Henry Veggian introduces readers to one of the most influential American writers of the last half century. Winner of the National Book Award, American Book Award and the first Library of Congress Prize for American Fiction, Don DeLillo is the author of short stories, screenplays and fifteen novels including his breakthrough work White Noise 1985 and Pulitzer Prize finalists Mao II 1992 and Underworld 1998. Veggian traces the evolution of DeLillo's work through the three phases of his career as a fiction writer: from the experimental early novels through the critically acclaimed works of the mid 1980s and 1990s into the smaller but newly innovative novels of the last decade. He guides readers to DeLillo's principal concerns: the tension between biography and anonymity, the blurred boundary between fiction and historical narrative and the importance of literary authorship in opposition to various structures of power and traces the evolution of his changing narrative techniques. Beginning with a brief biography, an introduction to reading strategies and a survey of the major concepts and questions concerning DeLillo's work, Veggian proceeds chronologically through his major novels. His discussion summarizes complicated plots, reflects critical responses to the author's work and explains the literary tools used to fashion his characters, narrators and events. In the concluding chapter, Veggian engages notable examples of DeLillo's other modes, particularly the short stories that reveal important insights into his modular working method as well as the evolution of his novels. Faulkner and War Noel Polk, Ann J. The four stories and novella translated in this volume represent the best short fiction by Jun Ishikawa, 1899-1987, one of the most important modernist writers to appear on the Japanese literary stage during the years before and after World War II. Throughout his career, Ishikawa resisted the tide of popular opinion to address issues of political and artistic significance and thereby paved the way for a generation of Japanese internationalists and experimentalists including Abe Kobo and Oe Kenzaburo Highly acclaimed and respected in Japan Ishikawa remains little known in the West in part because of the tendency of Western critics and readers of Japanese literature to focus on writers concerned with aesthetic issues Combining a strong interest in politics with a brilliant use of modernist techniques Ishikawa's work defies easy categorization Banned in 1938 Mars Song has been called the finest example of anti war fiction written during Japan's march to war in China and the Pacific In it Ishikawa denounces the chorus of jingoism that swept Japan and via a metafictional tale within a tale he warns against the suicidal destruction to which complicity in warmongering will lead The allegorical Moon Gems written in the spring of 1945 further explores the tenuous position of the writer moving against the current in a country not only still at war but very near defeat In The Legend of Gold and The Jesus of the Ruins both from 1946 Japan has been reduced to a charred wasteland yet Ishikawa envisions destruction as fertile ground for rebirth and resurrection Finally the semi surrealist novella The Raptor plumbs the meanings and possibilities of peace in the post Occupation era William Tyler's eminently readable translations are faithfully expressive of stylistic and tonal nuances in the original works In a perceptive introduction and the critical essays that follow Tyler emphasizes Ishikawa's importance as an anti establishment even resistance writer and argues that the writer's political iconoclasm goes hand in hand with the modernism of his literary experimentation The Legend of Gold will be of tremendous importance in enlarging a Western understanding of the development of the writer's role as social critic and the evolution of the modernist movement in postwar Japan
