Chronicle of Progress Ibrahim Abed, Paula Casey-Vine, Abdullah Al Jabali, 1996 Presidential Succession Scenarios in Egypt and Their Impact on U.S.-Egyptian Strategic Relations Gregory L. Aftandilian, 2011 Although this monograph was written before the pro democracy demonstrations in Egypt in January 2011 it examines the important question as to who might succeed President Hosni Mubarak by analyzing several possible scenarios and what they would mean for U S strategic relations with Egypt The monograph first describes the importance of Egypt in the Middle East region and gives an overview of the U S Egyptian strategic relationship It then examines the power structure in Egypt to include the presidency the military and the ruling party The monograph next explores various succession scenarios Although some of the scenarios outlined in this monograph are no longer viable for example it is highly unlikely President Mubarak will renege on his recent promise not to run for another presidential term or that Gamal Mubarak will now be a presidential contender other scenarios remain plausible particularly given what we see as the more prominent role of the Egyptian military in this fluid political situation In addition some of the possible presidential successors that the author mentions have now risen to higher positions in the Egyptian government He also discusses the sensitive issue of the Muslim Brotherhood Egypt's most organized opposition group that is opposed to many U S policies He examines a scenario of a Muslim Brotherhood dominated government but notes that this is unlikely to occur unless both the Brotherhood and the Egyptian military split apart

The Libyan Revolution Karen Dabrowska, 2012-01-09 The Libyan revolution has been extensively covered by the international news media since its inception to the toppling of Qadhafis regime But how did the regimes media react to events Karen Dabrowska was the London correspondent of the official Libyan news agency JANA and was in the eye of the storm monitoring the media and covering events in London Perhaps the only Westerner working in a Libyan government institution she kept a diary from the start of NATO's bombing campaign until the ousting of Qadhafi's regime The diary describes what it was like working for the Libyans the office politics the mentality of the officials and the articles she wrote The era of government news agencies may be coming to an end This book provides a unique perspective on the Libyan revolution
