The English Alliterative Tradition Thomas Cable, 2016-11-11 The meter of Middle English alliterative poetry Thomas Cable contends holds the key to a reinterpretation of both Old English meter and iambic pentameter which in turn provides a new understanding of Middle English meter itself Drawing upon recent insights in linguistics Cable articulates a revolutionary theory of rhythm in English poetry from its beginnings through the Renaissance and beyond Cable's discussion moves from the rhythms of Old English poetry and prose to the poetry of Chaucer and the Alliterative Revival to Shakespeare and T S Eliot He demonstrates that Middle English poetry does not show the continuity of tradition that standard authorities have asserted With the Norman Conquest of 1066 came a clear break and what followed was a drastic misreading by the poets of what had come before Throughout the book Cable constantly asks fundamental questions regarding the intentions of the poet the impact of the perceived metrical tradition upon that poet and with reference to Peircean abduction the possibility of constructing any metrical theory especially one from the distant past The answers and their implications metrical cognitive and philosophical provide the foundation for a new understanding of the creation and evolution of English versification from the seventh century to the present The English Alliterative Tradition is a major and controversial study in medieval English poetics that illustrates and clarifies key ideas of the New Philology It will be of interest to scholars and students of Old and Middle English prosody and historical linguistics

Putting Faith in Partnerships Stephen V. Monsma, 2009-11-16 Putting Faith in Partnerships addresses a major conceptual change in American domestic policy begun by Reagan and now fully realized by the Bush administration the shift of responsibility for social services from the federal government to states and communities In this groundbreaking study of a politically controversial topic the debut offering in Alan Wolfe's Contemporary Political and Social Issues series author Stephen Monsma avoids overheated rhetoric in favor of a careful critical analysis of the hard evidence on whether public private partnerships really work The book is based on in depth studies of social service programs in Los Angeles Chicago Philadelphia and Dallas By examining public private partnerships between government offices and nonprofit organizations Monsma seeks to understand how these partnerships affect the balance between government s efforts to deal with social problems and the rights of individual citizens to control their own lives Putting Faith in Partnerships answers many previously unanswered questions in what may be the most controversial public policy debate today about the feasibility and wisdom of government agencies forming partnerships with private organizations to provide essential public social services Stephen V Monsma is Professor of Political Science at Pepperdine University He has served as director of the Office of Quality Review in Michigan s Department of Social Services and is a widely recognized expert on the role of faith based organizations in social service programs
