John Divola John Divola, 1987 Catalogue of an exhibition held at the Gallery Min June 13 July 7 1987 John Divola Britt Salvesen, Karen Sinsheimer, Kathleen Stewart Howe, 2013 Encompassing four decades of work in the field of photography this publication examines the art of John Divola one of the most admired photographers working today Those interested in contemporary photography will welcome this volume exploring 10 major series by John Divola Starting with Vandalism his iconic look at Southern California in the 1970s and including his most recent work the Theodore Street project this collection of beautifully reproduced images shows how expertly Divola moves between medium and technique Using Polaroids of sculpted objects appropriated stereographs and landscapes featuring his own image Divola's diverse body of work explores painting and conceptual art through his photography Essays by the accompanying exhibitions curators explore themes such as existentialism California and photography in the 1970s and natural and built environments Divola's most recent project is discussed in an interview between the artist and Simon Baker JOHN DIVOLA., 1987 Three Acts John Divola, David Campany, Jan Tumlir, 2006 Over the course of the 1970s John Divola created three compelling bodies of work that together form this publication Vandalism LAX NAZ and Zuma The Vandalism series comprises black and white photographs of the interiors of abandoned houses After entering illegally Divola spray painted excessive markings in the form of dots lines and grids creating a series of conceptual gestures that referenced action painting as readily as graffiti The LAX NAZ Los Angeles International Airport Noise Abatement Zone series was created in a condemned neighborhood bought out by the airport to serve as a noise buffer for new runways Unlike the Vandalism series where the artist's own intervention is at the crux of the project here he focused on unsanctioned entries by vandals who had absconded long ago An extensive catalog of break ins the photographs record evidence of violent entries shattered windows doors kicked open The final project in this book the Zuma series is the artist's documentation of the destruction of an abandoned beachfront property While employing similar strategies of painting and intervention the Zuma images add variation and complexity to Divola's established themes as they incorporate color and elements of nature These cyclical images skillfully juxtapose romantic skies and sunsets with a seaside structure that frame by frame deteriorates into ruin An essay by David Campany examines the relationship between Divola's photographic practice forensics and the art world context in which it was created a period of redefinition for art and photography An interview by Jan Tumlir with the artist offers further insight into this rich and enigmatic body of work BOOK JACKET John Divola & Eileen Cowin John Divola, Eileen Cowin, 1985-12-01 Chroma. Ediz. illustrata John Divola, 2020 The Image in Early Cinema Scott Curtis, Philippe Gauthier, Tom Gunning, Joshua Yumibe, 2018-03-22 In The Image in Early Cinema the contributors examine intersections between early cinematic form technology theory practice and broader modes of visual culture They argue that early cinema emerged within a visual culture composed of a variety of traditions in art science education and image making Even as methods of motion picture production and distribution materialized they drew from and challenged practices and conventions in other mediums This rich visual culture produced a complicated overlapping network of image making traditions innovations and borrowing among painting tableaux vivants photography and other pictorial and projection practices Using a variety of concepts and theories the contributors explore these crisscrossing traditions and work against an essentialist notion of media to conceptualize the dynamic interrelationship between images and their context

John Divola John Divola, 2013 Before-and-After Photography Jordan Bear, Kate Palmer Albers, 2020-09-25 The before and after trope in photography has long paired images to represent change whether affirmatively as in the results of makeovers social reforms or medical interventions or negatively in the destruction of the environment by the impacts of war or natural disasters This interdisciplinary multi authored volume examines the central but almost unspoken position of before and after photography found in a wide range of contexts from the 19th century through to the present Packed with case studies that explore the conceptual implications of these images the book's rich language of evidence documentation and persuasion present both historical material and the work of practicing photographers who have deployed and challenged the conventions of the before and after pairing Touching on issues including sexuality race environmental change and criminality Before and After Photography examines major topics of current debate in the critique of photography in an accessible way to allow students and scholars to explore the rich conceptual issues around photography's relationship with time and imagination

John Divola and Colin Roberts at Patricia Faure Gallery John Divola, Colin Roberts, 2006 John Divola: Three Acts (Signed Edition), 2006-05 In 1973 California artist John Divola began the first of three highly ambitious and original bodies of work that form Three Acts the first book dedicated to them His Vandalism series comprises black and white photographs of interiors of abandoned houses Entering illegally Divola spray painted markings that referenced action painting as readily as the graffiti that was then becoming a cultural phenomenon For the following year's Los Angeles International Airport Noise Abatement series he photographed a condemned neighborhood bought out to serve as a noise buffer for new runways focusing on evidence of previous unsanctioned entries by other vandals His final work Zuma documents the destruction of an abandoned beachfront property by the artist and others as it deteriorates frame by frame and eventually burns Divola has much in common with artists such as Bruce Nauman and Robert Smithson who have used photography to investigate other topics He describes his innovative practice succinctly My acts my painting my photographing my considering are part of not separate from this process of evolution and change My participation was not so much one of intellectual consideration as one of visceral involvement

Lost Days, Endless Nights Andrew Witt, 2025-01-14 A critical study and artist's book on the history of photography and film from Los Angeles Lost Days Endless Nights tells a history from below an account of the lives of the forgotten and dispossessed of Los Angeles the unemployed the precariously employed the evicted the alienated the unhoused the anxious the exhausted Through an analysis of abandoned archival works experimental films and other projects Andrew Witt offers an expansive account of the artists who have lived or worked in Los Angeles delving into the region's history and geography highlighting its racial gender and class conflicts Presented as a series of nine case studies Witt explores how artists as diverse as Agn's Varda Dana Lixenberg Allan Sekula Catherine Opie John Divola Gregory Halpern Paul Sepuya and Guadalupe Rosales have reimagined and reshaped our understanding of contemporary Los Angeles The book features portraits of those who struggle and attempt to get by in the city dock workers students bus riders petty criminals office workers immigrants queer and trans activists Set against the landscape of economic turmoil and environmental crises that shadowed the 1970s Witt highlights the urgent need for a historical perspective of cultural retrieval and counternarrative Extending into the present Lost Days Endless Nights advocates for an approach that actively embraces the works and projects that have been overlooked and evicted from the historical imaginary

Criticizing Photographs Terry Barrett, 2020-11-29 Emphasizing the understanding of images and their influences on how they affect our attitudes beliefs and actions this fully updated sixth edition offers consequential ways of looking at images from the perspectives of photographers critics theoreticians historians curators and editors It invites informed conversations about meanings and implications of images providing multiple and sometimes conflicting answers to questions such as What are photographs Should they be called art Are they ethical What are their implications for self society and the world From showing how critics verbalize what they see in images and how they persuade us to see similarly to dealing with what different photographs might mean the book posits that some interpretations are better than others and explains how to deliberate among competing interpretations It looks at how the worth of photographs is judged aesthetically and socially offering samples and practical considerations for both studio critiques for artists and professional criticism for public audiences This book is a clear and accessible guide for students of art history photography and criticism as well as anyone interested in carefully looking at and talking about photographs and their effects on the world in which we live

Formulations Andrew Witt, 2022-01-11 An investigation of mathematics as it was drawn encoded imagined and interpreted by architects on the eve of digitization in the mid twentieth century In Formulations Andrew Witt examines the visual methodological and cultural intersections between architecture and mathematics The linkages Witt explores involve not the mystic transcendence of numbers invoked throughout architectural history but rather architecture's encounters with a range of calculational systems techniques that architects inventively retooled for design Witt offers a catalog of mid twentieth century practices of mathematical drawing and calculation in design that preceded and anticipated digitization as well as an account of the formal compendia that became a cultural currency shared between modern mathematicians and modern architects Witt presents a series of extensively illustrated biographies of method episodes that chart the myriad ways in which mathematics particularly the mathematical notion of modeling and drawing was spliced into the creative practice of design These include early drawing machines that mechanized curvature the incorporation of geometric maquettes theorems made flesh into the toolbox of design the virtualization of buildings and landscapes through surveyed triangulation and photogrammetry formal and functional topology stereoscopic drawing the economic implications of cubic matrices and a strange synthesis of the technological mineral and biological crystallographic design Trained in both architecture and mathematics Witt uses mathematics as a lens through which to understand the relationship between architecture and a much broader set of sciences and visual techniques Through an intercultural exchange with other disciplines he argues architecture adapted not only the shapes and surfaces of mathematics but also its values and epistemic ideals Space, Site, Intervention Erika Suderburg, 2000 From Ferdinand Cheval's Palais Ideal 1879 1905 and Simon Rodia's Watts Towers 1921 1954 to Ant Farm's Cadillac Ranch 1974 and Richard Serra's Tilted Arc 1981 installation art has continually crossed boundaries encompassing sculpture architecture performance and visual art Although unique in its power to transform both the site in which a work is constructed and the viewer's experience of being in a place installation art has not received the critical attention accorded other art forms In Space Site Intervention some of today's most prominent art critics curators and artists view installation art as a diverse multifaceted and international art form that challenges institutional assumptions and narrow conceptual frameworks The contributors discuss installation in relation to the genealogy of modern art community and corporate space multimedia cyberspace public and private ritual the gallery and the museum public and private patronage and political action This ambitious volume focuses on issues of class sexuality cultural identity race and gender and highlights a wide range of artists whose work is often marginalized by mainstream art history and criticism Together the essays in Space Site Intervention investigate how installation resonates within modern culture and society as well as its ongoing influence on contemporary visual culture Twentieth-century Color Photographs Sylvie Pénichon, 2013 With the advent of digital imaging the era of traditional color photography is coming to an end Yet more than 150 years after the invention of color photography museums archives and personal collections are full of images to be cherished studied and preserved These photographs often made with processes and materials no longer used or easily identified constitute an important part of the cultural and artistic heritage of the twentieth century Today it is more important than ever to capture the technical understanding of the processes that created these irreplaceable images In providing an accessible overview of the history and technology of the major traditional color photographic processes this abundantly illustrated volume promises to become the standard reference in its field Following an introductory chapter on color photography in the nineteenth century seven uniformly structured chapters discuss the most commercially or historically significant processes of the twentieth century additive color screen pigment dye imbibition dye coupling dye destruction dye diffusion and dye mordanting and silver toning offering readers a user friendly guide to materials methods of identification and common kinds of deterioration A final chapter presents specific guidelines for collection management storage and preservation There is also a glossary of technical terms along with appendixes presenting detailed chronologies for Kodachrome and Ektachrome transparencies Cibachrome Ilfochrome printing materials and Instant films This book will interest instructors and students in classroom settings conservators registrars curators archivists and collection caretakers and anyone else concerned with the long term preservation of color photographs      How Photography Became Contemporary Art Andy Grundberg, 2021-02-23 A leading critic's inside story of the photo boom during the crucial decades of the 1970s and 80s When Andy Grundberg landed in New York in the early 1970s as a budding writer photography was at the margins of the contemporary art world By 1991 when he left his post as critic for the New York Times photography was at the vital center of artistic debate Grundberg writes eloquently and authoritatively about photography's boom years chronicling the medium's increasing role within the most important art movements of the time from Earth Art and Conceptual Art to performance and video He also traces photography's embrace by museums and galleries as well as its politicization in the culture wars of the 80s and 90s Grundberg reflects on the landmark exhibitions that defined the moment and his encounters with the work of leading photographers many of whom he knew personally including Gordon Matta Clark Cindy Sherman and Robert Mapplethorpe He navigates crucial themes such as photography's relationship to theory as well as feminism and artists of color Part memoir and part history this perspective by one of the period's leading critics ultimately tells a larger story about the crucial decades of the 70s and 80s through the medium of photography      Starburst Kevin D. Moore, James Crump, Leo Rubinien, Cincinnati Art Museum, 2010 Edited and text by Kevin Moore Essays by James Crump Leo Rubinien      Popular Photography, 1983-02      Interiors and Interiority Ewa Lajer-Burchard, Beate Söntgen, 2015-11-13
