John Hohenberg The Pursuit Of Excellence:

John Hohenberg John Hohenberg, 1995 Bounding toward his ninth decade with gusto and optimism legendary journalist and educator John Hohenberg writes that one of his most cherished mementos is the letter he received in 1955 from William Faulkner when Faulkner was awarded the Pulitzer Prize Hohenberg lingers lightly on Faulkner's pursuit of excellence in fiction then jumps headlong into the story of his own pursuits writing education diplomacy music and marriage remembering a life that spans the twentieth century and that included a quarter of a century administering and judging the Pulitzer Prizes Born in 1906 in a tenement in New York's Lower East Side Hohenberg spent his youth in Seattle in a loving home filled with books and music Childhood enamors include his father's low voice reading aloud every evening from the daily newspaper a green secondhand Oliver typewriter that he taught himself to use at the age of nine and classmates who distorted his German sounding name into another German name Hindenburg during World War I Launching his career at age seventeen by interviewing President Warren Harding he wrote about Presidents Roosevelt and Truman twice traveled to Vietnam on book assignments and was sent on Far East lecture tours in the Eisenhower and Reagan administrations After twenty five years of journalism and public service Hohenberg began an academic career that has lasted forty years Beginning at Columbia University in 1950 he has taught some 5 000 students helping undergraduates edit Associated Press copy during the Cuban missile crisis setting loose weekly seminars of graduate students at the United Nations and affecting the influence and stature of education in the profession of journalism As administrator of the Pulitzer Prizes he broadened the honor and prestige of that award by publishing jurors names and extending the judging machinery across the country while at the same time subduing political controversies Quoting from his own diary entries Hohenberg recounts the agitation Drew Pearson created in 1957 when he charged that Profiles in Courage by John F Kennedy was ghostwritten Pearson later published a typically ungracious retraction in his syndicated column Hohenberg has been happily married twice his first wife died in 1977 and continues to write travel and play the piano Reporting that his doctors marvel at his vigor but giving some credit to a daily swim of a half to a full mile Hohenberg's home base today has shifted from New York to the South where he has been a visiting professor in Florida Tennessee and elsewhere

Pulitzer's School James R. Boylan, 2003 The debate over the school's merits and shortcomings has been strong and at times vehement even into the twenty first century In 2002 the old argument was reopened and the school found itself publicly scrutinized once again Had it lived up to Pulitzer's original vision of a practical uncompromising and multifaceted education for journalists Was its education still relevant to the needs of contemporary journalists

Communication as Culture, Revised Edition James W. Carey, 2008-10-22 In this classic text James W Carey maintains that communication is not merely the transmission of information reminding the reader of the link between the words communication and community he broadens his definition to include the drawing together of a people that is culture In this context Carey questions the American tradition of focusing only on mass communication's function as a means of social and political control and makes a case for examining the content of a communication the meaning of symbols not only the motives that originate them or the purposes they serve He seeks to recast the goal of communication studies replacing the search for deterministic laws of behavior with a simpler yet far more challenging mission to enlarge the human conversation by comprehending what others are saying This new edition includes a new critical foreword by G Stuart Adam that explains Carey s fundamental role in transforming the study of mass communication to include a cultural perspective and connects his classic essays with contemporary media issues and trends This edition also adds a new complete bibliography of all of Carey s writings

A Bibliography of Tennessee History, 1973-1996 W. Calvin Dickinson, Eloise R. Hitchcock, 1999 With some 6 000 entries A Bibliography of Tennessee History will prove to be an invaluable resource for anyone students historians librarians genealogists engaged in researching Tennessee s rich and colorful past A sequel to Sam B Smith s invaluable 1973 work Tennessee History A Bibliography this book follows a similar format and includes published books and essays as well as many unpublished theses and dissertations that have become available during the intervening years The volume begins with sections on Reference Natural History and Native Americans Its divisions then follow the major periods of the state s history Before Statehood State Development Civil War Late Nineteenth Century Early Twentieth Century and Late Twentieth Century Sections on Literature and County Histories round out the book Included is a helpful subject index that points the reader to particular persons places incidents or topics Substantial sections in this index highlight women s history and African American history two areas in which scholarship has proliferated during the past two decades The history of entertainment in Tennessee is also well represented in this volume including for example hundreds of citations for writings about Elvis Presley and for works that treat Nashville and Memphis as major show business centers The Literature section meanwhile includes citations for fiction and poetry relating to Tennessee history as well as for critical works about Tennessee writers Throughout the editors have strived to achieve a balance between comprehensive coverage and the need to be selective The result is a volume that will benefit researchers for years to come The Editors W Calvin Dickinson is professor of history at Tennessee Technological University Eloise R Hitchcock is head reference librarian at the University of the South
