Hotel Seventeen Jörg Fokuhl, 2000 S.A. Pictorial , 1928 Commerce , 1913 Hotel Monthly , 1917 Hotel Dreams Molly W. Berger, 2011-04-18 Winner 2012 Sally Hacker Prize Society for the History of Technology Hotel Dreams is a deeply researched and entertaining account of how the hotel's material world of machines and marble integrated into and shaped the society it served Molly W Berger offers a compelling history of the American hotel and how it captured the public's imagination as it came to represent the complex and often contentious relationship among luxury economic development and the ideals of a democratic society Berger profiles the country's most prestigious hotels including Boston's 1829 Tremont San Francisco's world famous Palace and Chicago's enormous Stevens The fascinating stories behind their design construction and marketing reveal in rich detail how these buildings became cultural symbols that shaped the urban landscape The Hotel/motor Hotel Monthly , 1917 The Immigrants Paul M. Hoskins, 2013-10-15 From the mid 1700s to the early 1900s there was a mass exodus of people from the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland During the reign of Queen Victoria from 1837 to 1901 around fifteen million people emigrated to America Canada South Africa New Zealand and Australia The reasons they left the country of their birth were many and varied There was high unemployment in the working classes due to the Industrial Revolution the Agricultural Revolution the Enclosure Movement and the Land Clearances The potato famines in Ireland and Scotland caused starvation and death prompting a mass exodus from those areas This story follows the lives of three families who immigrated to South Australia in the 1850s Each family originated in different parts of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland and travelled separately to South Australia spanning a four year period unaware that their future lives would be forever joined The Speck families brick makers from Cambridgeshire sailed from Liverpool in October 1852 the Stacey family willow workers from Wiltshire sailed from Southampton in January 1854 and the Murphy family farmers from Kilkenny sailed from Plymouth in November 1855 The journey over the seas was hazardous and life in the early years of South Australia took its toll on people as they tried to create better lives for themselves and their families in the new colony By the end of 1888 the three families were joined into one extended family living in the mid north of South Australia More births deaths and marriages followed as the families grew and were subjected to droughts floods a world war and an economic depression All of these people left a memory legacy that should not be forgotten Shaving Them Anonymous, 2023-04-08 Reprint of the original first published in 1872 The publishing house Anatiposi publishes historical books as reprints Due to their age these books may have missing pages or inferior quality Our aim is to preserve these books and make them available to the public so that they do not get lost So Far Ben Dillow, 2011-02-17 In his winning collection of essays So Far Reflections on the Journey author Ben Dillow writes of the uncommon pleasures that come from the mundane elements of life family work travel and play Though autobiographical in nature the narratives weave a web of common human experiences that will evoke nods of familiarity and smiles of appreciation From the high expectations of an anniversary cruise to a simple home improvement project run amuck these stories offer canny perspectives on lifes journey Essay collections abound but few can match the pleasures of Ben Dillows wonderful album Just interested in good stories Hes a master story teller and like Garrison Keillor he has an eagles eye for warmhearted humor in things we often miss Whatever your mood or your need Dillow has a story a thought an image a frozen moment or a surprising insight that can brighten your day and maybe even change the way you see your own journey
