The Story Paradox Jonathan Gottschall, 2021-11-23 Storytelling a tradition that built human civilization may soon destroy it Humans are storytelling animals Stories are what make our societies possible Countless books celebrate their virtues But Jonathan Gottschall an expert on the science of stories argues that there is a dark side to storytelling we can no longer ignore Storytelling the very tradition that built human civilization may be the thing that destroys it In The Story

Paradox Gottschall explores how a broad consortium of psychologists communications specialists neuroscientists and literary quants are using the scientific method to study how stories affect our brains The results challenge the idea that storytelling is an obvious force for good in human life Yes storytelling can bind groups together but it is also the main force dragging people apart And it s the best method we ve ever devised for manipulating each other by circumventing rational thought Behind all civilization s greatest ills environmental destruction runaway demagogues warfare you will always find the same master factor a mind disordering story Gottschall argues that societies succeed or fail depending on how they manage these tensions And it has only become harder as new technologies that amplify the effects of disinformation campaigns conspiracy theories and fake news make separating fact from fiction nearly impossible With clarity and conviction Gottschall reveals why our biggest asset has become our greatest threat and what if anything can be done It is a call to stop asking How we can change the world through stories and start asking How can we save the world from stories     Shopping News John Cokley,2015-09-20 This book contains keys to the next generation of journalism and news publishing with 16 clearly explained practical models for reporters editors and producers everywhere John Cokley aims to show how journalists and publishers can please more readers without compromising ethics or quality It s for everyone in the media business

Reckoning Candis Callison, Mary Lynn Young, 2020 How do journalists know what they know Who gets to decide what good journalism is and when it's done right What sort of expertise do journalists have and what role should and do they play in society Until a couple of decades ago journalists rarely asked these questions largely because the answers were generally undisputed Now the stakes are rising for journalists as they face real time critique and audience pushback for their ethics news reporting and relevance Yet the crises facing journalism have been narrowly defined as the result of disruption by new technologies and economic decline This book argues that the concerns are in fact much more profound Drawing on their five years of research with journalists in the U S and Canada in a variety of news organizations from startups and freelancers to mainstream media the authors find a digital reckoning taking place regarding journalism's founding ideals and methods The book explores journalism's long standing representational harms arguing that despite thoughtful explorations of the role of publics in journalism the profession hasn't adequately addressed matters of gender race intersectionality and settler colonialism In doing so the authors rethink the basis for what journalism says it could and should do suggesting that a turn to strong objectivity and systems journalism provides a path forward They offer insights from journalists own experiences and efforts at repair reform and transformation to consider how journalism can address its limits and possibilities along with widening media publics Literary World ,1902 The Literary World ,1897
