Nicholas Buckeridge was an employee of the East India Company from the 1640 s into the 1660 s and his journal and letter book provide an account of English trade with India Persia and East Africa in the mid seventeenth century a period for which few records of this kind have survived Many logbooks and journals of the early years of the company have been preserved at the India office but materials for the general period of 1645 to 1660 are very scant Buckeridge describes the places he visited the problems of trading the goods traded and some of the prices obtained in the trading The journal complements the early records of the Assada plantation venture of the East India Company and also provides a picture of the perilous life of a merchantman in his endeavors for the company The editor a former rare book librarian at the University of Minnesota provides a general introduction as well as brief introductions to each of the eighteen pieces from the letter book and journal There are a facsimile reproduction of a page from the Buckeridge account and two maps This is a publication from the James Ford Bell Library at the University of Minnesota

A History of Slavery and Emancipation in Iran, 1800-1929 Behnaz A. Mirzai, 2017-05-16

The first history of slavery in this key Middle Eastern country and how it shaped the nation s unique character Slavery in the Middle East is a growing field of study but the history of slavery in a key country Iran has never before been written This history extends to Africa in the west and India in the east to Russia and Turkmenistan in the north and to the Arab states in the south As the slave trade between Iran and these regions shifted over time it transformed the nation and helped forge its unique culture and identity Thus a history of Iranian slavery is crucial to understanding the character of the modern nation Drawing on extensive archival research in Iran Tanzania England and France as well as fieldwork and interviews in Iran Behnaz A Mirzai offers the first history of slavery in modern Iran from the early nineteenth century to emancipation in the mid twentieth century She investigates how foreign military incursion frontier insecurity political instability and economic crisis altered the patterns of enslavement as well as the ethnicity of the slaves themselves Mirzai s interdisciplinary analysis illuminates the complex issues surrounding the history of the slave trade and the process of emancipation in Iran while also giving voice to social groups that have never been studied enslaved Africans and Iranians Her research builds a clear case that the trade in slaves was inexorably linked to the authority of the state During periods of greater decentralization slave trading increased while periods of greater governmental autonomy saw more freedom and peace This is a major contribution to the study of enslavement in Iran which will doubtlessly become a must read for any future studies of Middle Eastern and Islamic enslavement and abolition as well as for any work on Iranian history in general Ehud R Toledano Tel Aviv University author of As If Silent and Absent Bonds of Enslavement in the Islamic Middle East While this book will be revelatory to scholars of Iran it also promises to engage with theoretical trends in the study of slavery elsewhere It frames many research questions broadly to engage with scholars of slavery in other Muslim lands as well as slavery elsewhere Kamran Scot Aghaie University of Texas at Austin coeditor of Rethinking Iranian Nationalism and Modernity

Bondage and the Environment in the Indian Ocean World Gwyn Campbell, 2018-01-10 Monsoon rains winds and currents have shaped patterns of production and exchange in the Indian Ocean world IOW for centuries Consequently as this volume demonstrates the environment has also played a central role in determining the region's systems of bondage and human trafficking Contributors trace intricate links between environmental forces human suffering and political conditions examining how they have driven people into servile labour and shaped the IOW economy They illuminate the complexities of IOW bondage with case studies drawn chiefly from the mid eighteenth century on Sudan Cape Colony Réunion China and beyond where chattel slavery as seen in the Atlantic world represented only one extreme of a wide spectrum of systems of unfree labour The array of factors examined here including climate change environmental disaster disease and market forces are central to IOW history and to modern day forms of human bondage

The World of the Indian Ocean, 1500-1800 M.N. Pearson, 2024-10-28 The articles in The World of the Indian Ocean 1500-1800 describe the activities of people living on the coasts of the Indian Ocean generously defined during the early modern period Most are based at least in part on Portuguese materials A broad theme linking them all is the claim that in most areas of society and economy early modern Europeans and Asians had much in common with the newly arrived Europeans having no particular advantage over their Asian interlocutors The first five studies discuss aspects of trade and commerce while the next group deal with social and religious themes including conversions and a much quoted early attempt to investigate littoral society The third section presents four discussions of aspects of the early contact between Indian and European medical systems

A History of the Arab State of Zanzibar Norman R. Bennett, 2016-11-10 During the late eighteenth and early nineteenth centuries the fertile islands of Zanzibar and Pemba became of central importance to East Africa's growing contact with the international economy as the ruling dynasty encouraged trade in cloves slaves and ivory This book first published in 1978 provides an account of the history of Zanzibar from those early days of trade up to independence and the Revolution that removed the Arab ruling class in 1964

Feeding Globalization Jane Hooper, 2017-05-15 Between 1600 and 1800 the promise of fresh food attracted more than seven hundred English, French, and Dutch vessels to Madagascar. Throughout this period European ships spent months at sea in the Atlantic and Indian Oceans but until now scholars have not fully examined how crews were fed during these long voyages. Without sustenance from Madagascar European traders would have struggled to transport silver to Asia and spices back to Europe. Colonies in Mozambique, Mauritius, and at the Cape relied upon frequent imports from Madagascar to feed settlers and slaves. In Feeding Globalization Jane Hooper draws on challenging and previously untapped sources to analyze Madagascar's role in provisioning European trading networks within and ultimately beyond the Indian Ocean. The sale of food from the island not only shaped trade routes and colonial efforts but also encouraged political centralization and the slave trade in Madagascar. Malagasy people played an essential role in supporting European global commerce with far-reaching effects on their communities. Feeding Globalization reshapes our understanding of Indian Ocean and global history by insisting historians should pay attention to the role that food played in supporting other exchanges.

The East India Company, 1600-1858 Ian Barrow, 2017-02-14 In existence for 258 years the English East India Company ran a complex, highly integrated global trading network. It supplied the tea for the Boston Tea Party, the cotton textiles used to purchase slaves in Africa, and the opium for China's nineteenth-century addiction. In India it expanded from a few small coastal settlements to govern territories that far exceeded the British Isles in extent and population. It minted coins in its name, established law courts and prisons, and prosecuted wars with one of the world's largest armies. Over time the Company developed a pronounced and aggressive colonialism that laid the foundation for Britain's Eastern empire. A study of the Company therefore is a study of the rise of the modern world. In clear, engaging prose Ian Barrow sets the rise and fall of the Company into political, economic, and cultural contexts and explains how and why the Company was transformed from a maritime trading entity into a territorial colonial state. Excerpts from eighteen primary documents illustrate the main themes and ideas discussed in the text. Maps, illustrations, a glossary, and a chronology are also included.

The International Journal of African Historical Studies, 1976 Trade, Circulation, and Flow in the Indian Ocean World Michael Pearson, 2016-02-05 Trade, Circulation, and Flow in the Indian Ocean World is a collection which covers a long time span and diverse areas around the ocean. Many of the essays look at the Indian Ocean before Europeans arrived, reminding the reader that there was a cohesive Indian Ocean. This collection includes empirical studies and essays focused on particular areas or production. The essays cover various aspects of trade and exchange, the Indian Ocean as a world system, East African and Inland from Mombasa David P. Bresnahan, 2024-12-10 A free ebook version of this title is available through Luminos University of California Press s Open Access publishing program Visit www.luminosoa.org to learn more Over the past few decades scholars have traced how Indian Ocean merchants forged transregional networks into a world of global connections East Africa s crucial role in this Indian Ocean world has primarily been understood through the influence of coastal trading centers like Mombasa In Inland from Mombasa David P Bresnahan looks anew at this Swahili port city from the vantage point of the communities that lived on its rural edges By reconstructing the deep history of these Mijikenda speaking societies over the past two millennia he shows how profoundly they influenced global trade even as they rejected many of the cosmopolitan practices that historians have claimed are critical to creating global connections choosing smaller communities over urbanism local ritual practices over Islam and inland trade over maritime commerce Inland from Mombasa makes the compelling case that the seemingly isolating alternative social pursuits engaged in by Mijikenda speakers were in fact key to their active role in global commerce and politics
