Property, Planning and Protest: The Contentious Politics of Housing Supply Quintin Bradley, 2023-03-17
The struggle for the right to housing is a battle over property rights and land use For housing to be provided as a human need land must be recognised as a common right Property Planning and Protest is a compelling new investigation into public opposition to housing and real estate development Its innovative materialist approach is grounded in the political economy of land value and it recognises the conflict between communities and real estate capital as a struggle over land and property rights Property Planning and Protest is about a social movement struggling for democratic representation in land use decisions The amenity groups it describes champion a democratic plan led system that allocates land for social and environmental goals Situating this movement in a history of land reform and common rights this book sets out a persuasive new vision of democratic planning and affordable housing for all

The Handbook of Community Practice Marie Weil, Michael S. Reisch, Mary L. Ohmer, 2013 Written by some of the most influential scholars in the field this Handbook covers community development organizing planning and social change as well as key issues fields of practice and global approaches Mixed-Income Housing Development Planning Strategies and Frameworks in the Global South George Okechukwu Onatu, Wellington Didibhuku Thwala, Clinton Ohis Aigbavboa, 2023-12-14 Functioning as a toolkit for inclusive urban planning this book acts as both a model for understanding the planning and management of this framework and a foundation for future research Public Policy And Administration In Africa Peter Koehn, 2019-09-16 Originally published in 1990 A look at the vast historically and socially complex nature of the Nigeria This book is intended to share what he has learned about public policy and administration in Africa over the past ten years This book is based upon a decade of research reflection and writing The field research period corresponds with the Families, Housing and Property Wealth in a Neoliberal World Richard Ronald, Rowan Arundel, 2022-11-23 The twenty first century has so far been characterized by ongoing realignments in the organization of the economy around housing and real estate Markets have boomed and bust and boomed again with residential property increasingly a focus of wealth accumulation practices While analyses have largely focussed on global flows of capital and large institutions families have served as critical actors Housing properties are family goods that shape how members interact organise themselves and deal with the vicissitudes of everyday economic life Families have moreover increasingly mobilized around their homes as assets aligning household transitions and practices towards the accumulation of property wealth The capacities of different families to realise this however are highly uneven with housing conditions becoming increasingly central to growing inequalities and processes of social stratification This book addresses changing relationships between families and their homes over the latest period of neo liberalization The book confronts how transformations in households life course transitions kinship and intergenerational relations shape and are being shaped by the shifting role of property markets in social and economic processes The chapters explore this in terms of different aspects of home family life and socioeconomic change across varied national contexts Architecture and the Welfare State Mark Swenarton, Tom Avermaete, Dirk van den Heuvel, 2014-09-15 In the decades following World War Two and in part in response to the Cold War governments across Western Europe set out ambitious programmes for social welfare and the redistribution of wealth that aimed to improve the everyday lives of their citizens Many of these welfare state programmes housing schools new towns cultural and leisure centres involved not just construction but a new approach to architectural design in which the welfare objectives of these state funded programmes were delineated and debated The impact on architects and architectural design was profound and far reaching with welfare state projects moving centre stage in architectural discourse not just in Europe but worldwide This is the first book to explore the architecture of the welfare state in Western Europe from an international perspective With chapters covering Austria Belgium France Germany Italy The Netherlands Sweden and the UK the book explores the complex role played by architecture in the formation and development of the welfare state in both theory and practice Themes include the role of the built environment in the welfare state as a political project the colonial dimension of European welfare state architecture and its export to Africa and Asia the role of welfare state projects in promoting consumer culture and economic growth the picture of the collective produced by welfare state architecture the role of architectural innovation in the welfare state the role of the architect as opposed to construction companies and others in determining what was built the relationship between architectural and social theory the role of internal institutional critique and the counterculture Contributors include Tom Avermaete Eve Blau Nicholas Bullock Miles Glendinning Janina Gosseye Hilde Heynen Caroline Maniaque Benton Helena Mattsson Luca Molinari Simon Pepper Michelle Provoost Lukasz Stanek Mark Swenarton Florian Urban and Dirk van den Heuvel Policies and Practices in Italian Welfare Housing Nadia Caruso, 2016-11-13 This book offers a European perspective on urban planning and spatial design by outlining housing policies in Southern Europe and their evolution Through a unique case study on the city of Turin it explores social innovation and the relationship between the urban regeneration process and housing practices The case study is a useful example in the debate about changing welfare arrangements in Europe and the emerging rhetoric of social innovation in housing The book encourages debate about the tools needed to address housing needs exploring current practices Chapters look at the spatial dimension of housing the financial mechanisms put in place the actors involved in the field public authorities ethical investors tertiary sector inhabitants and locals The case study of the metropolitan city of Turin demonstrates complex housing needs and the innovative character of public and private solutions As this book combines theory and practice it appeals to both academics and practitioners It is especially of interest to spatial planners geographers and social scientists interested in housing policies and those interested in the Italian context of the case study Monthly Catalog of United States Government Publications United States. Superintendent of Documents, 1992 Town and Country Planning in the UK J. B. Cullingworth, Vincent Nadin, 2002 This thirteenth edition has been completely revised to take into account all the changes that have occurred in British planning including the policies introduced by the Labour government devolution innovations and the European Union Resource Communities Kristof Van Assche, Monica Gruezmacher, Lochner Marais, Xaquín Pérez-Sindín, 2023-10-26 This book provides an innovative approach to understanding the governance of resource communities by showcasing how the past and present informs the future Resource communities have complicated relationships with the past and this makes their relationship with the future and the future itself also complicated The book digs deeply into the myriad legacies left by a history of resource extraction in a community and makes use of interdisciplinary and transdisciplinary perspectives to understand the complex issues being faced by a range of different communities that are reliant on different types of resources across the world From coal and gold mining to fishing towns and logging communities the book explores the legacies of boom and bust economies social memory trauma and identity the interactions between power and knowledge and the implications for adaptive governance Balancing conceptual and theoretical understandings with empirical and practical knowledge of resource communities natural resource use and social ecological relationships the book argues that solutions for individual communities need to be embraced in the community and not just in the perspectives of visiting experts Linking the past present and futures of resource communities in a new way the book concludes by providing practical recommendations for breaking open dependencies on the past including deepening awareness of the social economic and environmental contexts establishing strong governance and developing community strategies plans and policies for the future This book will be of great interest to students and scholars of natural resource governance and management extractive industries environmental policy community planning and development environmental geography and sustainable development as well as policymakers involved in supporting community development in natural resource dependent communities across the world

A Political Practice of Occupational Therapy Nick Pollard, Dikaïos Sakellariou, Frank Kronenberg, 2008-09-02 This challenging and innovative book explores the political aspects of occupational therapy It looks at how practitioners may develop political awareness in order to aid community development A Political Practice of Occupational Therapy is about maximizing the potential impact of occupational therapists engagements and ensuring the profession is working towards the construction of a civic society It is supported by twelve chapters of practice examples from the UK US Georgia and Australia as well as a history of the profession as an agency for social change It asks How is it possible to introduce the political into a profession that is linked to health and social care What form could political practice take and how could the political components of practice be analyzed and evaluated It includes significant theoretical chapters on gender class and sexuality challenges to holism occupational literacy and a discussion of political competence This book will be of particular use for students exploring community and emerging role settings client centred practice occupational and social justice and the theoretical base of the profession From an editorial team that is widely recognized for their challenges to traditional thought and practice in occupational therapy this book will be of value not just to occupational therapists but also those employed in health profession management and development and community based rehabilitation

The Green Belt, Housing Crises and Planning Systems Charles Edward Goode, 2025-03-31 This book evaluates the effectiveness of the Green Belt planning policy in England It is one of the most well known strategies internationally with similar growth restraint policies having been adopted in a diverse range of cities around the world such as Portland Medellin and Bangkok Despite this it is often argued that Green Belts contribute to wider inequitable outcomes in society Focusing on the Green Belt in England the book critically analyses the extent to which these policies and planning systems contribute to housing crises and examines how far they need to be reformed With the central role of community engagement in many of the debates about housing crises the book investigates the characteristics of popular and campaigner opposition to housebuilding alongside investigating the power relations and politics of planning systems This timely research taps into important current policy debates in the UK surrounding urban nature green infrastructure and building on the grey belt The book is therefore of relevance and benefit to policymakers and politicians to academics and students internationally from a range of fields interested in housing community engagement green infrastructure strategic planning power and politics and conservation Critical Realism and Housing Research Julie M. Lawson, 2006 First Published in 2006 Routledge is an imprint of Taylor Francis an informa company Critical Realism and Housing Research Julie Lawson, 2013-01-11 Since the nineteenth century various housing solutions have evolved such as sprawling Australian home ownership and compact Dutch social rental housing This phenomenon cannot be adequately explained with simple descriptions of key events politics and housing outcomes Critical Realism and Housing Studies pushes debate forward arguing that a new ontological perspective is required to address fundamental issues in housing and comparative research This book is clearly organized into three parts which evaluate ontological and methodological alternatives for comparative housing research provide two historical case studies inspired by critical realist ontology compare the causal tendencies that explain diverging housing pathways in Australia and the Netherlands Lawson proposes that we turn to critical realism for the solution From this perspective the causal tendencies of complex open and structured housing phenomena are highlighted With this insight we are able to extract the key social arrangements which promote different housing solutions from the historical case studies Social arrangements which are found to influence alternative pathways in housing history concern the property rights circuit of savings and investment as well as labour and welfare relations As they develop differently over time and space they affect where when and how housing solutions develop
