through partition and decolonisation in terms of novelty and as a restarting of time Through his analysis Svensson demonstrates the constitutive and inexorable entwinement of contingency and restoration of openness and closure in the establishment of the postcolonial state It is maintained that those involved in instituting the new state in a moment devoid of fixity and foundation anchor it in preceding beginnings The work concludes with the proposition that the novelty should not only be regarded as contained in the moment of transition It should also be seen as contained in the pledge in the promise and the gesturing towards a future community Distinct from most other studies on the partition and independence the book assumes the constitutive moment as the focal point offering a new approach to the study of partition in British India decolonisation and the institutional of the postcolonial state This work will be of great interest to students and scholars of international relations South Asian studies and political and postcolonial theory
