Death in the Hills Charles Alan Green, 2023-06-29 1937 dawned over the golden sun kissed lands of Spain upon a divided country and a vicious and bloody Civil War The war had originally begun as a simple military coup back in mid July of the previous year At first it looked as though it would carry the day but due to the early uprising in the Spanish protectorate of Morocco the timing of the revolt on the mainland was thrown into disarray and due to this certain areas didn't commence their planned revolts at the designated time In particular the major cities of Barcelona and Madrid were both critically effected by the timing of these events and the whole of the 18th July was spent in inactivity It was this delay to the originally planned timetable that enabled the republican government but more importantly especially in Barcelona the unions and other forces on the left to organise some sort of resistance It was this fact which meant that they were able to defeat the rebellion in these and several other vital towns and cities By the end of the 20th July after the first two days of the rebellion and bitter fighting throughout the length and breadth of the country the battle lines had been drawn and Spain was a nation split into two basic zones The areas that remained loyal under the control of the government and the rest of Spain which was now under the command of the rebels or nationalists as they were to become known
