Captain Candy Cane and the Heart of

Christmas Georgia Pearson Williams, 2011-12 It's almost Valentine's Day and the North Pole has been a gloomy place since the day after Christmas. Santa Claus is depressed by the thought of children who are suffering from tragedy and hardship and the elves don't know what to do to get him back to his jolly old self. Then along comes Captain Candy Cane, the sprightly guardian of the Spirit of Christmas, and her dog Snowball. Captain Candy Cane brings a present for Santa: jewels containing magical messages from three children who have never experienced the Christmas traditions of presents and lights and candy that are so familiar to many American children. These three have faced fear, uncertainty, hunger, and cold, but they have met people whose acts of selflessness brought them contentment and even joy. The children's messages of hope and happiness restore Santa's Christmas Spirit and faith in humanity. And Captain Candy Cane's gift shows how all of us can brighten the world we live in wherever we are and whatever we believe by living year-round according to values often associated with Christmastime. Creator/illustrator Georgia Pearson Williams has traveled around the world and seen many children's needs firsthand. Writer Jessica Vining Lower is an English professor and the mother of two young boys. Both Georgia and Jessica love Christmas and believe that it is about much more than stockings and reindeer.
