The Colonial Unconscious Elizabeth Ezra, 2018-10-18 France between the two World Wars was pervaded by representations of its own colonial power expressed forcefully in the human displays at the expositions coloniales films starring Josephine Baker and the short stories of Paul Morand and more subtly in the avant garde writings of Ren Crevel and Raymond Roussel In her lively book Elizabeth Ezra interprets a fascinating array of cultural products to uncover what she terms the colonial unconscious of the Jazz Age the simultaneous attraction and repulsion of exoticism and the double bind of a colonial discourse that foreclosed the possibility of the very assimilation it invited Ezra situates the apotheosis of French colonialism in relation to both the internal tensions of the colonial project and the competing imperialisms of Great Britain and the United States Examining both the uses and the limits of psychoanalytic theories of empire she proposes a reading of French colonialism which while historically specific also contributes to our understanding of contemporary culture The enduring legacy of empire is felt to this day as Ezra demonstrates in a provocative epilogue on the remarkable similarities between the rhetoric of colonial France and accounts of the French victory in the 1998 World Cup

European Empires of Belgium Denmark France G L'illustration, 1886 Nationalists and Nomads Christopher L. Miller, 1998 How does African literature written in French change the way we think about nationalism colonialism and postcolonialism How does it imagine the encounter between Africans and French And what does the study of African literature bring to the fields of literary and cultural studies Christopher L Miller explores these and other questions in Nationalists and Nomads Miller ranges from the beginnings of francophone African literature which he traces not to the 1930s Negritude movement but to the largely unknown virulently radical writings of Africans in Paris in the 1920s to the evolving relations between African literature and nationalism in the 1980s and 1990s Throughout he aims to offset the contemporary emphasis on the postcolonial at the expense of the colonial arguing that both are equally complex with powerful ambiguities Arguing against blanket advocacy of any one model such as nationalism or hybridity to explain these ambiguities Miller instead seeks a form of thought that can read and recognize the realities of both identity and difference

Narratives of the French Empire Kate Marsh, 2013-08-28 This study interrogates how the French empire was imagined in three literary representations of French colonialism the conquest of Tahiti and the established colonial systems in Martinique and in India The study is the first in either English or French to demonstrate that representations of power relations as well as the broader discourses with which they were linked were as closely concerned with probing the similarities and differences of rival European colonial systems as they were with reinforcing their imagined superiority over the colonized and that such power relations should not be conceptualized as a dualistic categorization of colonizer versus colonized In doing so it aims to go beyond examining the interaction between colonized and colonizer or between colonial centre and periphery and to interrogate instead the circulation of ideas and practices across different sites of European colonialism drawing attention to a historical complexity which has been neglected in the necessary race to recover voices previously occluded from academic analysis In exploring how the notion of the French empire overseas was construed and how it was infused with meaning at three different historical moments 1784 1835 and 1938 it demonstrates how precarious the French empire was perceived to be in terms of both European rivalry and resistance from the colonized and how the rhetoric of a French colonisation douce was pitted against the inscribed excesses of the more powerful British empire Rather than employing the sorts of recuperative agenda which focus on how the colonized were elided viz Subaltern Studies or on the writings of the formerly colonized viz Francophone Studies the study concerns itself specifically with how French colonialism and imperialism were perceived and thus offers a further corrective to any generalizations about European colonialism and imperialism More particularly by examining how the representational strategy of nostalgia is used in these texts the study demonstrates how perceived loss and nostalgia for an imperial past played a role in dynamically shaping the French colonial enterprise across its various manifestations
