question What do listeners really want from radio Some of the answers are derived from users and gratifications research in the mass media Instead of focusing on what mass media do to people the users and gratifications perspective seeks to discover what people do with mass media The functionalist viewpoint of such research basically says that a medium is best defined by how people use it Having looked at some of the audience research that comes from sources other than the standard ratings companies the book then goes on to demonstrate new ways that formats production procedures and announcing styles can meet audience needs and desires Although the volume concludes with several original methods for selecting and presenting airplay music based on the audience s moods and emotional needs it does not insist upon a singular formulaic approach for constructing or modifying a music format Instead it attempts to involve the reader in thinking through the process of format development Two audio tapes are also available for use with the book The tapes contain nearly 3 hours of important detailed information and provocative points from the book Exclusive audio examples include the sense of acoustic space in music hi fi versus lo fi listening environments subjective perception of the announcer s distance from the listener audio editing rates comparison of luxury versus inexpensive car listening experiences and the components of emotions that are expressed vocally The tapes also include new sections about the threats to traditional radio from specialized digital audio services competition for the listener s attention from computer based media and additional proof of how music can be chosen on the basis of listeners emotional reactions and mood needs Encyclopedia of Radio
