My Dear Wife,

When I wrote yesterday I did not expect we would come back here for water and wood; but such having been the case I am happy it was so ordered for it gives me an other opportunity to renew my many pleasant and affectionate communications with my dear family.

We will soon return to the South (or north) where we had generously tendered us all the ice we can take, and plenty of saw dust to pack it in. So we pack one of our boats full, refrigerator full, & take a few meals of fresh meats.

This morning we bought of the slaves, a potent pile full of black berries, a bush of tomatoes and a bush of new potatoes; thus adding greatly to our comfort.

Letters From A Civil War Surgeon:

Letters Of A Civil War Surgeon Major William Watson, 2015-11-06 From September 1862 until May 1865 Major William Watson served as surgeon with the 105th Regiment of Pennsylvania Volunteers which fought at Fredericksburg Chancellorsville Gettysburg the Wilderness and elsewhere Over the course of three years at war he wrote 91 letters to his family in which he describes his own war against death and disease This well educated and sensitive young man has left us a variety of impressions of camp life marches and battles of a soldier's matter of fact willingness to accept though not without grumbling the rigors of his lot of concern with the job at hand and with immediate needs like food and shelter and of a veteran's indifference to the flag waving of professional patriots In spite of his often acute criticisms of the Union's military leadership Watson never faltered in his belief in the Union cause and the ultimate outcome of the war nor in his dedication to Lincoln's major goals Print ed

The Journal of a Civil War Surgeon Jonah Franklin Dyer, 2003-01-01 J Franklin Dyer's journal offers a rare perspective on three years of the Civil War as seen through the eyes of a surgeon at the front The journal taken from letters written to his wife Maria describes in lengthy and colorful detail the daily life of a doctor who began as a regimental surgeon in the Nineteenth Massachusetts Volunteers and was promoted to acting medical director of the Second Corps Army of the Potomac This firsthand account traces Dyer's attempts to manage his Gloucester household even as the Second Corps fought on the Peninsula at Second Bull Run Antietam Fredericksburg Chancellorsville

Gettysburg and from the Wilderness to Petersburg Over time his letters to his wife become fraught with the tension of a man losing his early martial ardor as he witnesses the ghastly procession of suffering and death Both a talented surgeon and a careful administrator Dyer nevertheless declined opportunities to work at hospitals in the rear in order to stay near his old regiment and the fighting He confronted the aftermath of battle thousands of wounded and dying men with a small staff and simple instruments He and his fellow surgeons saved lives as best they could often at the cost of amputated limbs then dropped to the ground from exhaustion and slept in blood drenched uniforms until the cries of the wounded woke them and induced them back to work Dyer also provides a glimpse of the most devastating opponent the armies faced disease He and his medical colleagues fought cholera typhus dysentery measles and despite official denials in Washington a scurvy outbreak that weakened Federal units during the Peninsula campaign
