Good Death:

The Good Death Ann Neumann, 2017-02-07 Following the death of her father journalist and hospice volunteer Ann Neumann sets out to examine what it means to die well in the United States When Ann Neumann's father was diagnosed with non-Hodgkin's lymphoma she left her job and moved back to her hometown of Lancaster Pennsylvania She became his full time caregiver cooking cleaning and administering medications When her father died she was undone by the experience by grief and the visceral quality of dying Neumann struggled to put her life back in order and found herself haunted by a question Was her father's death a good death The way we talk about dying and the way we actually die are two very different things she discovered and many of us are shielded from what death actually looks like To gain a better understanding Neumann became a hospice volunteer and set out to discover what a good death is today She attended conferences academic lectures and grief sessions in church basements She went to Montana to talk with the attorney who successfully argued for the legalization of aid in dying and to Scranton Pennsylvania to listen to pro life groups who believe the removal of feeding tubes from some patients is tantamount to murder Above all she listened to the stories of those who were close to death What Neumann found is that death in contemporary America is much more complicated than we think Medical technologies and increased life expectancies have changed the very definition of medical death And although death is our common fate it is also a divisive issue that we all experience differently What constitutes a good death is unique to each of us depending on our age race economic status culture and beliefs What's more differing concepts of choice autonomy and consent make death a contested landscape governed by social medical legal and religious systems In these pages Neumann brings us intimate portraits of the nurses patients bishops bioethicists and activists who are shaping the way we die The Good Death presents a fearless examination of how we approach death and how those of us close to dying loved ones live in death's wake A

Good Death Christopher R. Cox, 2013-02-19 A first rate mystery beautifully crafted fast paced and populated with the most vivid and at times seamy characters A bravura debut Douglas Preston 1 bestselling co author of the Pendergast series of novels A nail biting debut mystery that plunges readers into the seamy side streets of late 90s Bangkok and across the untamed mountains of the Lao-Vietnam border hot on the heels of an alluring woman who's officially dead unless she's masterminded a half million dollar life insurance scam An expertly crafted debut A GOOD DEATH introduces Sebastian Damon a sharp witted though struggling Boston PI who catches an intriguing case Linda Watts is a beautiful talented Southeast Asian refugee with a promising career in finance or she was until she turned up dead the victim of a heroin OD in a cheap Bangkok guest house Her death seemed straightforward to the Thai authorities but her insurance company isn't buying it They send Sebastian halfway around the world to investigate where he finds himself confounded and completely out of place chasing faint leads through the broken bewildering streets of Thailand's teeming capital An award winning journalist with decades of experience traveling in and reporting on Southeast Asia Christopher R Cox takes readers on a vibrant journey through a corrupt police bureaucracy a network of steamy Bangkok nightclubs and grimy hostels to a place where you can feel the humid air and smell the stir fried street food Along the way Sebastian finds romance as he falls for a captivatingly mysterious woman and camaraderie with his father's wise cracking old Special Forces wingman an expat who can navigate Bangkok's chaotic underbelly and the wild mountains of Laos with equal aplomb For Sebastian it's the assignment of a lifetime a chase that will lead him to a long buried truth at the heart of all the dark lies a quest that will change him forever in this richly imagined compelling debut perfect for fans of John Burdett

EBOOK: A Good Death: On the Value of Death and Dying Lars Sandman, 2004-09-16 Is there such a thing as a good death Should we be able to choose how we wish to die What are the ethical considerations that surround a good death The notion of a good death plays an important role in modern palliative care and remains a topic for lively debate Using philosophical methods and theories this book provides a critical analysis of Western notions surrounding the dying process in the palliative care context Sandman highlights how our changing ideas about the value of life inevitably shape the concept of a good death He explores the varying perspectives on the good death that come from friends family physicians spiritual carers and others close to the dying person Setting out a number of arguments for and against existing thinking about a good death this book links to the practice of palliative care in several key areas including An exploration of the universal features of dying The process of facing death Preparation for death The environment of dying and death The author concludes that it is difficult to find convincing reasons for any one way to die a good death and argues for a pluralist approach A Good Death is essential reading for students and professionals with an interest in palliative care and end of life issues

The Good Death Marilyn Webb, 2011-07-27 The Good Death is the first full scale examination of one of today's most complex issues the profound change in the way Americans think about and confront death Drawing on more than six years of firsthand research and reporting noted journalist Marilyn Webb builds her account around intimate portraits of the dying themselves She explains why some deaths become shockingly difficult and needlessly painful and how the struggles over end of life decisions can pit patient and family against hospitals doctors insurance companies religious groups and the law But there is good news as well Webb describes many extraordinary programs and individuals who are changing the face of dying An abundant source of comfort and hope The Good Death shows how the essential elements of humane even uplifted death are available to all of us if we know what is possible where to go for help and how to prepare

A Good Death Sandra Martin, 2016-04-12 Having a good death is our final human right argues Sandra Martin in this updated and expanded version of her bestselling and award winning social history of the right to die movement in Canada and around the world Winner of the BC National Award for Canadian Non Fiction finalist for both the Donner Prize in Public Policy and the Dafoe Prize for History A Good Death has a new chapter on Canada's Medical Assistance in Dying Law The law allows mentally competent adults who are suffering grievously from incurable conditions to ask for a doctor's help in ending their lives Does the law go far enough No says

Martin She delivers compelling stories about the patients the law ignores people with life crushing diseases who are condemned to suffer because their natural deaths are not reasonably foreseeable With a clear analytical eye she exposes the law s shortcomings and outlines constitutional challenges including the presumed right of publicly funded faith based institutions to deny suffering patients a legal medical service Martin argues that Canada can set an example for the world if it can strike a balance between compassion for the suffering and protection of the vulnerable between individual choice and social responsibility A Good Death asks the tough question none of us can avoid How do you want to die The answer will change your life and your death An excellent new book The timeliness is hard to overstate The Globe and Mail What truly distinguishes this book is the reportage on individuals and families who have fought to arrange for a better death These first hand experiences are the beating heart of a timely and powerful examination 2017 BC National Award for Canadian Non Fiction Jury Citation The Good Death Suzanne B. O'Brien, 2025-03-20 There is no harder life experience than caring for a loved one who is dying This book will empower you approach this monumental transition with empathy patience and peace of mind After working as a hospice nurse for many years Suzanne O'Brien founded the DoulaGivers Institute in 2012 which has since trained hundreds of thousands of death doulas around the world to provide a peaceful and dignified death for loved ones and their families The Good Death brings together everything Suzanne has learned during her decades in healthcare to provide you with a simple step by step guide to preparing for the future death of someone close to you as well as helping them through the actual passing when the time comes Full of practical tools to approach the death of a loved one with dignity knowledge and compassion this book will equip you with everything you need to know to prepare for a financial physical mental emotional and spiritually good death both for you and for your loved one Death, Society, and Human

Constantinou, 2014-05-29 This inspirational new text covers the basic principles of the sociology of health and illness in an eminently readable way By creatively employing the fictitious character of Frank Bennet a new medical student who cannot understand why he has to attend so many sessions in sociology in order to become a doctor the book examines the most commonl

Representations of Death Mary Bradbury, 2012-11-12 Drawing upon a rare and highly original ethnography of contemporary mortuary practices Representations of Death takes the reader through the medical bureaucratic commercial and ritual aspects of death Going behind the scenes at hospitals funeral parlours crematoria and cemeteries as well as holding poignant in depth interviews with bereaved women Bradbury has been able to illuminate the very different perspectives of the deathwork professional and the grieving relative Illustrated with stunning photographs this fascinating book makes a significant contribution to the growing literature in death studies

Palliative Care for Care Homes Christine Reddall, 2009 Care home workers increasingly work with people nearing the end of their lives including people with medically complex conditions However many do not have a medical background and find that practical advice on how to address these people s very specific needs is scarce In this book Christine Reddall draws on almost four decades of nursing experience to create a clear and easy to read handbook primarily for workers caring for the dying in care homes but which will also be of interest to family members caring for relatives with life threatening conditions This is a resource book to provide information on palliative care It is designed primarily to help carers who work in care homes of all categories To my knowledge this is the first book written solely for carers working in care homes that addresses the issues of caring for someone with palliative care needs However people with whom I have spoken to about this book or who have read parts of it have all said that it would also be a helpful resource to non professional family carers who care for a family member in their own home The style of this book is designed to be readable by all levels of carers and I have endeavoured to keep the language and text as non medical as possible I have tried to put myself in the shoes of carers especially those without medical training and think of what they want to know when caring for someone with a life threatening illness Christine Reddall in her Preface

Still Here Bunty Avieson, Fiona Giles, Sue Joseph, 2019-04-12 Still Here Memoirs of Trauma Illness and Loss explores the history ethics and cross cultural range of memoirs focusing on illness death loss displacement and other experiences of trauma From Walt Whitman s Civil War diaries to kitchen table survivor to survivor storytelling following Hurricane Katrina from social media posts from a refugee detention centre to poetry by exiles fleeing war zones the collection investigates trauma memoir writing as healing as documentation of suffering and disability and as political activism Editors Bunty Avieson Fiona Giles and Sue Joseph have brought together this scholarly collection as a sequel to their earlier Mediating Memory Routledge 2018 providing a closer look at the specific concerns of trauma memoir including conflict and intergenerational trauma the therapeutic potential and risks of trauma life writing its ethical challenges and trauma memoir giving voice to minority experiences

The Martial Ethic in Early Modern Germany B.
