Open Skies for Africa Charles E Schlumberger, 2010-06-23 In Africa where poor roads ports and railways often constrain efficient transportation air transport holds great potential as a lever for economic growth and development Yet Africa has suffered several decades of inefficient air services Uncompetitive flag carriers set up by newly independent African states offered primarily intercontinental flights while the domestic air service market remained underdeveloped and underserved The 1999 pan African treaty on liberalization of access to air transport markets the Yamoussoukro Decision attempted to address these shortcomings Yet a decade later only partial liberalization has been achieved Open Skies for Africa Implementing the Yamoussoukro Decision reviews progress made in carrying out the treaty and suggests ways in which the liberalization process can be encouraged The book analyzes the completed and still pending steps toward implementation of the Yamoussoukro Decision both on a pan African level and within various regions Special focus is given to the challenges posed by the poor aviation safety and security standards that exist in most African countries Finally the book measures the impact that certain policy steps of the Yamoussoukro Decision have had and evaluates the economic significance of air transportation and its full liberalization in Africa The book concludes that the process of liberalizing African air services must continue and provides policy recommendations for the way forward

Exploring how modern internationalism emerged as a negotiated process through international conferences this edited collection studies the spaces and networks through which states civil society institutions and anti colonial political networks used these events to realise their visions of the international Taking an interdisciplinary approach contributors explore the spatial paradox of two fundamental features of modern internationalism First internationalism demanded the overcoming of space transcending the nation state in search of the shared interests of humankind Second internationalism was geographically contingent on the places in which people came together to conceive and enact their internationalist ideas From Paris 1919 to Bandung 1955 and beyond this book explores international conferences as the sites in which different forms of internationalism assumed material and social form While international permanent institutions such as the League of Nations UN and Institute of Pacific Relations constantly negotiated national and imperial politics lesser resourced political networks also used international conferences to forward their more radical demands Taken together these conferences radically expand our conception of where and how modern internationalism emerged and make the case for focusing on internationalism in a contemporary moment when its merits are being called into question Africa John McIlwaine, 2007
