Household Waste Recycle:

Household Waste Recycling Richard Waite, 2013-11-05 Households in the UK each generate around one tonne of waste per year and the successful management and disposal of this waste is becoming an increasingly important issue. In many cases recycling is the most sensible option and the UK government has set a target to recycle a quarter of all household waste by the year 2000. This book gives an overview of the waste management and disposal options currently available and provides a comprehensive and up to date analysis of how recycling could develop. The author, one of the UK's leading experts, looks at how much of the waste is potentially recyclable, shows the various ways in which recyclable materials can be separated and reprocessed, and assesses the existing markets for recyclable materials. He gives an in depth account of the important subject of packaging recycling and compares the UK's progress and performance with what is happening elsewhere in Europe. He also discusses how the performance of current recycling schemes can be measured and costed and forecasts future developments in the industry. Dr Richard Waite is a former Specialist Advisor to the House of Commons Environment Select Committee and is currently a consultant with Coopers Lybrand. He established one of the first commercial MRFs in the country and has advised many local authorities, central government departments including the European Commission and private sector organisations on recycling issues. Originally published in 1995. Household

Recycling of Municipal Solid Waste United States. Congress. House. Committee on Energy and Commerce. Subcommittee on Transportation and Hazardous Materials, 1989

Waste and Recycling Takayoshi Shinkuma, Shunsuke Managi, 2011-04-06 As business as usual has become the mantra of today s world it s unlikely to see a decrease in hazardous waste generated from greater economic growth Written by renowned experts the book suggests a solution supported by theoretical arguments to this waste problem The book discusses how main problems for waste management can be addressed through appropriate policies adopted by governments in OECD countries The book also raises thoughtful questions on how household waste management services should be privatized and who should pay for the disposal and recycling costs It attempts to answer these questions The book considers several factors hindering the first best optimal outcome and highlights two crucial ones. It elaborates further with models and the solutions on how to overcome these obstacles. The book covers not only traditional resource economics and waste management but also the recent problem of Electric waste (E waste) and illustrates in details how the environments of developing countries are inevitably polluted even with the Basel ban Amendment in place. The book proposes an alternative international trading regulation to address E waste. This book will certainly appeal to industry decision makers, policy makers and legislators. Waste Trevor Letcher, Daniel A. Vallero, 2019-03-05. Waste: A Handbook for Management Second Edition provides information on a wide range of hot topics and developing areas such as hydraulic fracturing, microplastics, waste management in developing countries and waste exposure outcome pathways. Beginning with an overview of the current waste landscape including green engineering, processing principles and regulations, the book then outlines waste streams and treatment methods for over 25 different types of waste and reviews best practices and management challenges for developing countries, risk assessment, contaminant pathways and risk tradeoffs. With an overall focus on waste recovery, reuse, prevention and lifecycle analysis, the book draws on the experience of an international team of expert contributors to provide reliable guidance on how best to manage wastes for scientists, managers, engineers and policymakers in both the private and public sectors. Covers the assessment and treatment of different waste streams in a single book. Provides a hands on report on each type of waste problem as written by an expert in the field. Highlights new findings and evolving problems in waste management via discussion boxes. Refuse collection Great Britain: Parliament: House of Commons: Communities and Local Government Committee, 2007-10-11. Responsibility for household refuse collection and disposal belongs to around 400 local authorities in England and the historical development of such a disparate system means practice varies widely on timing and frequency and the types of materials collected and recycled. EU landfill restrictions designed to combat climate change have driven a shift towards greater recycling as councils seek to avoid paying substantial fines. The Committee's report examines the range of collection methods used and how these can help reduce the amount of municipal waste sent to landfill, financing aspects of refuse collection, waste planning, financial incentive schemes and the polluter pays principle. The report finds that there is no single waste collection system suitable for all local authorities across England given the range of local circumstances but the challenges posed do require a national response driven by a clear vision energetically communicated from central government. This includes the need for best practice guidance on information provision to householders on collection methods, particularly alternative weekly collections to promote greater awareness in households of the need for food waste reduction and to prioritise performance improvement in waste management within the Government's new local government performance framework. Other recommendations include the need for further research into the public health impacts of alternate weekly collections in order to satisfy public concerns over the increased risk of vermin and pests and for wider application of the colour coded recycling system developed by WRAP, the Waste and Resources Act Programme to help reduce the differences in recycling practice across local authority boundaries The Committee supports the ability of councils to form joint authorities but raises concerns over the Government's current plans for financial incentive schemes for recycling It also recommends that given the majority of waste is produced by commercial industrial and construction industries the programme of affordable recycling services for businesses is needed especially for SMEs Household Waste Kate Walker,2004 Provides a brief explanation on how household waste is recycled and the benefit to the environment
