The Reception of Laurence Sterne in Europe Peter de Voogd, John Neubauer, 2008-12-22. A comprehensive volume of international research on the European reception of Laurence Sterne.

Everyday Life in the German Book Trade Pamela E. Selwyn, 2010-11-17. In his popular book The Germans 1982, Stanford historian Gordon Craig remarked: When German intellectuals at the end of the eighteenth century talked of living in a Frederician age, they were sometimes referring not to the monarch in Sans Souci but to his namesake, the Berlin bookseller Friedrich Nicolai. Such was the importance attributed to Nicolai's role in the intellectual life of his age by his own contemporaries. While long neglected by students of the period who tended to accept the caricature of him as a philistine who failed to recognize Goethe's genius, Nicolai has experienced a resurgence of interest among scholars reexploring the German Enlightenment and the literary marketplace of the eighteenth century. This book, drawing upon Nicolai's large unpublished correspondence, rounds out the picture we have of Nicolai already as author and critic by focusing on his roles as bookseller and publisher and as an Aufkärer in the book trade.

A Bookseller's Hobby-Horse, and the Rhetoric of Translation Agnes M. Zwaneveld, 2022-06-13. A Bookseller's Hobby Horse and the Rhetoric of Translation is a study of the first Dutch translation of Tristram Shandy 1759-67 as a product of and factor in the reception of Sterne's novel in the Netherlands and as a specific manifestation of this reception: a derived text based on interpretation of the original. It took sixteen years for this translation to appear. Why was this so? And why did its publication 1776-79 prove unrewarding to the publisher? To answer the first question, Agnes Zwaneveld relates the development of Sterne appreciation in the Netherlands from neglect in the 1760s to a literary craze in the 1780s to a number of socio-cultural factors, including a growing interest in German literature. This relation with German literature is reflected in the choice of books published by A. E. Munnikhuisen, a Sterne enthusiast and conscientious publisher but also an outsider in the book trade whose audacity led to the commercial failure of his enterprise. A different question tackled in this study is to what extent the translation reflects the original text. Can it be accepted as a faithful rendering or rather as an adaptation, an imitatio in the classical tradition? To understand what norms the translator Bernardus Brunius followed and what effects he can have been aiming at, his work is described in terms of the rhetorical theory of translation adhered to in his day. To avoid subjectivity in assessing the resemblance between translation and original, the comparison focuses on composition and the use of rhetorical figures as formal aspects which can be easily recognised across the centuries The textual comparison was limited to the opening chapter of Tristram Shandy seen as the novel's exordium in which both author and translator are likely to have made a show of their intentions Close reading of this chapter resulted in an interpretation of Tristram's authorial performance as inspired by both Quintilian and Longinus

Disability in German Literature, Film, and Theater Eleoma Joshua, Michael W. J. Schillmeier, 2010 Examines cultural representations of blindness physical deformity injury illness and euthanasia and posits disability as historically central to discussions of humanity modernity and social and moral behavior in German language literature film and theater
