From Self Help Housing To Sustainable:

From Self-help Housing to Sustainable Settlement John Tait, 1997 A comprehensive discussion of the self help housing debate and in the light of recent development theory a review of the perspectives of urban informal production within the globalization of capitalism It analyses the problems of achieving sustainable solutions in housing projects the inappropriateness of many planning approaches and the lack of political interest to integrate informal settlement in urban development

Housing the Poor on the African Continent Mfundo Mandla Masuku, Oliver Mtapuri, Primrose Thandekile Sabela, Nomusa M. Mlondo, 2022-10-13 This book explores the circumstances surrounding state provided low cost housing for people at the lower end of the housing market in Africa It deploys Ubuntu philosophy to unpack the provision of housing security to citizens arguing that interpreting housing rights within Ubuntu philosophy recognises the spirit of reciprocity and collective solidarity as fundamental to meeting the housing needs of low income groups In essence the volume reflects on the values of Ubuntu and informs both policy and practice by guiding policymakers researchers and practitioners with the episteme of basic human rights and the Ubuntu philosophy It pointedly grapples with issues that resonate with efforts by African governments to protect vulnerable citizens from multidimensional poverty homelessness gender neutral policies and self help housing schemes The book's insights raise red flags concerning the realisation of Ubuntu as a vehicle earmarked to deliver adequate and sustainable housing delivery outcomes The volume is a must read for academics researchers practitioners government officials and leaders from various sectors

From the City to the Desert Raffael Beier, 2019-08-23 In recent years large scale housing and resettlement projects have experienced a renaissance in many developing countries and are increasingly shaping new urban peripheries One prominent example is Morocco's Villes Sans Bidonville cities without shantytowns programme that aims at eradicating all shantytowns in Morocco by resettling its population to apartment blocks at the urban peripheries Analysing the specific resettlement project of Karyan Central a 90 year old shantytown in Casablanca this book sheds light on both process and outcome of resettlement from the perspective of affected people It draws on rich empirical data from a structure household survey n 871 qualitative interviews with different stakeholder document analysis and non participant observation gathered during four months of field research The author emphasises that the VSB programme although formally part of anti poverty and urban inclusion policies puts primary focus on the clearance of the shantytown Largely based on ill informed policy assumptions stigmatisation rent seeking and opaque implementation practices the VSB programme interpreted adequate housing in a narrow sense By showing how social interactions employment patterns and access to urban functions have changed because of resettlement the book provides sound empirical evidence that housing means more than four walls and a roof

Sustainable Communities Task Force Report President's Council on Sustainable Development. Sustainable Communities Task Force, 1998

Life Takes Place David Seamon, 2018-04-19 Life Takes Place argues that even in our mobile hypermodern world human life is impossible without place Seamon asks the question why does life take place He draws on examples of specific places and place experiences to understand place more broadly Advocating for a holistic way of understanding that he calls synergistic relationality Seamon defines places as spatial fields that gather activate sustain identify and interconnect things human beings experiences meanings and events Throughout his phenomenological explication Seamon recognizes that places are multivalent in their constitution and sophisticated in their dynamics Drawing on British philosopher J G Bennett s method of progressive approximation he considers place and place experience in terms of their holistic dialectical and processual dimensions Recognizing that places always change over time Seamon examines their processual dimension by identifying six generative processes that he labels interaction identity release realization intensification and creation Drawing on practical examples from architecture planning and urban design he argues that an understanding of these six place processes might contribute to a more rigorous place making that produces robust places and propels vibrant environmental experiences This book is a significant contribution to the growing research literature in place and place making studies

Resource Sustainability and Caribbean Development Duncan F. M. McGregor, David Barker, Sally Lloyd-Evans, 1998

Resource Sustainability and Caribbean Development follows on from Barker and McGregor's earlier edited volume Environment and Development in the Caribbean Geographical Perspectives 1995 and aims to focus more specifically on the theme of sustainability and to examine research contributions of geographers to problems of sustainability in the Caribbean region While the problems of environmental degradation have increased in recent decades the ability of Caribbean governments to cope with the consequences appears to have been eroded There is however a growing recognition within the region of the need for development strategies that focus on the social needs of the people yet simultaneously protect the fragile natural environment It is hoped that the research presented here will serve to inform the wider research and decision making community of the main problems associated with resource sustainability in the region and of some of the major research directions crucial to the alleviation of these problems
