NHS pay modernisation Great Britain: National Audit Office,2008-02-28 Each year general medical practices provide some 290 million consultations The new contract implemented in April 2004 but increased spending began in April 2003 changed the basis for commissioning primary care services Instead of contracting with individual General Practitioners GPs Primary Care Trusts PCTs commission services from some 8 325 GP practices with around 33 000 GPs This study examines the negotiation and implementation of the new contract and how well it is working in practice In the first three years the PCTs spent 1 76 billion 9 4 per cent more than the minimum committed by the Department of Health Mostly this was due to an underestimation of the amount that GPs would earn from the pay for performance scheme the Quality and Outcomes Framework QOF and the additional cost of providing out of hours care most GPs have opted out of providing this service GPs salaries have increased by an average of 58 per cent Practice nurses have not benefited to the same extent While the number of consultations with patients has increased these are not in proportion with the increase in costs and productivity has fallen by 2 5 per cent per year GPs are working less hours Some progress has been made in extending the range of patient services reduced administration high quality care and linking pay and performance and staff satisfaction and morale Progress has not yet been demonstrated in productivity and re designing the services around patients The contract has contributed to improved recruitment and retention of GPs The NAO recommends that the Department develop a strategy for yearly negotiations on the QOF which should be based more on health outcomes PCTs should provide more services based on local need and review the number and skills of staff employed to commission and performance manage GP services with the aim of improving local commissioning

Mental Health and Care Homes Tom Denning,Alisoun Milne,2011-05-26 The care home sector is large with over 400 000 residents in the UK and a similar number employed within the homes It is therefore an area of considerable economic importance Care home residents are often very old and many have multiple physical and mental health needs meaning that their care poses particular challenges. They are also a distinctly and profoundly marginalised group who are often invisible in the wider debates on quality of care including those about care homes. Mental Health and Care Homes is a coherent and evidence based text exploring these issues. Bringing together both clinical and research perspectives it will help those working in the care home sector to deliver high quality care and support to both residents and staff. This important yet neglected area is thoroughly reviewed by a range of experts including residents, family carers, staff, researchers and clinicians. The book has four sections: the inside view which includes several first hand accounts of care home life; the outside view which discusses the regulatory, funding and legislative context in which care homes operate; mental health and care: a detailed review of the major mental and other health issues that arise in care homes as well as interventions and services to offer support; and a section exploring the promotion of health and wellbeing including examples of good practice. It concludes by synthesising key themes and setting an agenda for further enquiry. The book is written in a style that encourages engagement with the inclusion of contemporary case studies and examples making it topical and readable. It will be valuable for a broad professional and vocational audience across both health and social care as well as students and researchers.

The New Politics of the NHS Rudolf Klein, 2010. The New Politics of the NHS has become established over a quarter century and five editions as the key overview of the NHS and its processes and paths of influence. This latest edition remains a clear, easy to read guide to often complex debates. It encompasses both the background of the evolution of the NHS since its foundation and a completely up to date picture of its present and future in a more pluralistic and possibly more financially austere era in which deference to medical expertise is eroding and information on health and care is far more widely available. Assuming no prior knowledge of NHS politics and systems, The New Politics of the NHS focuses on management, structure, centralisation, funding, economic performance, challenges, current party political debates, interest groups and rationing, and also on the NHS's institutional and cultural continuity as a tax funded service providing comprehensive universal healthcare free at the point of delivery. It is a vital update for all healthcare professionals, NHS managers, policy makers and shapers, and those in special interest groups including patient advocacy organisations. From reviews of previous editions: A valuable insight into the discussions and decisions that determine such an important aspect of our daily life.
