John Fowles And Nature:

John Fowles and Nature James R. Aubrey, 1999-09 John Fowles and Nature is a collection of fourteen essays about the representation of nature in fiction and nonfiction writing by Fowles Most focus on relationships between Fowles's novels and his essays about nature but some look at his lesser known book about islands one of the worlds of his poetry An afterword by John Fowles offers his own reflections on the symposium from which this collection emerged Illustrated John Fowles and Nature James R. Aubrey, 1999 That John Fowles is a nature writer as well as a novel writer is evident in various ways from the essays in this volume Each one in its way explores an aspect of Fowles's complex awareness of the world around him and the uniquely protective attitude toward wild nature that has informed Fowles's fiction and nonfiction from the onset of his writing career The Tree John Fowles, 2000 In this series of moving recollections involving both his childhood and his work as a mature artist John Fowles explains the impact of nature on his life and the dangers inherent in our traditional urge to categorise to tame and ultimately to possess the landscape This acquisitive drive leads to alienation and an antagonism to the apparent disorder and randomness of the natural world For John Fowles the tree is the best analogue of prose fiction symbolising the wild side of our psyche and he stresses the importance in art of the unpredictable the unaccountable and the intuitive This fascinating text gives a unique insight into the author and offers the key to a true understanding of the inspiration for his work The Recurrent Green Universe of John Fowles Thomas M.

Wilson, 2006-01-01 Ecocriticism is the emerging academic field which explores nature writing and ecological themes in all literature Thomas M Wilson's book is the first to consider the work of one of the most critically acclaimed and generally popular post war English writers from an ecocritical perspective Fowles is best known as a novelist and author of such works as The Magus The French Lieutenant's Woman and Daniel Martin Going beyond the fiction this book also examines the many profound reflections on the natural world found in his essays poems and his recently published Journals John Fowles's writings have cast light on the ways we perceive the natural world from curious scientific observer to Wordsworthian lover of natural places as well as many other important and at this time crucial themes This volume will be of interest to critics and readers of contemporary fiction but most of all to anyone curious about their place in the recurrent green universe that is our earth

Nature Prose Dominic Head, 2022-08-15 Nature Prose seeks to explain the popularity and appeal of contemporary writing about nature This book intervenes in key areas of contemporary debate about literature and the environment and explores the enduring appeal of writing about nature during an ecological crisis Using a range of international examples with a focus on late twentieth and early twenty first century writing from Britain and the US Dominic Head argues that nature writing contains formal effects which encapsulate our current ecological dilemma and offer a fresh resource for critical thinking The environmental crisis has injected a fresh urgency into nature writing along with a new piquancy for those readers seeking solace in the nonhuman or for those looking to change their habits in the face of ecological catastrophe However behind this apparently strong match between the aims of nature writers and the desires of their readers there is also a shared mood of radical uncertainty and insecurity The treatment and construction of nature in contemporary imaginative prose reveals some significant paradoxes beneath its dominant moods moods which are usually earnest sometimes celebratory sometimes prophetic or cautionary It is in these paradoxical moments that the contemporary ecological crisis is formally encoded in a progressive development of ecological consciousness from the late 1950s onwards Nature prose fiction and nonfiction is now contemporaneous with a defining time of crisis while also being formally fashioned by that context This is a mode of writing that emerges in a world in crisis but which is also in some ways in crisis itself With chapters on remoteness exclusivity abundance and rarity this book marks a turning point in how literary criticism engages with nature writing Fowles's The

French Lieutenant's Woman William Stephenson,2007-12-25 The ideal companion to the text and the film adaptation

The Tree John Fowles, Frank Horvat,1979-01-01 John Fowles's Fiction and the Poetics of Postmodernism Mahmoud Salami,1992 Salami presents for instance a critique of the self conscious narrative of the diary form in The Collector the intertextual relations of the multiplicity of voices the problems of subjectivity the reader's position the politics of seduction ideology and history in The Magus and The French Lieutenant's Woman The book also analyzes the ways in which Fowles uses and abuses the short story genre in which enigmas remain enigmatic and the author disappears to leave the characters free to construct their own texts Salami centers for example on A Maggot which embodies the postmodernist technique of dialogical narrative the problem of narrativization of history and the explicitly political critique of both past and present in terms of social and religious dissent These political questions are also echoed in Fowles's nonfictional book The Aristos in which he strongly rejects the totalization of narratives and the materialization of society Re-Imagining Nature Alister E. McGrath,2016-08-01 Reimagining Nature is a new introduction to the fast developing area of natural theology written by one of the world's leading theologians The text engages in serious theological dialogue whilst looking at how past developments might illuminate and inform theory and practice in the present This text sets out to explore what a properly Christian approach to natural theology might look like and how this relates to alternative interpretations of our experience of the natural world Alister McGrath is ideally placed to write the book as one of the world's best known theologians and a chief proponent of natural theology This new work offers an account of the development of natural theology throughout history and informs of its likely contribution in the present This feeds in current debates about the relationship between science and religion and religion and the humanities Engages in serious theological dialogue primarily with Augustine Aquinas Barth and Brunner and includes the work of natural scientists philosophers of science and poets The New Nature Writing Jos Smith,2017-05-04 In the last decade there has been a proliferation of landscape writing in Britain and Ireland often referred to as The New Nature Writing Rooted in the work of an older generation of environment focused authors and activists this new form is both stylistically innovative and mindful of ecology and conservation practice The New Nature Writing

Rethinking the Literature of Place connects these two generations to show that the contemporary energy around the cultures of landscape and place is the outcome of a long standing relationship between environmentalism and the arts Drawing on original interviews with authors archival research and scholarly work in the fields of literary geographies ecocriticism and archipelagic criticism the book covers the work of such writers as Robert Macfarlane Richard Mabey Tim Robinson and Alice Oswald Examining the ways in which these authors have engaged with a wide range of different environments from the edgelands to island spaces Jos Smith reveals how they recreate a resourceful and dynamic sense of localism in rebellion against the homogenising growth of clone town Britain

The Nature of Nature Nancy Jester, 2001 The Norton Book of Nature Writing Robert Finch, John Elder, 1990 W W Norton is pleased to announce that The Norton Book of Nature Writing is now available in a paperback college edition

The Love of Nature and the End of the World Shierry Weber NicholSEN, 2003-02-28 A psychological exploration of how the love of nature can coexist in our psyches with apathy toward environmental destruction Virtually everyone values some aspect of the natural world Yet many people are surprisingly unconcerned about environmental issues treating them as the province of special interest groups Seeking to understand how our appreciation for the beauty of nature and our indifference to its destruction can coexist in us Shierry Weber NicholSEN explores dimensions of our emotional experience with the natural world that are so deep and painful that they often remain unspoken The Love of Nature and the End of the World is a gathering of meditations and collages Its evocations of our emotional attachment to the natural world and the emotional impact of environmental deterioration are meant to encourage individual and collective reflection on a difficult dilemma NicholSEN draws on work in environmental philosophy and ecopsychology the writings of psychoanalytic thinkers such as Wilfred Bion Donald Meltzer and D W Winnicott and ideas from Buddhist and Sufi traditions She shows how our emotional responses to the vulnerabilities of the natural world range from intense caring and compassion through grief and outrage to diffuse depression Individual chapters focus on silence and the process whereby we move from the unspoken to the spoken the love of nature the perceptual reciprocity with the natural world to which we might mature beauty in the human and natural realms the psychological impact of the destruction of the natural world and reflections on the future

Writing About Nature John A. Murray, 2003-12-15 Originally published by the Sierra Club in 1995 this handbook has already helped thousands of aspiring writers scholars and students share their experiences with nature and the outdoors Using exercises and examples John Murray covers genres techniques and publication issues He uses examples from such masters as Barry Lopez Annie Dillard Larry McMurtry Edward Abbey Ernest Hemingway and Henry David Thoreau Also included are recommended readings a directory of creative writing programs professional organizations for writers and a directory of environmental organizations This revised edition includes a new chapter on nature writing and environmental activism Nature is our grandest and oldest home older than language grander than consciousness John Murray knows that in his bones and he shares his knowledge generously with anyone who opens
