Stephen Sennott, 2004 For more information including the introduction a full list of entries and contributors a generous selection of sample pages and more visit the Encyclope dia of 20th Century Architecture website Focusing on architecture from all regions of the world this three volume set profiles the twentieth century s vast chronicle of architectural achievements both within and well beyond the theoretical confines of modernism Unlike existing works this encyclopedia examines the complexities of rapidly changing global conditions that have dispersed modern architectural types movements styles and building practices across traditional geographic and cultural boundaries Pioneers of Modern Design Nikolaus Pevsner, 2005-01-01 Richard Weston is professor at the Welsh School of Architecture Cardiff University He has published extensively on twentieth century architecture including his book Materials Form and Architecture published by Yale University Press Brussels 1900 Vienna, 2021-11-29 This co edited volume offers new insights into the complex relations between Brussels and Vienna in the turn of the century period 1880 1930 Through archival research and critical methods of cultural transfer as a network it contributes to the study of Modernism in all its complexity Seventeen chapters analyse the interconnections between new developments in literature Verhaeren Musil Zweig drama Maeterlinck Schnitzler Hofmannsthal visual arts Minne Khnopff Masereel Child Art architecture Hoffmann Van de Velde music Schoenberg Ysa e Kreisler Kolisch as well as psychoanalysis Varendonck Anna Freud and café culture Austrian and Belgian artists played a crucial role within the complex rich and conflictual international networks of people practices institutions and metropolises in an era of political social and technological change and intense internationalization Contributors Sylvie Arlaud Norbert Bachleitner Anke Bosse Megan Brandow Faller Alexander Carpenter Piet Defraeye Clement Dessy Aniel Guxholli Birgit Lang Helga Mitterbauer Chris Reynolds Chikuma Silvia Ritz Hubert Roland Inga Rossi Schrimpf Sigurd Paul Scheichl Guillaume Tardif Hans Vandevoorde Adolf Loos Joseph Masheck, 2013-03-21 Widely regarded as one of the most significant prophets of modern architecture Adolf Loos was a celebrity in his own day His work was emblematic of the turn of the century generation that was torn between the traditional culture of the nineteenth century and the innovative modernism of the twentieth His essay Ornament and Crime equated superfluous ornament and decorative arts with tattooing in an attempt to tell modern Europeans that they should know better But the negation of ornament was supposed to reveal not negate good style and an incorrigible ironist has been taken too literally in denying architecture as a fine art Without normalizing his edgy radicality Masheck argues that Loos masterful astylistic architecture was an appreciation of tradition and utility and not as most architectural historians have argued a mere repudiation of the florid style of the Vienna Secession Masheck reads Loos as a witty ironic rhetorician who has all too often been taken at face value Far from being the anti architect of the modern era Masheck's Loos is an unruly yet integrally canonical artist architect He believed in culture comfort intimacy and privacy and advocated the evolution of artful architecture This is a brilliantly written revisionist reading of a perennially popular architect Modern Architecture Graham Livesey, 2024-11-15 Modern Architecture The Basics examines technological stylistic socio political and cultural changes that have transformed the history of architecture since the late 18th century Broad definitions of modernity and postmodernity introduce the book which comprises 24 short thematic chapters looking at the concepts behind the development of modern and postmodern architecture These include major historical movements key figures and evolving building typologies There is also an emphasis on the changing city during the 19th and 20th centuries Approaches to representation and its impacts on architecture are studied along with the changing global role of architecture as cultural expression. The book introduces new topics including gender, race, postcolonialism, and indigeneity. An undaunting contemporary and inclusive account of modern architectural history, this is a must read for all students of architecture as well as those outside the discipline approaching the subject for the first time. Princeton Alumni Weekly, 1985

The Oxford Critical and Cultural History of Modernist Magazines Peter Brooker, Andrew Thacker, 2009. A study of the role of little magazines and their contribution to the making of artistic modernism and the avant garde across Europe, this volume is a major scholarly achievement of immense value to those interested in material culture of the 20th century. Peter Behrens and a New Architecture for the Twentieth Century Stanford Anderson, 2002-08-23. The complete story of Behrens' contribution to the history of twentieth century architecture.

Archaism, Modernism, and the Art of Paul Manship Susan Rather, 2014-11-06. Archaism, an international artistic phenomenon from early in the twentieth century through the 1930s, receives its first sustained analysis in this book. The distinctive formal and technical conventions of archaic art, especially Greek art, particularly affected sculptors, some frankly modernist, others staunchly conservative, and a few who like American Paul Manship negotiated the distance between tradition and modernity. Susan Rather considers the theory, practice, and criticism of early twentieth century sculpture in order to reveal the changing meaning and significance of the archaic in the modern world. To this end, and against the background of Manship's career, she explores such topics as the archaeological resources for archaism, the classification of the non-Western art of India as archaic, the interest of sculptors in modern dance, Isadora Duncan and Ruth St. Denis, and the changing critical perception of archaism. Rather rejects the prevailing conception of archaism as a sterile and superficial academic style, to argue its initial importance as a modernist mode of expression. The early practitioners of archaism, including Aristide Maillol, Andr  Derain, and Constantin Brancusi, renounced the rhetorical excess, overrefined naturalism, and indirect techniques of late nineteenth century sculpture in favor of nonnarrative, stylized, and directly carved works, for which archaic Greek art offered an important example. Their position found implicit support in the contemporaneous theoretical writings of Emmanuel Levy, Wilhelm Worringer, and Adolf von Hildebrand. The perceived relationship between archaic art and tradition ultimately compromised the modernist authority of archaism and made possible its absorption by academic and reactionary forces during the 1910s. By the 1920s, Paul Manship was identified with archaism, which had become an important element in the aesthetic of public sculpture of both democratic and totalitarian societies. Sculptors often employed archaizing stylizations as ends in themselves, and with the intent of evoking the foundations of a classical art diminished in potency by its ubiquity and obsolescence. Such stylistic archaism was not an empty formal exercise, but an urgent affirmation of traditional values under siege. Concurrently, archaism entered the mainstream of fashionable modernity as an ingredient in the popular and commercial style known as Art Deco. Both developments fueled the condemnation of archaism, and of Manship, its most visible exemplar, by the avant garde. Rather's exploration of the critical debate over archaism finally illuminates the uncertain relationship to modernism on the part of many critics and highlights the problematic positions of sculpture in the modernist discourse

Surface Architecture

David Leatherbarrow, Mohsen Mostafavi, 2005-02-11 A study of the building surface architecture's primary instrument of identity and engagement with its surroundings Visually many contemporary buildings either reflect their systems of production or recollect earlier styles and motifs This division between production and representation is in some ways an extension of that between modernity and tradition In this book David Leatherbarrow and Mohsen Mostafavi explore ways that design can take advantage of production methods such that architecture is neither independent of nor dominated by technology Leatherbarrow and Mostafavi begin with the theoretical and practical isolation of the building surface as the subject of architectural design The autonomy of the surface the free facade presumes a distinction between the structural and nonstructural elements of the building between the frame and the cladding Once the skin of the building became independent of its structure it could just as well hang like a curtain or like clothing The focus of the relationship between structure and skin is the architectural surface In tracing the handling of this surface the authors examine both contemporary buildings and those of the recent past Architects discussed include Albert Kahn Ludwig Mies van der Rohe Alison and Peter Smithson Alejandro de la Sota Robert Venturi Jacques Herzog and Pierre de Meuron The properties of a building's surface whether it is made of concrete metal glass or other materials are not merely superficial they construct the spatial effects by which architecture communicates Through its surfaces a building declares both its autonomy and its participation in its surroundings

The Greenwood Encyclopedia of Homes through World History James M. Steele, 2009-03-30 The house throughout history in every place in the world has been built to provide shelter from the elements The dwellings that have resulted are as different as the people that have built them the social norms that prevailed at the time and place in which they were built and the natural environment that they adapted to Studying them now in a comprehensive way allows us to understand the social political economic and religious conditions that existed for their inhabitants They are a three dimensional record of culture Twenty four pages of color images along with black and white images through three volumes illustrate the homes of people throughout the world The volumes cover ancient times to the late Middle Ages the Renaissance to the Industrial Revolution and the Post Industrial Revolution to the Present
