Wyatt Earp and Dances with Wolves this work examines traditional leadership theories as reflected in the western film genre. The western vividly portrays a variety of leadership styles, motifs, and characteristics, giving perspective on several traditional leadership theories. The different leadership styles the films exhibit are categorized and described through content analysis. Some of the concepts and underlying theories and styles reveal a universal quality about leadership that transcends theoretical research. As a cultural study that traces the relative popularity of leadership styles, this work provides new insight toward studying leadership effectiveness. Through the lens of leadership theory, this unique look at the western films from 1945 to 1995 and the American culture they depict will appeal not only to leadership, film, and popular culture scholars but to leaders in business, government, and the military. Chapters group films by their similar depiction of leadership styles. Within each chapter, the films are separately described, then each is explored within the context of leadership theory. Films prior to 1980 are included on the basis of their critical or commercial success, while films after 1980 are included on the basis of their box office success or their individual portrayals of gender or cultural leadership. The Union Pacific Magazine, 1931

Katchmer, 2009-10-06 Long before sound became an essential part of motion pictures, Westerns were an established genre. The men and women who brought to life cowboys, cowgirls, villains, sidekicks, distressed damsels, and outraged townspeople often continued with their film careers, finding success and fame well into the sound era, always knowing that it was in silent Westerns that their careers began. More than a thousand of these once silent Western players are featured in this fully indexed encyclopedic work. Each entry includes a detailed biography covering both personal and professional milestones and a complete Western filmography. A foreword is supplied by Diana Serra Cary, formerly the child star Baby Peggy, who performed with many of the actors herein.
