House Humans:

Speaking with Houses Michael Linzey, 2025-09-16 This book critically examines the concept of Being in Western philosophy and its manifestation in architecture. The book traverses diverse cultural and historical contexts analysing five architectural works: the Djoser Step Pyramid in ancient Egypt, the Pantheon in imperial Rome, the Tai an tea house in late medieval Japan, the Te Tokanganui a Noho meeting house in colonial New Zealand, and Mies van der Rohe's Seagram Building in modern New York. Through these case studies, it challenges Martin Heidegger's assertion that language is the house of Being, proposing instead that Being is a construct specific to Western ontology. By exploring architectural poiesis across various cultures, the book reveals that the Western notion of Being is not a universal foundation for architectural creation. Each examined structure embodies distinct cultural and philosophical principles, such as the concept of m in Japanese tea houses, which signifies neither Being nor non-Being, and the no Being tradition in M ori tikanga. This comparative analysis underscores the diversity of architectural expressions and their underlying philosophies, offering readers a nuanced understanding of how different cultures conceptualize existence and space. This book is an invaluable resource for scholars in architecture, philosophy, and cultural studies. Its interdisciplinary approach provides a comprehensive critique of Western metaphysical assumptions, encouraging readers to reconsider the relationship between language, being, and architectural form. By integrating architectural analysis with philosophical inquiry, it fosters a deeper appreciation of cultural diversity in architectural practices and invites academics to explore alternative ontological perspectives in the built environment.

Human Nature and Social Life Jon Henrik Ziegler Remme, Kenneth Sillander, 2017-06-15 The book explores how humans are distinct social beings whose relations nevertheless extend into nonhuman spheres in various ways.

The Prophecy of Ra Uru Hu Steve Rhodes, 2025-07-27 In 1987, Ra Uru Hu had a strange and life-altering experience on the island of Ibiza. For eight days and nights, he received a transmission, a message that stretched from the Big Bang to the end of biological life on Earth. It described the hidden structure behind existence, how our lives are shaped by a vast evolutionary program, and what will happen next. He was told that in 2027, a new species would begin to emerge: the Rave, a being not meant to survive alone but to function through a shared group consciousness. After that, the program would abandon humanity and civilisation as we know it; it would begin to collapse. Governments, institutions, and even the internet would fade. Global warming and mass migration would not be mistakes but biological prerequisites for what comes next. He never asked anyone to believe him. But as we approach 2027 and the world begins to shift in the very ways he described, it may be time to read what he was shown. This book contains the original transmission that later inspired the Human Design System, presented without interpretation by someone who studied with Ra Uru Hu for seven years.

Humans and the Environment Matthew I. J. Davies, Freda Nkiriote M'Mbogori, 2013-06-27 The environment has always been a central concept for archaeologists, and although it has been conceived in many ways, its role in archaeological explanation has fluctuated from a mere backdrop to human action to a primary factor in the understanding of society and social change Archaeology also has a unique position as its base of interest places it temporally between geological and ethnographic timescales spatially between global and local dimensions and epistemologically between empirical studies of environmental change and more heuristic studies of cultural practice Drawing on data from across the globe at a variety of temporal and spatial scales this volume resituates the way in which archaeologists use and apply the concept of the environment Each chapter critically explores the potential for archaeological data and practice to contribute to modern environmental issues including problems of climate change and environmental degradation Overall the volume covers four basic themes archaeological approaches to the way in which both scientists and locals conceive of the relationship between humans and their environment applied environmental archaeology the archaeology of disaster and new interdisciplinary directions The volume will be of interest to students and established archaeologists as well as practitioners from a range of applied disciplines

House of Lords - House Of Commons - Joint Committee on Human Rights: Legislative Scrutiny: Immigration Bill - HL 102 - HC 935 Great Britain: Parliament: Joint Committee on Human Rights,2013-12-18 The Joint Committee on Human Rights accepts that the measures in the Immigration Bill serve the legitimate aim of immigration control but is concerned that some of them may be applied in practice in a way which breaches human rights in particular cases The Committee is particularly concerned about the risk of the new provisions relating to residential tenancies giving rise in practice to homelessness in the case of people who have no right to remain in the UK but face genuine barriers to leaving The Committee is also concerned to ensure that these measures do not give rise to an undue risk that migrant children will be exposed to homelessness or separation from family members The provisions in the Bill on access to residential tenancies may heighten the risk of racial discrimination against prospective tenants notwithstanding the fact that such discrimination is unlawful under the Equality Act The First Tier Tribunal not the Secretary of State should decide whether it is within its jurisdiction to consider a new matter raised on an appeal In the report the Committee concludes that the restriction on appeal rights might constitute a serious threat to the practical ability to access the legal system to challenge unlawful immigration and asylum decisions and to enforce the statutory duty to have regard to the need to safeguard and promote the welfare of children when exercising immigration and asylum functions The Committee also comments on other aspects of the Bill

Evolutionary Genetics Glenn-Peter Sætre,Mark Ravinet,2019 With recent technological advances vast quantities of genetic and genomic data are being generated at an ever increasing pace The explosion in access to data has transformed the field of evolutionary genetics A thorough understanding of evolutionary principles is essential for making sense of this but new skill sets are also needed to handle and analyze big data This contemporary textbook covers all the major components of modern evolutionary genetics carefully explaining fundamental processes such as mutation natural selection genetic drift and speciation It also draws on a rich literature of exciting and inspiring examples to demonstrate the diversity of evolutionary research including an emphasis on how evolution and selection has shaped our own species Practical experience is essential for developing an understanding of how to use genetic and genomic data to analyze and interpret results in meaningful ways In addition to the main text a series of online tutorials using the R language serves as an introduction to programming statistics and analysis Indeed the R environment stands out as an ideal all purpose source platform to handle and analyze such data The book and its online materials take full advantage of the authors own experience in working in a post genomic revolution world and introduces readers to the plethora of molecular and analytical methods that have only recently become available Evolutionary Genetics is an advanced but accessible textbook aimed principally at students of various levels from undergraduate to postgraduate but also for researchers looking for an updated introduction to modern evolutionary biology and genetics Human Needs

,1972 Human Rights Commissions and Ombudsman Offices Kamal Hossain,2000 This volume reflects the findings of a conference organized in preparation of setting up a national human rights commission and ombudsman institution in the Federal Democratic Republic of Ethiopia The meeting assembled experts in the field of the protection and promotion of human rights and of the problems of countries in transition from a non democratic system characterized by gross violations of human rights towards a democratic system based on the rule of law and respect for human rights The book analyses the functioning of national human rights commissions and ombudsman institutions in 23 different countries by means of country report written in the main by members of these institutions themselves and containing an assessment of their experience Many offer relevant constitutional and legislative provisions as well This volume thus forms a unique collection of materials dealing with national human rights commissions and ombudsman offices Human Rights Functions of United Nations

Peacekeeping Operations Mari Katayanagi,2002-09-25 The United Nations peacekeeping has evolved as a practical measure for preserving international peace and security Recent peacekeeping has two important features the use of force which arguably exceeds self defence on the one hand and multifunctional operations on the other The Security Council has started considering a wide range of factors including serious human rights violations as threats to international peace and security Recognising the UN s principle to seek peaceful settlement which underlies the legality of peacekeeping this research focuses on the human rights functions of multifunctional peacekeeping operations Such functions have immense potential for enhancing conflict resolution through peaceful means In order to illustrate these issues and the diverse practice of UN peacekeeping the author of this book has dealt with four detailed case studies on El Salvador Cambodia Rwanda and the former Yugoslavia The achievements problems and defects experienced by different operations are analysed using the insights of the author s own experience in a peacekeeping operation House of Lords - House of Commons - Joint

Committee on Human Rights: The Implications for Access to Justice of the Government's Proposals to Reform Legal Aid - HL 100 - HC 766 Great Britain: Parliament: Joint Committee on Human Rights,2013-12-13 The report The Implications For Access To Justice Of The Government s Proposals To Reform Legal Aid HL100 HC 766 concludes that the government should reconsider its proposals for the reform of legal aid The government has so far made welcome exemptions to its proposed residence test in the light of responses to its consultation but the Committee is still not satisfied that the proposed test will not affect vulnerable groups While accepting that it is legitimate for the government to introduce a residence test for civil legal aid and to restrict the scope of prison law funding the Committee calls for more and broader exemptions from these proposals to avoid breaches of the fundamental right of effective access to justice in individual cases The exceptional funding framework may not be working as intended and could therefore leave certain groups unable to access legal aid when human rights law requires it The proposal to remove cases with
