Global Urbanization Eugenie L. Birch, Susan M. Wachter, 2011-02-25 For the first time in history the majority of the world s population lives in urban areas Much of this urbanization has been fueled by the rapidly growing cities of the developing world exemplified most dramatically by booming megacities such as Lagos Karachi and Mumbai In the coming years as both the number and scale of cities continue to increase the most important matters of social policy and economic development will necessarily be urban issues Urbanization across the world but especially in Asia and Africa is perhaps the critical issue of the twenty first century Global Urbanization surveys essential dimensions of this growth and begins to formulate a global urban agenda for the next half century Drawing from many disciplines the contributors tackle issues ranging from how cities can keep up with fast growing housing needs to the possibilities for public private partnerships in urban governance Several essays address the role that cutting edge technologies such as GIS software remote sensing and predictive growth models can play in tracking and forecasting urban growth Reflecting the central importance of the Global South to twenty first century urbanism the volume includes case studies and examples from China India Uganda Kenya and Brazil While the challenges posed by large scale urbanization are immense the future of human development requires that we find ways to promote socially inclusive growth environmental sustainability and resilient infrastructure The timely and relevant scholarship assembled in Global Urbanization will be of great interest to scholars and policymakers in demography geography urban studies and international development

The End of Automobile Dependence Peter Newman, Jeffrey Kenworthy, 2015-08-11 Cities will continue to accommodate the automobile but when cities are built around them the quality of human and natural life declines Current trends show great promise for future urban mobility systems that enable freedom and connection but not dependence We are experiencing the phenomenon of peak car use in many global cities at the same time that urban rail is thriving central cities are revitalizing and suburban sprawl is reversing Walking and cycling are growing in many cities along with ubiquitous bike sharing schemes which have contributed to new investment and vitality in central cities including Melbourne Seattle Chicago and New York We are thus in a new era that has come much faster than global transportation experts Peter Newman and Jeffrey Kenworthy had predicted the end of automobile dependence In The End of Automobile Dependence Newman and Kenworthy look at how we can accelerate a planning approach to designing urban environments that can function reliably and conveniently on alternative modes with a refined and more civilized automobile playing a very much reduced and manageable role in urban transportation The authors examine the rise and fall of automobile dependence using updated data on 44 global cities to better understand how to facilitate and guide cities to the most productive and sustainable outcomes This is the final volume in a trilogy by Newman and Kenworthy on automobile dependence Cities and Automobile Dependence in 1989 and Sustainability and Cities Overcoming Automobile Dependence in 1999 Like all good trilogies this one shows the rise of an empire in this case that of the automobile the peak of its power and the decline of that empire Aspects of Urbanization in China Gregory Bracken, 2012 China's opkomst als wereldmacht is een van de ingrijpendste gebeurtenissen van deze tijd Honderden miljoenen mensen zijn de armoede ontvlucht dankzij de snelle industrialisatie van het land De wonderbaarlijke economische groei van China heeft zijn nadelen iets wat vaak het meest pijnlijk duidelijk wordt in de steden Deze studie is geschreven door wetenschappers uit verschillende disciplines waaronder architectuur stedenbouw sociale wetenschappen aardrijkskunde en antropologie Een deel van de auteurs behandelt de mondiale ambities van de steden terwijl andere hun culturele en architecturale uitingen onderzoeken Moving Out of Poverty Jonna P. Estudillo, Keijiro Otsuka, 2015-08-20 The words of US President John F Kennedy the rising tide lifts all boats can be applied to inclusive growth in contemporary Asia where the poor are able to participate in and benefit from economic growth Moving Out of Poverty explores three channels through which economic growth confers gains to the poor and improves the status of women The first is creation of productive employment as labor is typically the most abundant asset of the poor and economic growth has created jobs in labor intensive sectors The second is investment in schooling which coupled with increased opportunities to earn income has elevated women's status in society The third is increased availability of improved infrastructure which directly impacts increasing household income from wage work and self employment activities This book will be of great value to development economists students and researchers interested in rural economies in Asia and policymakers engaged in poverty reduction
