House Of Houses:

House of Houses Kevin L. Donihe, 2008 There once was an odd reclusive little man who was in love with his house He loved this house not in the way that normal people love their homes His was a more intimate love like the love between two humans He loved his house so much that he asked it to marry him and he believed that his house happily relied with a yes Unfortunately their love was to be torn apart the day before their wedding on the day of the great house holocaust It was as if they killed themselves and took many of the occupants with them Distraught and despairing over the death of his fianc e this man must go on a quest to find out what happened to his beloved home Publisher s description

House of Houses Pat Mora, 2009-07-01 House and Garden's Book of Houses Richardson Little Wright, 1920 The House of the Mother Cynthia R. Chapman, 2016-01-01 This work reevaluates the biblical house of the father in light of the anthropological critique of the patrilineal model It uncovers and defines the contours of an underappreciated yet socially significant kinship unit in the Bible the house of the mother

Adpositions Dennis Kurzon, Silvia Adler, 2008-05-13 This book is a collection of articles which deal with adpositions in a variety of languages and from a number of perspectives Not only does the book cover what is traditionally treated in studies from a European and Semitic orientation prepositions but it presents studies on postpositions too The main languages dealt with in the collection are English French and Hebrew but there are articles devoted to other languages including Korean Turkic languages Armenian Russian and Ukrainian Adpositions are treated by some authors from a semantic perspective by others as syntactic units and a third group of authors distinguishes adpositions from the point of view of their pragmatic function This work is of interest to students and researchers in theoretical and applied linguistics as well as to those who have a special interest in any of the languages treated

Stewart's Purdon's Digest Pennsylvania, 1923 The Survey, 1907 The Family in Roman Egypt Sabine R. Huebner, 2013-07-04 This study captures the dynamics of the everyday family life of the common people in Roman Egypt a social strata that constituted the vast majority of any pre modern society but rarely figures in ancient sources or in modern scholarship The documentary papyri and above all the private letters and the census returns provide us with a wealth of information on these people not available for any other region of the ancient Mediterranean The book discusses such things as family composition and household size and the differences between urban and rural families exploring what can be ascribed to cultural patterns economic considerations and or individual preferences by setting the family in Roman Egypt into context with other pre modern societies where families adopted such strategies to deal with similar exigencies of their daily lives

Bulletin of the United States Bureau of Labor Statistics, 1942 The Development of Neolithic House Societies in Orkney Colin Richards, Richard Jones, 2016-04-30 Considering that Orkney is a group of relatively small islands lying off the northeast coast of the Scottish mainland its wealth of Neolithic archaeology is truly extraordinary An assortment of houses chambered cairns stone circles standing stones and passage graves provides an unusually comprehensive range of archaeological and architectural contexts Yet in the early 1990s there was a noticeable imbalance between 4th and 3rd millennium cal BC evidence with house structures and villages being well represented in the latter but minimally in the former As elsewhere in the British Isles the archaeological visibility of the 4th millennium cal BC in Orkney tends to be dominated by the monumental presence of chambered cairns or tombs In the 1970s Claude Lévi Strauss conceived of a form of social organization based upon the house sociétés maisons in order to provide a classification for social groups that appeared not to conform to established anthropological kinship structures In this approach the anchor point is the house understood as a conceptual resource that is a consequence of a strategy of constructing and legitimizing identities under ever shifting social conditions Drawing on the results of an extensive program of fieldwork in the Bay of Firth Mainland Orkney the text explores the idea that the physical appearance of the house is a potent resource for materializing the dichotomous alliance and descent principles apparent in the archaeological evidence for the early and later Neolithic of Orkney It argues that some of the insights made by Lévi Strauss in his basic formulation of sociétés maisons are extremely relevant to interpreting the archaeological evidence and providing the parameters for a social narrative of the material changes occurring in Orkney between the 4th and 2nd millennia cal BC The major excavations undertaken during the Cuween Wideford Landscape Project provided an unprecedented depth and variety of evidence for Neolithic occupation bridging the gap between domestic and ceremonial architecture and form exploring the transition from wood to stone and relationships between the living and the dead and the role of material culture The results are described and discussed in detail here enabling tracing of the development and fragmentation of sociétés maisons over a 1500 year period of Northern Isles prehistory Selected Writings of Edward Sapir in Language, Culture and Personality Edward Sapir, 2021-01-08 This title is part of UC Press's Voices Revived program which commemorates University of California Press's mission to seek out and cultivate the brightest minds and give them voice reach and impact Drawing on a backlist dating to 1893 Voices Revived makes high quality peer reviewed scholarship accessible once again using print on demand technology This title was originally published in 1949
