Images And Visions From Marble:

Images and Visions from Marble Arsen Pankovich, 2001 Fabric of Vision Anne Hollander, 2016-09-22 Clothing appears in all forms of figurative painting often taking up two thirds of a frame yet it can often go unnoticed Far more than a simple means of identifying the status or occupation of a figure clothes and cloth are used creatively by artists to hint at ambiguities in character adjust the emotional temperature direct the eye or make subtle allusions Drawing on works by artists over a period of six centuries from Giotto to El Greco Matisse to Cindy Sherman the author reveals through paintings fashion plates photographs and film stills how drapery in art evolved from Renaissance extravagance to Neoclassical simplicity at the end of the 18th century and has extended to infinite uses in all genres of Modern art First published in 2002 to accompany an exhibition of the same name at the National Gallery London this beautifully illustrated and beautifully written book by pioneering art historian and critic Anne Hollander is reissued with a new Foreword by Valerie Steele As penetrating and insightful as when it was first published it remains a must read for today s generation of students and anyone with an interest in art and fashion Gaze, Vision, and Visuality in Ancient Greek Literature Alexandros Kampakoglou, Anna Novokhatko, 2018-03-05 Visual culture performance and spectacle lay at the heart of all aspects of ancient Greek daily routine such as court and assembly cult and ritual and art and culture Seeing was considered the most secure means of obtaining knowledge with many citing the etymological connection between seeing and knowing in ancient Greek as evidence for this Seeing was also however often associated with mere appearances false perception and deception Gazing and visuality in the ancient Greek world have had a central place in the scholarship for some time now enjoying an abundance of pertinent discussions and bibliography If this book differs from the previous publications it is in its emphasis on diverse genres the concepts gaze vision and visuality are considered across different Greek genres and media The recipients of ancient Greek literature both oral and written were encouraged to perceive the narrated scenes as spectacles and to follow the gaze of the characters in the narrative By setting a broad time span the evolution of visual culture in Greece is tracked while also addressing broader topics such as theories of vision the prominence of visuality in specific time periods and the position of visuality in a hierarchisation of the senses Image Pattern and Moral Vision in John Webster Floyd Lowell Goodwyn, 1977 The Vision Revolution Mark Changizi, 2010-06-08 In The Vision Revolution How the Latest Research Overturns Everything We Thought We Knew About Human Vision Mark Changizi prominent neuroscientist and vision expert addresses four areas of human vision and provides explanations for why we have those particular abilities complete with a number of full color illustrations to demonstrate his conclusions and to engage the reader Written for both the casual reader and the science buff hungry for new information The Vision Revolution is a resource that dispels commonly believed perceptions about sight and offers answers drawn from the field s most recent research Changizi focuses on four why questions 1 Why do we see in color 2 Why do our eyes face forward 3 Why do we see illusions 4 Why does reading come

so naturally to us

Why Do We See in Color

It was commonly believed that color vision evolved to help our primitive ancestors identify ripe fruit Changizi says we should look closer to home ourselves Human color vision evolved to give us greater insights into the mental states and health of other people People who can see color changes in skin have an advantage over their color blind counterparts they can see when people are blushing with embarrassment purple faced with exertion or the reddening of rashes Changizi's research reveals that the cones in our eyes that allow us to see color are exquisitely designed exactly for seeing color changes in the skin And it's no coincidence that the primates with color vision are the ones with bare spots on their faces and other body parts Changizi shows that the development of color vision in higher primates closely parallels the loss of facial hair culminating in the near hairlessness and highly developed color vision of humans

Why Do Our Eyes Face Forward

Forward facing eyes set us apart from most mammals and there is much dispute as to why we have them While some speculate that we evolved this feature to give us depth perception available through stereo vision this type of vision only allows us to see short distances and we already have other mechanisms that help us to estimate distance Changizi's research shows that with two forward facing eyes primates and humans have an x-ray ability Specifically we're able to see through the cluttered leaves of the forest environment in which we evolved This feature helps primates see their targets in a crowded encroached environment To see how this works hold a finger in front of your eyes You'll find that you're able to look through it at what is beyond your finger One of the most amazing feats of two forward facing eyes Our views aren't blocked by our noses beaks etc

Why Do We See Illusions

We evolved to see moving objects not where they are but where they are going to be Without this ability we couldn't catch a ball because the brain's ability to process visual information isn't fast enough to allow us to put our hands in the right place to intersect for a rapidly approaching baseball If our brains simply created a perception of the way the world was at the time light hit the eye then by the time that perception was elicited which takes about a tenth of a second for the brain to do time would have marched on and the perception would be of the recent past Changizi explains Simply put illusions occur when our brain is tricked into thinking that a stationary two dimensional picture has an element that is moving Our brains project the moving element into the future and as a result we don't see what's on the page but what our brain thinks will be the case a fraction of a second into the future

Why Does Reading Come So Naturally to Us

We can read faster than we can hear which is odd considering that reading is relatively recent

Race and Vision in the Nineteenth-Century United States

Shirley Samuels, 2019-11-08 Race and Vision in the Nineteenth Century United States is a collection of twelve essays by cultural critics that exposes how fraught relations of identity and race appear through imaging technologies in architecture scientific discourse sculpture photography painting music theater and finally the twenty first century visual commentary of Kara Walker Throughout these essays the racial practices of the nineteenth century are juxtaposed with literary practices involving some of the most prominent writers about race and identity such as Herman Melville and Harriet Beecher Stowe as well as the technologies of performance including theater and music Recent work in critical theories of vision technology and the production of ideas about racial discourse has emphasized the inextricability of photography with notions of race and American identity The collected essays provide a vivid sense of how imagery about race appears in the formative period of the nineteenth century United States Sight Joseph LeConte,1881
