

HORTICULTURE FOR THE DISABLED AND DISADVANTAGED

DAMON R. OLSZOWY, Ph.D.

The field of horticultural therapy is rapidly gaining acceptance and recognition because it is a significant methodology promoting rapid and realistic results. Moreover, a horticultural program can be designed to meet a person's specific needs, rather than social, psychological, educational or mental. This book discusses the principles, philosophy, and implementation of a horticultural program for disabled persons and courses of instruction. An integral part of this volume is an appendix section that includes appropriate projects, exercises, and methods, and ways in which they can be used for instruction, diagnosis, evaluation and therapy that provide special services to the disabled and disadvantaged.
