Classifier Structures in Mandarin Chinese Niina Ning Zhang, 2013-05-28 This monograph addresses fundamental syntactic issues of classifier constructions based on a thorough study of a typical classifier language Mandarin Chinese It shows that the contrast between count and mass is not binary Instead there are two independently attested features Numerability the ability of a noun to combine with a numeral directly and Delimitability the ability of a noun to be modified by a delimitive modifier such as size shape or boundary modifier Although all nouns in Chinese are non count nouns there is still a mass non mass contrast with mass nouns selected by individuating classifiers and non mass nouns selected by individual classifiers Some languages have the counterparts of Chinese individuating classifiers only some languages have the counterparts of Chinese individual classifiers only and some other languages have no counterpart of either individual or individuating classifiers of Chinese The book also reports that unit plurality can be expressed by reduplicative classifiers in the language Moreover for the constituency of a numeral expression an individual individuating or kind classifier combines with the noun first and then the numeral is integrated but a partitive or collective classifier like a measure word combines with the numeral first before the noun is integrated into the whole nominal structure Furthermore the book identifies the syntactic positions of various uses of classifiers in the language A classifier is at a functional head position that has a dependency with a numeral or a position that has a dependency with a generic or existential quantifier or a position that represents the singular plural contrast or a position that licenses a delimitive modifier when the classifier occurs in a compound

Pivotal Constructions in Chinese Rui Peng, 2017-03-21 This book presents a detailed analysis of the Chinese pivotal constructions PVCs and their diachronic developments from a constructionalist perspective with the focus on the growth of the constructional hierarchies of these constructions and the changes with respect to both the form and meaning properties over time The most important enabling factor behind the diachronic developments of the PVCs has been the sanction of the new instances conflicting with the constructions specifications Throughout history the PVCs have grown along the two dimensions i e inclusiveness and multileveledness leading to a steady increase in the sizes of their constructional hierarchies The two dimensional expansion of the PVCs constructional hierarchies has been accompanied by the gradual relaxation of the conditions constraining the earliest instances on multiple schematicity levels This book will be valuable to scholars working on diachronic construction grammar and language change as well as to those interested in the history of Chinese language

Up and down the Cline □ The Nature of Grammaticalization Olga Fischer, Muriel Norde, Harry Perridon, 2004-05-28 The basic idea behind this volume is to probe the nature of grammaticalization Its contributions focus on the following questions i In how far can grammaticalization be considered a universal diachronic process or mechanism of change and in how far is it conditioned by synchronic factors ii What is the role of the speaker in grammaticalization iii Does grammaticalization itself provide a cause for change or is it an epiphenomenon i e a conglomeration of causal factors mechanisms which elsewhere occur independently iv If it is epiphenominal how do we explain that similar pathways so often occur in known cases of grammaticalization v Is grammaticalization unidirectional vi What is the nature of the parameters guiding grammaticalization The overall aim of the book is to enrich our understanding of what grammaticalization does or does not entail via detailed case studies in combination with theoretical and methodological discussions

The Diachronic Development of Modal Expressions in Chinese Barbara Meisterernst, 2024-11-18 The present study is the first to apply a syntactic approach to the grammaticalization of Chinese modals based on hypotheses on cross linguistic diachronic developments of modals from lexical to functional categories as upward movement on a functional spine The temporal framework of the study covers Late Archaic and Middle Chinese Early Middle Chinese is a crucial turning point for the development of Chinese from a more synthetic to a more analytic language This change is attributed e g to the loss of a former morphology which also affects the modal system Against this background the negative cycle of Chinese the relevance of polarity contexts and the development of a new system of deontic epistemic and future markers are analyzed In addition to a comprehensive analysis of the syntactic processes involved in the diachronic changes of the Chinese modal system the study also provides a comparison with the syntax of grammaticalization of the thoroughly discussed Germanic modals This constitutes a broad basis for further analyses of the changes in the Chinese language during its long written history but also for cross linguistic studies on the syntax of grammaticalization and on linguistic universals
