Grand Canyon The Hidden Secrets Large Format:

Virtual Voyages Jeffrey Ruoff, 2006-01-24 Virtual Voyages illuminates the pivotal role of travelogues within the history of cinema. The travelogue dominated the early cinema period from 1895 to 1905, was central to the consolidation of documentary in the 1910s and 1920s, proliferated in the postwar era of 16mm distribution and today continues to flourish in IMAX theaters and a host of non-theatrical venues. It is not only the first chapter in the history of documentary but also a key element of ethnographic film, home movies and fiction films. In this collection, leading film scholars trace the intersection of technology and ideology in representations of travel across a wide variety of cinematic forms. In so doing, they demonstrate how attention to the role of travel imagery in film blurs distinctions between genres and heightens awareness of cinema as a technology for moving through space and time of cinema itself as a mode of travel. Some contributors take a broad view of travelogues by examining the colonial and imperial perspectives embodied in early travel films, the sensation of movement that those films evoked and the role of live presentations such as lectures in our understanding of travelogues. Other essays are focused on specific films, figures and technologies, including early travelogues encouraging Americans to move to the West, the making and reception of the documentary Grass (1925), shot on location in Turkey, Syria, Iraq and Iran, the role of travel imagery in 1930s Hollywood cinema, the late twentieth-century 16mm illustrated lecture industry and the panoramic possibilities presented by IMAX technologies. Together, the essays provide a nuanced appreciation of how, through their representations of travel, filmmakers actively produce the worlds they depict. Contributors: Rick Altman, Paula Amad, Dana Benelli, Peter J. Bloom, Alison Griffiths, Tom Gunning, Hamid Naficy, Jennifer Lynn Peterson, Lauren Rabinovitz, Jeffrey Ruoff, Alexandra Schneider, Amy J. Staples. Culture, Technology, and the Creation of America's National Parks Richard A. Grusin, 2004-04-22 Richard Grusin's innovative study investigates how the establishment of national parks participated in the production of American national identity after the Civil War. The creation of America's national parks is usually seen as an uncomplicated act of environmental preservation. Grusin argues instead that parks must be understood as complex cultural technologies for the reproduction of nature as landscape art. He explores the origins of America's three major parks, Yosemite, Yellowstone and Grand Canyon, in relation to other forms of landscape representation, including photography, mapping, travel writing and fiction. A History of Three-Dimensional Cinema David A. Cook, 2021-09-14 A History of Three-Dimensional Cinema chronicles 3-D cinema as a single continuous and coherent medium, proceeding from 19th-century experiments in stereoscopic photography and lantern projection (1839-1892) to stereoscopic cinema's long novelty period (1893-1952). It proceeds to examine the first Hollywood boom in anaglyphic stereo (1953-1955), when the mainstream industry produced 69 features in 3-D, mostly action films that could exploit the depth illusion but also a handful of big-budget films, for example Kiss Me Kate (George Sidney, 1953) and Dial M for Murder (Alfred Hitchcock, 1954). Until audiences tired of the process, the anaglyphic revival of 1970-1985, when 3-D was sustained as a novelty feature in sensational genres like soft-core pornography.

and horror the age of IMAX 3 D 1986 2008 the current era of digital 3 D cinema which began in 2009 when James Cameron s Avatar became the highest grossing feature of all time and the studios once again stampeded into 3 D production and finally the future promise of Virtual Reality Fodor's Arizona & the Grand Canyon Fodor's Travel Publications, Inc,2006-10 Includes where to stay and eat must see sights and local secrets and a map to get you where you are going International Documentary ,2003 Indianapolis Monthly ,1997-01 Indianapolis Monthly is the Circle City s essential chronicle and guide an indispensable authority on what s new and what s news Through coverage of politics crime dining style business sports and arts and entertainment each issue offers compelling narrative stories and lively urbane coverage of Indy s cultural landscape New York ,2002-05 Marketing to Moviegoers Robert Marich,2013-01-30 While Hollywood executives spend millions of dollars making movies even more money is poured into selling those films to the public In the third edition of his comprehensive guidebook Marketing to Moviegoers A Handbook of Strategies and Tactics veteran film and TV journalist Robert Marich plumbs the depths of the methods used by studios to market their films to consumers Updates to the third edition include a chapter on marketing movies using digital media an insightful discussion of the use of music in film trailers new and expanded materials on marketing targeted toward affinity groups and awards fresh analysis of booking contracts between theaters and distributors a brief history of indie film marketing and explorations of the overlooked potential of the drive in theater and the revival of third party financed movie campaigns While many books have been written on the business to business aspect of film promotion Marich s volume is one of the few that focuses on the techniques used to sell motion pictures to those in a position to truly make or break a film the public A highly navigable handbook that breaks down a complicated process into manageable strategies in an easy to read style Marketing to Moviegoers is a must for all professionals and students in today s rapidly evolving film industry Film in the Post-Media Age Ágnes Pethő,2012-03-15 Ever since the centenary of cinema there have been intense discussions in the field of film studies about the imminent demise of the cinematic medium endless articles championing the spirit of genuine cinephilia have proclaimed the death of classical cinema and mourned the end of an era while new currents in media studies introduced such buzzwords into the discussions as remediation Bolter and Grusin media convergence Jenkins post media aesthetics Manovich or the virtual life of film Rodowick By the turn of the millennium the whole ecosystem of media had been radically altered through processes of hybridization and media convergence Some theorists even claim that now that the term medium has triumphed in the discussions around contemporary art and culture the actual media have already deceased as digitized imagery absorbs all media Moving images have entered the art galleries and new forms of inter art relationships have been forged They have also moved into the streets and our everyday life as a domesticated medium at everybody s reach into new private and public environments and into a fusion of both via the Internet Consequently should we speak of an all pervasive cinematic experience instead of a cinematic medium What really happens to film once its traditional medium has shape shifted into various digital forms and once its traditional locations institutions and usages have been uprooted What do these re locations and re configurations really entail What are the most important new genres in post media moving pictures Is it the web video is it 3D cinema is it the computer game that operates with moving image narratives is it the new vernacular database the DVD or the good old television adjusted to all these new forms How does theatrical cinema itself adapt to or reflect on these new image forms and technologies How can we interpret the convergence of older cinematic forms with an emerging digital aesthetics traceable in typical post media hosts of moving images These are only some of the major questions that the theoretical investigation and in depth analyses in this volume try to answer in an attempt at exploring not the disappearance of cinema but the blooming post media life of film
