negotiate their shared and separate concerns for student learning through collaborative writing development projects? How do writing centres work with assignments and forms of literacy that challenge them to reconfigure their own pedagogical practices and expand their conceptions of writing support? How do writing centres maintain their core focus as they move flexibly beyond their own spaces to understand the nature of disciplinary writing? This collection of essays reflects on the ways in which writing centres in South Africa are working in and across disciplines. Institutional constraints and challenges that arise from these collaborations are addressed, and opportunities for transforming teaching and learning spaces are explored. The chapters speak to the global move in higher education to reconsider how knowledge is made, who makes it, and how support and development opportunities for students and lecturers should be created and sustained across the disciplines. This volume contributes to the body of knowledge in the growing field of the scholarship of teaching and learning in higher education in South Africa. It builds on the work of the first collection of such essays, Changing Spaces: Writing Centres and Access to Higher Education. Eds A Archer and R Richards 2011 SUN PReSS to understand why working within the disciplines is so critical for writing development in a South African context The Nuts and Bolts of Arabic-English Translation Ali Almannan, 2019-01-29 This book is aimed primarily at undergraduate and postgraduate students of translation and contrastive linguistics across the world as well as their instructors It does not confine itself to showing the differences between Arabic and English in terms of traditional grammar alone but gently extends to the discussion of such issues as functional grammar syntax cohesion semantics pragmatics cognitive linguistics stylistics text typology translation procedures and to a certain degree translation theories It will serve to develop a professional translation competence in all essential areas in students and trainees by providing a suitably wide range of bidirectional practice materials for them and their teachers Such competence will be developed from the basis of a contrastive study of Arabic and English and will embrace not just contrasting grammar but also such matters as awareness of collocations stylistics and cohesive devices and the identification of text types
