Joseph Conrad And The Anthropological Dilemma Bewildered Traveller:

Joseph Conrad and the Anthropological Dilemma John Wylie Griffith,1995 By situating Conrad s work in relation to other writings on primitive peoples John Griffith shows how his fiction draws on prominent anthropological and biological theories regarding the degenerative potential of contacts between European and other cultures At the same time however Conrad s work reflected an anthropological dilemma he constantly posed the question of how to bridge conceptual and cultural gaps between various peoples

Work, Inheritance, and Deserts in Joseph Conrad's Fiction Evelyn Tsz Yan Chan,2022-08-19 This book focuses on the complex relationships between inheritance work and desert in literature It shows how from its manifestation in the trope of material inheritance and legacy in Victorian fiction inheritance gradually took on additional more modern meanings in Joseph Conrad s fiction on work and self making In effect the emphasis on inheritance as referring to social rank and wealth acquired through birth shifted to a focus on talent ability and merit often expressed through work The book explores how Conrad s fiction engaged with these changing modes of inheritance and work and the resulting claims of desert they led to Uniquely it argues that Conrad s fiction critiques claims of desert arising from both work and inheritance while also vividly portraying the emotional costs and existential angst that these beliefs in desert entailed The argument speaks to and illuminates today s debates on moral desert arising from work and inheritance in particular from meritocratic ideals Its new approach to Conrad s works will appeal to students and scholars of Conrad and literary modernism as well as a wider audience interested in philosophical and social debates on desert deriving from inheritance and work

It is our most powerful explanation of humanity's place in nature, but it is also more cognitively demanding and less emotionally satisfying than any myth. From the publication of the Origin of Species in 1859, evolution has pushed our capacity for storytelling into overdrive, sparking fairy tales, adventure stories, political allegories, utopias, dystopias, social realist novels, and existential meditations. Though this influence on literature has been widely studied, it has not been explained psychologically. This book argues for the adaptive function of storytelling, integrates traditional humanist scholarship with current knowledge about the evolved and adapted human mind, and calls for literary scholars to reframe their interpretation of the first authors who responded to Darwin. Conradian Contracts Tamas Juhasz, 2011-04-28 This book treats Joseph Conrad's simultaneous interests in exchange contracts and the condition of displacement. The central hypothesis is that the novelist's characters face the option of signing or rejecting what might, with some generalization, be called a social covenant. These individuals conduct a lonely or marginal existence, and to ease their isolation, they would like to re-enter a community. For this reason, they are ready to contribute to larger collective causes and comply with those restrictions that social life in its contractual aspect requires. As Julia Kristeva puts it, "The foreigner is the one who works yet engagement in transactions in order to earn a social position is fraught with difficulties. In return for their contribution, these hard-working characters do not always receive the compensation that they had in mind, especially when their definition of companionship violates the boundaries of legality and social propriety. Their private illicit interests are bound to clash with communal ones, and the ensuing negotiating, readjustment, or compromise seeking either crush the individual party or result in a redefinition of the notion of contract." This link between exchange and displacement is explored in nine narratives. Just as the concept of exile is used in a broad, often metaphorical sense, ranging from characters who are actual migrants through individuals who occupy a marginal position within their native community to individuals who are caught between conflicting cultural-economic models, the trade or contractual alliance that can create or at least promise a sense of communal belonging and personal recognition is also manifold in its definition. Although it always includes, if to varying degrees, the transference of economic goods or entering a specific agreement, exchange is never limited to legal material procedures. Yearbook of Conrad Studies (Poland) Vol. VI 2011, The Nineteenth-century Novel Dennis Walder, 2001 The essays in this collection show how the conventions of realism were transformed by new ideas about gender and race. Conrad Without Borders Brendan Kavanagh, Grazyna Maria Teresa Branny, Agnieszka Adamowicz-Pospiech, 2022-12-01 A diverse and multinational volume, this book showcases the passages of Joseph Conrad's narratives across geographical and disciplinary boundaries, focusing on the transtextual and transcultural elements of his fiction. Caribbean-English Passages Tobias Döring, 2003-08-29 Tobias Döring uses Postcolonialism as a backdrop to examine and question the traditional genres of travel writing nature poetry adventure tales autobiography and the epic assessing their relevance to and modification by the Caribbean experience Caribbean English Passages opens an innovative and cross cultural perspective in which familiar oppositions of colonial white versus postcolonial black writing are deconstructed English identity is thereby questioned by this colonial contact and Caribbean English writing radically redraws the map of world literature This book is essential reading for students of Postcolonial Literature at both undergraduate and postgraduate level

Wandering through Guilt Paola Di Gennaro, 2015-06-18 The first comprehensive study on the pattern of guilt and wandering in literature this book examines the relationship between the two complex concepts as they appear in twentieth century novels positing its methodological premises on archetypal criticism and both close and distant reading but also drawing on psychology anthropology mythology and religion This research deciphers a common paradigm and literary representation whose archetype within Western literature is found in the biblical figure of Cain while presenting a critical framework valid for boundary crossing comparative approaches From Graham Greene's The Power and the Glory and Malcolm Lowry's Under the

Volcano to Wolfgang Koeppen's Death in Rome and Oka Shōhei's Fires on the Plain this book is not merely a thematic study but an analysis of the literary phenomena that appear in those novels where the sense of guilt is controversially subjective or so collective as to be perceived as universal as is often the case with war and postwar literature Di Gennaro goes beyond the analysis of explicit rewritings of the story of Cain in order to uncover the monomyth through its rhetorical structures and mythical methods The wasteland with no religion the lost abandoned garden the classical and religiously corrupted city and the tropical cannibalistic island at war are the respective settings of these narratives where the issue is neither homelessness nor journeying but rather the desperate and futile movement toward self-consciousness or self-destruction After the Second World War much was silenced rather than left unsaid This study retraces those silent cries over history through the powerful literary marks of myths

Comparisons and Interactions Within/Across Cultures Ludmilla Kostova, Iona Sarieva and Mihaela Irimia, The Evolutionary Imagination in Late-Victorian Novels John Glendening, 2016-03-16 Dominated by Darwinism and the numerous guises it assumed evolutionary theory was a source of opportunities and difficulties for late Victorian novelists Texts produced by Wells Hardy Stoker and Conrad are exemplary in reflecting and participating in these challenges Not only do they contend with evolutionary complications John Glendening argues but the complexities and entanglements of evolutionary theory interacting with multiple cultural influences thoroughly permeate the narrative descriptive and thematic fabric of each All the books Glendening examines from The Island of Doctor Moreau and Dracula to Heart of Darkness address the interrelationship between order and chaos revealed and promoted by evolutionary thinking of the period Glendening's particular focus is on how Darwinism informs novels in relation to a late Victorian culture that encouraged authors to stress not objective truths illuminated by Darwinism but rather the contingencies uncertainties and confusions generated by it and other forms of evolutionary theory
