Salvation in the Secular Elaine Murdaugh, 1976 This study shows how Thomas Mann has created an elaborate moral system based on a sort of noblesse oblige of the intellectual and the equation of literacy with social consciousness It explores the way in which the emergence of historical consciousness among the Hebrew patriarchs and its culmination in the figure of Jahwe is expressed in the novel's structure. That is, the Mannian God has the same characteristics as the Mannian narrator and Joseph, the little God of the novel, is deified by becoming the narrator of his own life story. Not only God but the Jewish Covenant, the Blessing of Abraham, and the image of the Messiah are all adjusted to fit the author's own humanistic doctrine in which moral behavior is synonymous with enlightened, literate behavior, and the intellectual is privileged but also obliged to serve life and the human collective.

The Mind in Exile Stanley Corngold, 2024-11-19. A unique look at Thomas Mann's intellectual and political transformation during the crucial years of his exile in the United States. In September 1938, Thomas Mann, the Nobel Prize-winning author of Death in Venice and The Magic Mountain, fled Nazi Germany for the United States. Heralded as the greatest living man of letters, Mann settled in Princeton, New Jersey, where for nearly three years he was stunningly productive as a novelist, university lecturer, and public intellectual. In The Mind in Exile, Stanley Corngold portrays in vivid detail this crucial station in Mann's journey from arch-European conservative to liberal conservative to ardent social democrat. On the knife edge of an exile that would last fully fourteen years, Mann declared, "Where I am, there is Germany; I carry my German culture in me." At Princeton, Mann nourished an authentic German culture that he furiously observed was going to the dogs under Hitler. Here he wrote great chunks of his brilliant novel Lotte in Weimar, The Beloved Returns, the witty novella The Transposed Heads, and the first chapters of Joseph the Provider, which contain intimations of his beloved President Roosevelt's economic policies. Each of Mann's university lectures on Goethe, Freud, Wagner attracted nearly 1,000 auditors; among them, the baseball catcher, linguist, and O.S.S. spy Moe Berg. Meanwhile, Mann had the determination to travel throughout the United States, where he delivered countless speeches in defense of democratic values. In Princeton, Mann exercised his stupendous capacity for work in a circle of friends, all highly accomplished exiles, including Hermann Broch, Albert Einstein, and Erich Kahler. The Mind in Exile portrays this luminous constellation of intellectuals at an extraordinary time and place.

Recognition in the Arabic Narrative Tradition Philip Kennedy, 2016-09-13. According to Aristotle, a well-crafted recognition scene is one of the basic constituents of a successful narrative. It is the point when hidden facts and identities come to light. In the classic instance, a son discovers in horror that his wife is his mother and his children are his siblings. Aristotle coined the term anagnorisis for the concept. In this book, Philip F. Kennedy shows how recognition is key to an understanding of how one reads values and meaning into or out of a story. He analyzes texts and motifs fundamental to the Arabic literary tradition in five case studies: the Qur'an, the biography of Muhammad, Joseph in classical and medieval retellings, the deliverance from adversity genre, and picaresque narratives.
